

The Daily Tar Heel

'To Write Well Is Better Than To Rule'

Quarterly Interviews
Candidates for editor of the 1967-68 Carolina Quarterly will be interviewed by the Publications Board at its meeting tonight at 8 p.m. on the second floor of G.M. The board will also interview candidates for editorship for Course Evaluation Booklet.

Volume 74, Number 97

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1967

Founded February 23, 1893

ISB Meeting

There will be a meeting of the International Students Board at 4:00 p.m. today upstairs in the second floor of the YMCA building. All members please try to be present and wear appropriate dress to have pictures made for the Yack.

AFTER THE SNOW and storm the clouds slowly slip apart, the sun breaks through for a moment, and as dusk falls and gold streaks the sky, the promise of spring is in the sky. —DTH Photo by Ernest Robl

Gen. Hershey: 'Even More Should Be Drafted Now...'

By DON CAMPBELL
DTH Staff Writer

Lewis Hershey

DURHAM — "The draft law is okay like it is, as far as I'm concerned," Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, said Monday afternoon.

"The only change I would make would be the drafting of more people than we presently do," Hershey told a news conference in Page Auditorium on the Duke University campus.

"We ought to train nearly everybody," he said.

Hershey said two and one quarter million American males are exempted "because they fail the mental exam given before induction."

"Most of these people could be used," Hershey explained, "in fact I'd give that mental exam at the end of their service period."

Hershey is not in favor of eliminating student deferments, nor is he in favor of a lottery system.

"What would you do with all those students deferred?" he asked, "Last year we had more deferments than draftees."

Concerning the possibilities of a lottery, Hershey said flatly, "It won't work."

"People are always advocating a lottery," he said, "but they never give any details on how to make it work. We have 5,000 males in this country who become 18 ever day, are they to be added to the pool every day, or at the end of a year, or what?"

"Are we going to draw names once per year, or how often? How about those people who aren't mentally or physically capable. Are they going to be added to the pool or are they going to be tested first?"

"We had a lottery back in 1940," Hershey said, "it didn't work then and it won't work now."

Hershey was asked his opinion about draft card burnings and Monday's decision by the Supreme Court to uphold Government prosecution of draft card burners.

"I believe it's always been against the law to burn your draft card," Hershey said. "But the Selective Service System has never prosecuted draft burners, it has only reported them."

"People who burn their draft cards are also burning their bridges behind them," Hershey continued. "They want to be martyred."

"If these 'misbehaviors' were drafted, given three meals a day and disciplined, it would be good for them," Hershey said.

Asked about the study on the draft made by the National Commission on Selective Service (expected to be made public later this week), Hershey said he had been consulted by the commission but did not know what they would recommend "other than what he read in the New York Times."

The Associated Press reported last week that the study would recommend the drafting of younger men first and also a national lottery.

Besides being opposed to a lottery, Hershey said he wasn't in favor of lowering the age given priority for drafting.

"The study will go to the President," Hershey said. "If he supports drafting the younger men first, then I'll support his decision. If he sends the study on to Congress for their recommendations and they ask my feelings, I'll advise that the present priorities on draft ages be retained."

The AP reported that the draft study commission would recommend that a national draft call should be established in place of the current method of assigning quotas on a local basis.

This, the commission members feel, would insure that no area of region would begin drafting men of a lower priority until all other draft boards had exhausted the same category.

Memberships in SP

The Student Party Sunday night denied membership to members of the Student Party who are also University Party officials.

The proposal was introduced by Arthur Hayes. Bob Travis, chairman of the Student Party, cast the deciding vote to break a tie on the motion.

Students Asked To Aid Parents

The YM - YWCA Umstead Committee is asking interested students to help in working with patients at one of the state mental hospitals. Any student who has three hours of time available one day of the week is urged to help. Come by the Y office for further details.

UNC Debate Team Wins Second Place

The UNC Debate Team placed second in the ACC Tournament at Duke University last weekend.

Craig Bradley, senior and Debate Team President and sophomore Maurice Stocks took the affirmative side of the question of U. S. foreign policy commitments. They placed second to Virginia.

Freshmen Ted Culler and Tom Foster took the negative side and placed third behind

Duke and Virginia.

Carolina's team thus wound up second to Virginia in the tournament overall.

The tournament does not conclude the debating season as it does in athletic events.

Bradley and Stocks will represent UNC at a national tournament slated for Feb. 23 at Columbia University.

Students Asked To Aid Parents

The YM - YWCA Umstead Committee is asking interested students to help in working with patients at one of the state mental hospitals. Any student who has three hours of time available one day of the week is urged to help. Come by the Y office for further details.

UNC Debate Team Wins Second Place

The UNC Debate Team placed second in the ACC Tournament at Duke University last weekend.

Craig Bradley, senior and Debate Team President and sophomore Maurice Stocks took the affirmative side of the question of U. S. foreign policy commitments. They placed second to Virginia.

Freshmen Ted Culler and Tom Foster took the negative side and placed third behind

One Tenth Of Request Given Budget By Gov.

From Wire Reports

The Carolina Campus won approval for less than a tenth of its $66.7 million requests in the Advisory Budget Commission recommendations made to the General Assembly by Governor Moore in Raleigh last night.

A new wing on the Dental School and three new classroom buildings are among the major improvements here recommended by the governor and the Advisory Budget Commission.

The request was part of a record $179.7 million in capital improvements — most of it earmarked for higher education — the General Assembly was asked to approve.

North Carolina State University at Raleigh will get a new $3 million school of education and $8.7 million for renovation of buildings and other improvements if the legislature approves the recommendation.

In line with the governor's plan to build up the two smaller branches of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, about half the requests made by the Charlotte and Greensboro campuses are included in the budget recommendation for UNC-G, the newest and smallest branch of the university, is $10.4 million.

Approved in the Charlotte proposal are construction of a $3.2 million health and physical education facility, a $1.3 million fine arts building and a $1.6 million addition to the library.

Two dormitories to house 1,800 students and a new cafeteria were approved on a 50 per cent self-liquidating basis.

Construction of a nursing school, a $2 million addition to the present library and a new classroom building are among the $6.5 million in capital improvements recommended for UNC-G.

East Carolina College, whose bid for university status is expected to be a big issue in the current session, will get a $1.2 million science building if the capital improvements plan is accepted.

Requests for three new classroom buildings, a teaching laboratory and one of two new dormitories were deleted from the college's requests.

In other highlights of the budget message, Moore said he was firmly opposed to increasing the current ceiling of 6 per cent on interest rates.

The governor explained, "Because of the tight money situation, the question has been raised by some of our responsible citizens that the interest rate ceiling of 6 per cent be increased."

"I continue to be opposed. It is my hope that the tight money situation will ease and that the crisis in credit will pass. There are some indications that the severity of the problem is lessening."

Moore also called for a sharp increase in financial aid to the state's mental institutions, with $84.5 million in state funds, plus $10.5 million from other sources.

He called for an additional 697 employees in health and hospital services during the next biennium-647 of them in the mental health field.

He also asked more than $46 million to operate the State Department of Motor Vehicles with $3 million earmarked for highway safety.

This included $2.3 million for an additional 125 highway patrolmen, 7 the first year of the biennium and 50 more than second year.

The governor's public welfare budget jumped 26 per cent, with aid increased in many areas.

And Moore suggested the construction of four tourist welcome centers; expansion of the state's advertising program; and additional personnel and operating costs in forest fire control.

Ehringhaus

Gets New

Social Room

Residents of Ehringhaus Residence College will get an introduction to Southern comfort this week with the opening of their new social room, The Cellar.

Official opening of The Cellar will be Thursday night when Mrs. Otella Connor gives a lecture on "Southern Plantation Life."

The social room, recently furnished with lounge chairs and carpeting by Ehringhaus and formerly the athletic dining hall. Use of the room was discontinued by the Athletic Department after the resignation of Coach Hickey in November.

College Governor Allen Shepard said that use of The Cellar would be reserved for dating couples and parties on week-ends. During the week, the room will be used for lectures, executive meetings, and card tournaments.

Shepard added that some Experimental College night classes would probably be scheduled for The Cellar since tables and blackboards have already been installed in the room.

Morse Speaks

Senator Wayne L. Morse of Oregon will be one of the featured speakers at the 17th Annual North Carolina Conference on World Affairs to be held here March 9.

"Obstacles to World Order: The Citizen's Challenge" will be the theme of this year's conference, which will be held in Memorial Hall here.

Other speakers will include Dr. Dorothy Hutchinson, member of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and Dr. Seymour Melman, professor of economics at Columbia University.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. March 9 for all persons who wish to attend. The program will begin at 10 a.m.

Students Drink For 604 Hours

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP) — Weary, bleary and bloated, a dozen University of Michigan students stumbled from a pub last night after 604 hours of beer drinking and happily claimed a new record.

The 12 had been engaged in a social research program at a local tavern since Jan. 5.

Their happy revels ended, they completed the task of estimating how much beer they had consumed.

At the rate of 12 ounces every half-hour, this amounted to an intake of 16,496 ounces of brew. More meaningful, it added up to tighter skirts for the girls in the drinkathon, and stretched belts for the men.

The twelve students — nine men and three women — betook themselves to Fraser's Pub, last month with the intention of drowning out the old beer-drinking record of 302 hours set by the mighty Michigan State squad in 1956.

They foamed by the old record long ago. But their dedication to the game kept them drinking till Sunday night.

Why did they keep drinking? "Because it's there," said John Weiman, the team's most valuable player. He rolled up 9,462 ounces in frothage in this U-M version of the super bowl.

And why did they stop? Well, university officials reportedly started frothing at the mouth when they heard about the spree.

During the quaffing sessions three members of the team reported gaining five pounds.

But Ginger Redd, a pretty coed who has been cheering the team along right from the beginning of the campaign, said she's gained more than a few pounds.

Fortunately, the binge put no damper on Miss Redd's dating. Her boy friend, Jerry Anderson, was a member of the drinking group. "We were hardly ever more than a stein's throw away from each other," he gurgled.

Campus Briefs

UP Officer Denied Membership In SP

The Student Party Sunday night denied membership to members of the Student Party who are also University Party officials.

The proposal was introduced by Arthur Hayes. Bob Travis, chairman of the Student Party, cast the deciding vote to break a tie on the motion.

Students Asked To Aid Parents

The YM - YWCA Umstead Committee is asking interested students to help in working with patients at one of the state mental hospitals. Any student who has three hours of time available one day of the week is urged to help. Come by the Y office for further details.

UNC Debate Team Wins Second Place

The UNC Debate Team placed second in the ACC Tournament at Duke University last weekend.

Craig Bradley, senior and Debate Team President and sophomore Maurice Stocks took the affirmative side of the question of U. S. foreign policy commitments. They placed second to Virginia.

Freshmen Ted Culler and Tom Foster took the negative side and placed third behind

Duke and Virginia.

Carolina's team thus wound up second to Virginia in the tournament overall.

The tournament does not conclude the debating season as it does in athletic events.

Bradley and Stocks will represent UNC at a national tournament slated for Feb. 23 at Columbia University.

Cone Representative Picketed By Students

A Cone Mills representative who came to the University Monday to interview students for management positions was picketed by about 18 students led by student activist Chuck Schunior.

The students, many of whom participated in strike activities in Greensboro last week, marched in a circle outside Gardner Hall, where T. H. Ward Jr. was interviewing students in the Business School.

One of the signs read: "Help Abolish Slavery; Work For Someone Else."

Ann Schunior, a former graduate student at the University who helped organize the picketing, said Ward was picketed because he refused to discuss labor-management relations with UNC students last week.

Ward said the picketing did not affect his purpose in coming to UNC. He said he had a "full schedule" of interviews.

Vietnam Bombing Resumed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States resumed the bombing of North Vietnam today and President Johnson said "We had no alternative" because of Hanoi's actions.

But the President said again "We are prepared at any time to go more than half way to meet any equitable overture (for peace) from the other side."

Johnson charged in the statement that North Vietnam's only response to peace moves had been to mount "major resupply efforts of their troops in South Vietnam."

The end of the five - and - three - quarter day bombing suspension was announced by the Pentagon which stated shortly after 12:30 P.M. EST: "Combat operations against military targets in North Vietnam have now been resumed."

Examples of some of the courses offered are as follows: Peace and War:

1984: Can Man Survive? If not, why not? If so, why? Depending on student interests, this seminar will examine such processes as anxiety, aggression in man and other animals, collective psychopathology, poverty, power, the social and personality breakdown syndrome, and the fertility and fertilizer problem (the population explosion) as some of the crucial factors in the current issues of war or peace. Leader: Prof. Berton Kaplan.

Intermediate Chess Prerequisite: knowledge of the moves and some familiarity with the game. Theory of the game, especially opening and middle game. History, especially contemporary. Great masters and their games. Actual play, demonstrations, or lecture by any masters which can be reached. Leader: Seymour Kellerman, time: 7:30-9:00 p.m. Thursday:

Negro American Literature A study of the contrasting attitudes presented in the novels, essays, poems, and plays of contemporary negro writers. Special attention will be paid to the works of Wright, Baldwin, Hines, Ellison, Hughes, and Jones. The works will be considered from an artistic and a social viewpoint. Leader: Michael Paul, Wed. 7-9:00 p.m.

Contemporary Drama and Drama Criticism A study of the modern plays of Tennessee Williams, Edward Albee, Arthur Miller, Brecht, Pinter, Beckett, Ionesco, Genet, off-Broadway, off-off-Broadway, with emphasis on their value in contemporary thought and an examination of their critical reception in newspaper and magazine reviews. Leader: Prof. Walter Spearman.

In conjunction with the Experimental College, the University Chaplains Association will sponsor a number of seminars and discussion groups this spring. Registration for these groups will be held in the same fashion as registration for the Experimental College courses or they may be handled directly with the Chaplain involved.

Examples of the seminars include: Introduction to Modern Jewish thought Elementary Modern Hebrew The Alternative of Conscientious Objection Chaplain Seminars may be signed up for by filling out the following:

Name Address Phone Seminar Return to: the University Chaplains, The Wesley Foundation, 214 Pittsboro Street, Chapel Hill.

THE SUCCESSFUL Broadway musical "The Boyfriend" appears tonight at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. The show is a parody on the "gay '20's."

Experimental Class Signup Next Week

Registration for the Experimental College will be Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, February 20, 21, and 22.

On each of these days registration sheets will be made available at Graham Memorial from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. and in Chase Cafeteria lobby from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. Anyone is eligible to register.

Seminars will run from about six to eight weeks, or as long as the participants wish. Students may sign up for a maximum of two seminars, and full information on where the seminars will meet will be available at registration.

Meeting places will be in dormitories, dining halls, private homes, or other places within walking distance from campus.

Classes will be small, with twelve students to a seminar. Registration will be on a first come, first serve basis. After twelve have signed for a seminar, a line will be drawn under the last name.

More students may sign as alternates and will be notified in order if members of the original group drop out. A room will be provided if the alternate group wishes to pursue the topic on their own.

There will be no formal credit and no grades for participation in the seminars of the Experimental College. It has no formal affiliation with the administration of the University, but it does have the sponsorship of Student Government and the participation of faculty members of UNC.

Examples of some of the courses offered are as follows: Peace and War:

1984: Can Man Survive? If not, why not? If so, why? Depending on student interests, this seminar will examine such processes as anxiety, aggression in man and other animals, collective psychopathology, poverty, power, the social and personality breakdown syndrome, and the fertility and fertilizer problem (the population explosion) as some of the crucial factors in the current issues of war or peace. Leader: Prof. Berton Kaplan.

Intermediate Chess Prerequisite: knowledge of the moves and some familiarity with the game. Theory of the game, especially opening and middle game. History, especially contemporary. Great masters and their games. Actual play, demonstrations, or lecture by any masters which can be reached. Leader: Seymour Kellerman, time: 7:30-9:00 p.m. Thursday:

Negro American Literature A study of the contrasting attitudes presented in the novels, essays, poems, and plays of contemporary negro writers. Special attention will be paid to the works of Wright, Baldwin, Hines, Ellison, Hughes, and Jones. The works will be considered from an artistic and a social viewpoint. Leader: Michael Paul, Wed. 7-9:00 p.m.

Contemporary Drama and Drama Criticism A study of the modern plays of Tennessee Williams, Edward Albee, Arthur Miller, Brecht, Pinter, Beckett, Ionesco, Genet, off-Broadway, off-off-Broadway, with emphasis on their value in contemporary thought and an examination of their critical reception in newspaper and magazine reviews. Leader: Prof. Walter Spearman.

In conjunction with the Experimental College, the University Chaplains Association will sponsor a number of seminars and discussion groups this spring. Registration for these groups will be held in the same fashion as registration for the Experimental College courses or they may be handled directly with the Chaplain involved.

Examples of the seminars include: Introduction to Modern Jewish thought Elementary Modern Hebrew The Alternative of Conscientious Objection Chaplain Seminars may be signed up for by filling out the following:

Name Address Phone Seminar Return to: the University Chaplains, The Wesley Foundation, 214 Pittsboro Street, Chapel Hill.

THE SUCCESSFUL Broadway musical "The Boyfriend" appears tonight at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. The show is a parody on the "gay '20's."