Candidate Tyndall Defies Party System

(Continued From Page 1) was enthusiasm far beyond the freshman class. Last Tuesday night Tyndall sat in a room in Graham Memorial beneath a huge sheet of paper which hours later would record his defeat.

"A person has as much freedom as he is willing to exercise but usually he sits down and lets others do it for him." Tyndall looked more tired than nervous. But he talked with such enthusiasm that the words didn't sound like he'd said them hundreds of times before.

Creighton Shirts are more traditional at The University of North Carolina

Masters of the prescribed classics will find great interest in the Creighton brawny twill oxford shirt. Exclusive yarn-dyed fabric makes the most of a crisp interpretation of dashing, bold stripes...ginger on blue, claret on maize, and navy on linen.

"I have tried to carry out a campaign which stresses individual thought and enthusiasm. "I don't know if I'll win. The fact that my name wasn't on the ballot will hurt me." The absence of his name on the ballot probably caused Tyndall's defeat.

The winners and the elections have survived the presence of the 18-year-old freshmen. And maybe they've learned a little from it.
