Brown's Babies Turn Back Imps

BY OWEN DAVIS

Carolina's Tar Babies combined good outside shooting and the fast break to conquer an improved Duke team 85-72 here Friday night. UNC never trailed in the contest and controlled play throughout the sharp-shooting Imps. Carolina now has a 7-0 record.

Duke showed much improvement from an early-season 19-point setback to the Tar Babies and actually outshot UNC both from the floor and the foul line.

The crowd of about 5,000 came to see Charlie Scott in action and Scott obliged them with 21 points and 11 rebounds plus a display of fancy ball-handling. The former Laurinburg star drew frequent applause for his passing which set up many UNC baskets.

Gra Whitehead did not miss on seven free throw attempts and put in 17 points. Eddie Fogler again quarterbacked the offense and flipped in 16 markers, followed by Jim Delaney with 12 and Al Armour with 11.

The visiting Imps played a much-improved floor game although Carolina was still able to take advantage of many steals. Doug Jackson led Duke scoring with 20 markers from under the basket and Ray Kuhlmeier added 16 from outside.

The Tar Babies jumped off to a lead before Duke broke into the scoring column. Carolina extended its margin to 22-11 but accurate Imp shooting prevented the Tar Babies from grabbing a commanding lead.

At halftime, UNC was on top by a 46-34 score. Scott had 14 by the half and Fogler and Whitehead had 10 each.

Action slowed down in the second half, chiefly because Carolina put on a semi-freeze. The Tar Babies kept a 15-point lead through most of the remainder although Duke whittled the margin to 8 at 53-45 and again to 10 at 78-68. The Imps were unable to move closer, however.

Duke threw up a 2-3 zone against UNC but Fogler and Delaney shot holes through the zone with accurate outside shooting. The visitors finally came out of the zone to a man-to-man in the late stages when Carolina slowed down play.

The Tar Babies' tight man-to-man enabled them to pull off many thefts from the slower Imps.

Duke hit a good 52.9 per cent of its field goal attempts while UNC slacked off with a 50.7 mark.

Heels Down Devils, 59-56

Larry Miller did it again yesterday.

Dick Grubar passed downcourt to Rusty Clark with the score tied 56-56. Clark found Miller near the basket and the big Pennsylvanian drove the ball up and in with six seconds showing on the scoreboard to defeat Duke University.

Six seconds is a long time in a cliffhanger like yesterday's ballgame which saw the lead and momentum sway back and forth between the two teams. Conceivably, the Blue Devils could have sent a man driving towards the basket for a three point play.

The UNC Swimming Team opened 1967 with a 64-31 victory over Wake Forest in Winston-Salem yesterday. It was the swimmer's sixth victory in seven meets.

But a young man lost his head during the confusion which followed Miller's score. Stuart McKaig called a time out with just three vital seconds remaining. It was one too many, and the ref called a technical.

With the 8,800 capacity filling The Indoor Stadium with confused boos Bob Lewis calmly stood at the foul line and added one point to Carolina's total.

When the gun exploded the Tar Heels ended a precarious week with a 59-56 win over Vic Bubas and his incomplete squad.

Duke's head coach reinstated his two big men, Mike Lewis and Steve Vandenberg, along with several subs. But he kept two starters, Bob Riedy and Dave Golden, glued to the bench.

The win was the first for any visiting team in the Devil's palace for two years and twenty games. It was the first since Dean Smith sent Billy Cunningham and a sophomore named Bob Lewis to work before Duke's student body.

Smith wrote the triumph by tearing a page from history. The Tar Heels shocked a capacity crowd in Lexington, Kentucky. Just when the game's momentum had turned the way of the speedy Wildcats, Smith sent in Gerald Tuttle and his patented four-corner stall.

With more than 16 minutes remaining to be played in the game Carolina had a ten point lead, 45-35, and looked like it would race to the finish line with an easy win. Two minutes later the momentum shifted.

Bob Verga put his ack-ack aside and found a path to the basket. Ron Wendelein hit a jumper from the key. Then Jim Liccardo and Vandenberg made good on foul shots. Suddenly with the screaming fans on their feet the Blue Devils had cut Carolina's lead to six, 48-42.

Enter Mr. Tuttle and along with him the stall.

The four corner stall ate nine and a half minutes off of the scoreboard clock without a Duke field goal.

In an instant Carolina's stall collapsed. Sophomore forward C. B. Clairborne was fouled by Lewis. He hit his first from the charity line and his second was rebounded by Jim Liccardo, who twisted the ball through the basket. Seconds later Verga stole the ball and made good on an easy layup.

Mike Lewis followed his captain's example with 4:31 remaining, and the Blue Devils were back in the game 53-50.

The Tar Heels hung on to their precarious lead by calmly ignoring the noise of the frantic crowd. They waited for a man open under the basket.

Bob Verga tied the score at 56-56 with 16 seconds remaining.

Then Larry Miller repeated the dramatics he displayed against Wake Forest on Wednesday night.

There weren't any individual heroes for Carolina. It was a team effort right from the opening tap-off.

But Bob Lewis was the team's high scorer with 17 points. "Lewis returned to his old self," Smith said.

Harriers Top Duke, State

By DRUMMOND BELL
DTH Sports Writer

Carolina took seven firsts and six seconds to decisively win their first triangular track meet over arch-rivals Duke and N. C. State in the Tin Can yesterday by the score of 64-32-29.

In the field events Carolina scored strongly as soph Mike Richey and Tim Farmer gave Carolina first and second in the shotput. Richey heaved the shot 49'6 3/4" for top honors.

Carolina came through with another one - two sweep in the high jump. Sophomore Dave Lassiter cleared 6'5" to beat teammate Dan Lowman. In the pole vault Duke's Brown won the event with a 13'6" effort as Carolina's Bob Davila and Archie Hicks finished second and third respectively.

Gary Iverson started the season well in the broad jump where he outdistanced Duke's Culver with a 20' 11 1/2" leap.

Conference champion Jon Levin showed his past form as he breezed to 6.3 clocking in the 60 yd. dash. Sophomore Dave Cannady added depth to the event as he placed third.

Conference title-holder Mike Williams ran an exceptionally fast mile for this early in the season as his time of 4:10 was too much for Duke's Fred Stenberg, who finished second with a 4:14 ahead of Carolina soph Truitt Goodwin.

In the quarter the thincad's Ed Daw lead most of the way, but N. C. State's England caught him on the last curve and won in 51.0 seconds.

Bill Bassett, who ran a 4:20 mile earlier this season, won the half in the fine time of 1:56.7. Soph Kent Autry finished fourth for the Tar Heels.

In the hurdles Duke's Martin and Fraser took one-two ahead of Carolina's Lowry and Lassiter. Carolina's two mile relay team came from behind to win in 8:19.2. In the final event of the day, the one mile relay, Carolina lost to State as a bad exchange between Levin and Williams was the difference.

In the freshmen meet Carolina lost her first meet in over a year as Duke edged them 48-41.

Yesterday's meet showed that the sophomores are ready for varsity competition. It also showed that Mike Williams has the potential to be Carolina's finest distance man since Jim Beatty.

Carolina's next meet is this coming Friday against Duke in the Tin Can and after this one, Coach Hilton will send his team to the VMI Relays.
