

Frosh Booters Post Two More Victories

By HAL STRICKLAND
DTH Sports Writer

Against its toughest competition of the season, Carolina's freshman soccer team chalked up one victory and one tie, thus remaining the school's only undefeated team of the season. In its first game, the team demolished Appalachian State by 5-1, and in the second, Warren Wilson managed a 1-1 tie in the last 30 seconds.

The frosh started sluggishly in Friday's contest with Appalachian State's varsity, who had previously tied N. C. State. Todd Hunt's beautiful 25-yarder was later matched by an Appalachian goal to tie the score at 1-1. Seconds after, however, Louis Bush put Carolina ahead to stay by alertly pouncing on a loose ball at the goal.

In the second half, shots by Bush again, Marc Rash, and Mark Packard brought the final score to 5-1. On one rare occasion, Louis drastically miscued a penalty kick. When an Appalachian player blew an identical opportunity, Coach Ross quipped, "That's the second worse try I've ever seen."

At Warren Wilson, a state junior college, Carolina's freshmen encountered formidable opposition from an undefeated team that has been an NCAA small college soccer power for several years. The school offers an agricultural training program for foreign students, and nine of its team's eleven players are foreign.

The game was a real challenge for both teams, and Carolina responded with a great show of hustle and teamwork. With Warren Wilson keeping the ball in the air, the game was fast and tiring. Through 3 and 9-10 quarters, the only score was right wing Peter Nesbit's heading of a beautiful Packard cross in front of the nets. Then, with 30 seconds remaining, Wilson put together a scoring combination to tie the regulation game at one all. And there the score stood through two overtime periods.

Did you like beer the first time you tasted it?

A lot of people say no. They say beer is one of those good things you cultivate a taste for... like olives, or scotch, or kumquats.

Maybe. But we think it makes a difference which brand of beer we're talking about.

We think Budweiser is an exception to this "you've gotta get used to it" rule. It's so smooth. (You see, no other beer is Beechwood Aged; it's a costly way to brew beer, and it takes more time. But it works.)

So whether you're one of the few who has never tried beer, or a beer drinker who suddenly feels the urge to find out why so many people enjoy Budweiser, we think you'll like it. From the very first taste.

Whenever I think of North Carolina and Air Force, my mind wanders back to that glorious day in December of 1963 at the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla.

The Tar Heels had put together an 8-2 season climaxed with a 16-14 win over Dook and received the bid to play in the bowl. Gator Bowl scouts looked around for quite some time before coming up with Air Force, also 8-2, as the Carolina opponent. The teams appeared to be evenly matched, and some observers favored the Falcons slightly.

No one was ready for what happened that day. A team led by Junior Edge, Ken Willard, Ed Kessler, Gene Sigmon, Bob Lacey, Gary Black, Chris Hanburger and many, many others performed to perfection. The offense was a machine of precision. The defense completely throttled the Air Force hot-shot quarterback, Terry Isaacson.

When the dust cleared, the Tar Heels had come out with most lopsided victory in Gator Bowl history, 35-0. Only because Coach Jim Hickey played the third-stringers the entire fourth quarter did the score not climb still higher. It was too bad the Tar Heels couldn't have been playing Texas, the number one team in the country that year. It would have been most interesting.

However, all the reminiscing in the world will not erase the sad records of each team coming into Saturday's game. Both have lost four straight, and have been unimpressive doing it. The Falcons will be keeping that 35-0 debacle in mind and this may give them an incentive.

As for Carolina, they have an incentive all right—to score a touchdown. In the last four games UNC has scored six points and surrendered 90. I don't know about anyone else, but if we score Saturday I'm going to carry the player who did it off on my shoulders.

Coach Jim Hickey said that his club played the worst game of the season against Clemson last week. By a stroke of luck, the squad came out of the game intact. In fact, Lyn Duncan, defensive end, is back off the injury list and guard Chuck Alexander may be ready to go. As for Danny Talbot, the situation is the same—able to play but likely to be injured any time he gets tackled.

Air Force likes to do wild things, such as having the tight end throw a pass. They tried that against Stanford last week, but it was incomplete. Coach Ben Martin, who used to be at Virginia, usually has a wrinkle or two up his sleeve every week.

The Falcons won three in a row early this year, including a 10-0 win over Washington, the team that beat UCLA. But since then their number on quarterback, Sonny Litz, has been dismissed from the Academy because of disciplinary reasons and the Falcon football fortunes have turned for the worse without him.

Plight Of A Red Shirt All Work And No Play

By JOEY LEIGH
DTH Sports Writer

Carolina's varsity football team is composed of the traveling squad and the red shirts. Red shirts? Who in the world are they? Do you really know what makes up this segment of football?

Sometimes called the "scout squad" or "taxi team," the red shirts are composed of football players who are being "held out" for the season. Too much depth at one position and the need for gathering experience are the prime criteria behind a player's selection to this group.

What is the life of a red shirt like? How does he differ from the Saturday starter? Defensive red shirt lineman Bob Connolly stated, "We do everything they do in practice, except we don't play on Saturday."

When he said everything, he meant exactly that. In the spring, the late summer and all of the fall, you will, of course, find the first couple of teams "knocking heads", but right along side of them, there will be the red shirts.

The job of the scout squad is to prepare the offensive and defensive teams for the upcoming game on Saturday. The defense runs defense of the opposing team, whether it be a 6-2, a 4-3 or a straight 70.

"We get in the set defense," said Connolly, a 6' 1", 225 pounder, "and run it all week. Talbot, Beaver and Kars run every play we have against it. Before the week starts, we have to watch films and learn how we're supposed to react. The offensive blocking assignments change according to the defense."

Spring practice decides who is to be red shirted. The team a person is "running on" in the spring determines this. The coaches' minds are pretty well made up by the fall.

What makes a red shirt tick? Either the guy would have to be extremely devoted to football and Carolina or he should have his head examined. The former seems to be the case.

"The greatest satisfaction," stated Connolly, "comes when we get a chance to scrimmage or go one on one. It is also rewarding to feel that you had a part in preparing the team for the games."

Kicking Race

(AP) — Only four-fifths of a yard separates the two top punters in the torrid race for Atlantic Coast Conference kicking honors.

Clemson's Don Barfield paces the punters with a 40.8 average but right behind is Maryland's Billy Van Heusen with 40.0.

Dave Dunaway of Duke dropped off the pace with a sub-par day against Navy, the wind playing havoc with some of his boots. Dunaway, the early season leader, is now third with 38.7.

Frank Quayle of Virginia and Gary Rowe of N. C. State are still waging a hot battle for kickoff return honors.

Quayle has returned 21 kick-offs for 430 yards while Rowe has 422 yards on 17 returns. Rowe, however, has the best average, 24.8 yards per runback.
