Observer Poll Says Solons Against ECU

The Charlotte Observer has released a poll which says the state legislators are opposed to making East Carolina College a university independent of the Consolidated University. In a mail questionnaire to legislators, the Observer asked this question: "Do you favor separate university status for East Carolina College?"

Eighty two replied, with 49 answering no, 14 answering yes and 19 giving no answer. Postmarks on the replies indicated 12 were mailed from the West, 36 from the Piedmont and 34 from the East. Of the legislators from the East, 13 favored independent status for ECC, 10 said they didn't and 11 gave no answer. Only one of the 48 legislators from the Piedmont and West said he favored separate university status for ECC, and he added a question mark beside his answer to indicate he had some doubts. Eight others gave no answer. While the questionnaire was not intended to forecast the vote on the question, it does reflect legislative sentiment at this time.

Stolen Car Reward

A UNC senior from Huntington, Long Island is offering a $50 reward for information leading to the recovering of his stolen automobile.

The car—a red 1962 Chevrolet "409" convertible with black top, black leather interior, head rests, roll bar, three lucas running lights on front bumper, mag wheels and New York state license plates — was last seen late Sunday evening parked on W. Cameron Ave. in front of the Chi Psi lodge.

Anyone who has seen the car since that time may contact its owner, Bill Johnson at 968-9062, or the Chapel Hill Police Department.

Red Guards—Pogroms?

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A dispatch from Peking said today Red China's militant young Red Guards had killed several Communist Party officials in the northern city of Tientsin.

"In some places, the Red Guard activities resemble real pogroms," wrote Daniel Lulinski, Peking correspondent for the Polish Communist Party newspaper Trybuna Ludu.

Quoting provincial newspapers and posters in Peking, Lulinski reported the Secretary of the Tientsin Communist Party Committee, a factory cell secretary and other party workers were slain.

The feeling in Peking, he added, is that the cultural revolution—the Chinese name for the purge sweeping China with the help of the Red Guards—has entered "a new state of preparation for new personnel changes on various levels of party leadership."

This view was supported by Peking correspondent of the Hungarian News Agency MTI. The correspondent reported local party committees were being assailed by the Red Guards and others for "attempts to curb the revolutionary swing of the masses."

The correspondent added that the journal of the Red Guards of Harbin, Manchuria, announced the dismissal of the entire party committee of Heilongkiang Province on similar charges.

The correspondent posed this question: "What organizations do the Red Guards consider to be competent to regulate their own acts? In fact, it seems any organization is liable to have a verdict against it, decided it seems on the spur of the moment."

A Chinese-language broadcast from Peking warned even the highest ranking members of the party to get into line.
