

The Sacrifice Of A Swimmer

It seems ironic that during the 75th anniversary observance of this oft-maligned newspaper one of the swimming team's most outstanding performers has given it all up for a $7 a week job as Daily Tar Heel movie and theatre reviewer.

The story will be best appreciated by the visiting DTH alums but there is, in truth, a message here for all of us.

Joe Sanders is a junior journalism major from Washington, D.C., whose overall quality point average rests at a pleasant 3.0 and whose best time for the 100-yard free style is 47.6, the team record.

Sanders wants very much to be a newspaperman. At one time he wanted to swim in the 1968 Olympics. The twin have met and today Sanders is no longer a member of the swimming team. The decision was his. It was difficult, but he sees it as the only way to prepare for his future.

"I had always devoted a great deal of my time to swimming," says Sanders. "I even enjoyed the workouts because I believe if anything was worth doing it should be done with dedication.

Sanders might never have made it into college had it not been for his swimming prowess.

In his sophomore year at a Miami, Fla., prep school he stood 29th in a class of 30 with little hope for the future.

"Even though it was the middle of the winter—and it can get cold in Miami—," says Sanders, "I was assigned to swimming as an activity. I had never been much interested in it although I did know how.

"By the end of the year, though, I had fallen in love with it. The swimming coach was like a father to me, too. His urging kept me in school."

Toward the conclusion of his senior year Sanders had risen to number three in his class and had won prep school All-American honors in the 100-yard freestyle.

Indiana and North Carolina were among the several schools which accepted him and he chose the latter.

"I visited Chapel Hill in December of my senior year and really liked the place," he recalls. "My coach thought I should go to Indiana, because the swimming program there is so powerful, but I just wanted to come here."

Two years ago Sanders was one of nine All Americans on an unbeaten freshman squad. He barely made the travelling team, though.

"At the beginning of this year, though, I began to find myself more and more devoted to journalism. I realized that when I got out of school I would need a good job and that swimming wouldn't give it to me.

"When the Dean of the journalism school (Norval Neil Luxon) told me I had a chance to graduate with honors that was the incentive I needed. I realized I had the potential to be a good journalist if I only gave it the time it deserved.

"That's why I decided to give up swimming. I am just more interested in preparing for the future. I want to do well in school and begin to get experience."

"I knew I wasn't doing well but I thought I might do better if I could swim a sprint since I was just participating in the distance events. In the last meet of the year, I entered the 100 and finished second in the freshman invitational."

Sanders' best showing came last summer in the Eastern USA Regional Championships where he finished first in the 200 and tied N. C. State star Steve Rerych for first in the 100.

Until recently Sanders was a member of a 400-yard medley relay team that ranked in the top five in the country. It was certain to claim All America recognition.

Now that's all behind him. Sanders will not participate in the team's meet against East Carolina today but he will compete in the Atlantic Coast Conference championships. Nothing else, however.

Sanders feels that he is "throwing away a lot of pleasant memories and good times."

Face Virginia Away Tonight

Tar Heels Can Clinch Tie For ACC Title

Once A Big Star, Delaney On Bench

By ART CHANSKY of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
At his high school in South Orange, N.J., Jim Delaney played in every game. In fact, he was in them so much and played so well that he was an All-City, All-County and All-State selection.

Today, he's sitting on the bench watching the North Carolina Tar Heels play. "Although I'd rather be playing regularly, it's still exciting to sit on the bench for the number three team in the nation," Delaney said.

The sophomore political science major sat back in his Avery Dorm room and admitted he looks forward to practice everyday. He can look forward to little else.

"Practice isn't a burden on me because I love to play basketball," he said. The reserves get a chance to compete earnestly during practice with such stars as Larry Miller and Charlie Scott. In this way we help the team prepare for each upcoming game."

Although the reserves certainly don't play as regularly as the starters, Delaney feels they contribute importantly to the team effort.

"The harder we work at practice, the harder the starters will play in the next game," the 5-11 guard said.

"Also, practicing against these 'greats' helps us improve and gives us the incentive to try to win a spot in the starting lineup."

Delaney is small in the basketball world, but his enthusiasm is enormous when he talks of this year's Tar Heels.

"It's not difficult for me to get 'psyched up' for each game, although I know I may not be playing much," he said.

"We think of every game as a team challenge and even if you're watching and not playing, great enthusiasm is a natural instinct because the success of the team is the only thing on your mind.

"Near the end of a great season like the one we're having, each game means so much that it's easy to get excited even though I may not be called on to play. It's very rewarding to be part of such a great team."

Delaney feels the Tar Heels have lived up to expectations but hastens to add, "we still have a lot more to accomplish before we can call ourselves a truly great team. We definitely have the potential to go all the way to the national championship."

When he entered college, one of Delaney's desires was to play for one of the nation's great teams. Carolina has fulfilled this desire even though he isn't getting to play.

"I came down here to try to play with the best players on a great team instead of being a sure starter on a mediocre team. The pre-season competition was tremendous because of all the returning lettermen and other outstanding sophomores like Scott and Eddie Fogler."

Delaney ranked third in scoring with last year's freshman team, hitting 221 points for a 13.8 average. He hit 49.4 percent of his field goal attempts.

Swimmers Travel To ECU

The undefeated North Carolina track team hosts the Big Seven Meet at the Tin Can this afternoon, while the UNC swimmers journey to East Carolina to battle the defending Southern Conference

—DTH Staff Photo by MIKE MCGOWAN
Cool And Calm On The Bench
... Jim Delaney Feels Right At Home

Trackmen Host Big Seven Meet

The undefeated North Carolina track team hosts the Big Seven Meet at the Tin Can this afternoon, while the UNC swimmers journey to East Carolina to battle the defending Southern Conference champions. Carolina's tracksters are currently undefeated with dual meet wins over South Carolina and Clemson and a four team win over Wake Forest, N.C. State, and the Gamecocks.

Today's running events get under way at 1:30. The Tar Heels will be looking to Mike Williams in the 1000 yard run, Ken Helms in the mile, and Truett Goodwin in the two mile for top performances.

far this season," said Coach Earey. The Carolina wrestling team is currently on a two day road trip. The grapplers wrestled West Virginia Friday night and will battle the Maryland Terps this evening.

Ruggers Kick Off New Season Sunday

By T.C. RICKETTS of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
The UNC rugby club will kick off its spring season this Sunday at 2 p.m. with a game-condition scrimmage pitting the first team against the second.

The club has been holding full practices for the past week and has rounded out the nucleus of two fine rugger teams in that period.

The scrimmage will be the same as a regular game except for unlimited substitutions and time outs. In a regular season match, there are no substitutions and play is stopped only for injuries.

This scrimmage is primarily aimed at giving the club game experience for its upcoming match with Old Blue of New York next Saturday.

The Carolina first team will rely heavily on the strength and experience of its scrum. Probs Hal Rainey and Stuart McLean and hooker Keith Rumsissell figure prominently in the Tar Heel plans.

New faces have come into the lineup over the past week. Among them all ex-football player Doug David and Bill Wood, who are both candidates for spots on the first team backfield.

Captain George Wirth commented on the performance of the club after a spirited hard hitting practice Thursday. "I've been very pleased with the turnout this week," he said. "Despite the cold weather, we have more than enough players."

"The new boys have shown a great deal of desire and talent and I'm sure we can use many of them. The whole club has been enthusiastic and despite the disorganization of the first few days I think we have the basis of a first-rate A side."

The second team has potential also. "There is so much talent out this season, I feel sure that this year's second team will be almost as good as the first," Wirth said. "They have a full schedule with many opportunities to display their ability."

At this time the club is looking to its first big weekend of action—March 2 and 3 when Old Blue of New York and North Carolina State will challenge the Tar Heels.

Rita's 24 Leads 63-36 Girl Win

Rita Barnes ripped the Mitchell College defense for 24 points Thursday night to lead the North Carolina women to a 53-36 win over Mitchell at Statesville.

After a close first period, the Tar Heels exploded in the second quarter to outscore the home forces 15-5 for a 31-20 intermission score. Johanna Everett scored 7 of her 16 in that second stanza.

Rachael Gidney joined Rita and Johanna in double figures with 13. Edith Simmons had 5, Kay Johnson 3, and Cindy Hubbard 2. Jane Cowen tallied 13 and Janice Jordan 12 for the losers.

Mike Garrett averaged 26.7 carries and 144.0 rushing yards per game and 5.39 yard per carry while winning the Heisman Trophy at Southern California in 1965.

UNC Frosh Challenge Hopeful UVA Tonight

By RICK BREWER of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. — Virginia's Cavayearlings get a second shot at the North Carolina Tar Babies tonight and the UVA frosh hope the outcome will be a little different from the first meeting of the two teams.

Gametime for the preliminary to the Carolina-Virginia varsity clash is 6 p.m. at University Hall.

The Tar Babies defeated the Cavayearlings 80-60 at Chapel Hill Feb. 6. Carolina has won four straight games since then (one of those an unofficial victory over the Intramural All-Stars) and now boasts a 10-3 record.

Coach Chip Conner's Virginia club will be looking to guard Kevin Kennedy and center Bill Gerry to pace the UVA attack tonight. Bill Fulton, a 6-4 forward, 6-6 Bob Gallione, and guard Bill Creason are expected to join them in the starting line-up.

Kennedy is the top Cavalier scorer, averaging better than 18 points per game. The 5-11 backcourt man has missed six games this season due to a bout with pneumonia and has only recently been able to go at full speed. He scored 15 points in the teams' first meeting.

Gerry a 6-7 center from New quintet went to Charlottesville with a national third-rating and barely escaped with a 79-75 win.

This year's Virginia team has interesting contrasts. The Cavs have three gunners, but little defense.

Mike Katos, a 6-5 forward, is UVA's leading scorer with an 18.1 average. Sophomore guard Tony Kinn is close behind with a 17.9 average, while 6-10 center Norm Carmichael is hitting at a 15.0 clip.

Carmichael leads the conference in field goal percentage with a 57.3 mark.

Guard Barry Koval and 6-5 forward Mike Wilkes round out the lineup.

The Cavaliers rely heavily on a fast break offense. They like to get the ball down court and shoot quickly after passing the midcourt line. But, Coach Bill Gibson's team had trouble running this offense against the Tar Heels in the team's last meeting.

Virginia is much slower than Carolina. For this, reason, a Cavalier slow down wouldn't surprise many.

Dean Smith, of course, has his full stable of stars in top shape. The Heels last game was Wednesday night dunking of Maryland only two players, Larry Miller and Rusty Clark, played much more than half the game.

nally as the number two UVA scorer. He scores 16 against the Tar Babies in the earlier contest and pulled down 12 rebounds.

Carolina's starting line-up tonight will consist of five players who are all averaging in double figures. Forward Dave Chadwick leads the UNC scorers with a 20.8 average. Dale Gipple ranks second at 17.9.

Don Eggleston is hitting at a 12.9 clip, followed by Lee Dedmon at 12.8 and Richard Tuttle at 12.6. Chadwick is capturing better than 12 rebounds each game while Dedmon is just below the 12 mark.

The big difference in the first game between the two teams was the fine shooting of the Heels. UNC hit 54.7 per cent of its shots while Virginia could connect only 36 per cent of the time. Carolina also outrebounded UVA in that game 51-38.

York City, ranks behind Ken-

Study in Guadalajara, Mexico

The Guadalajara Summer School, a fully accredited University of Arizona program, conducted in cooperation with professors from Stanford University, University of California, and Guadalajara, will offer July 1 to August 10, art, folklore, geography, history, language and literature courses. Tuition, board and room is $290. Write Prof. Juan B. Rael, P. O. Box 7227, Stanford, California 94305.

DAILY CROSSWORD

- ACROSS
- 1. Ecclesiastic
- 8. Auditor: abbr.
- 11. Solvent
- 12. Conjunction
- 13. Girl's name
- 14. Pigs
- 16. Epigram
- 17. Behold
- 19. Thomas
- Edison
- 20. Embroidered
- 22. Hesitation syllable
- 23. Customers
- 26. Arab name
- 27. Poetic
- 28. Taut
- 30. — of the covenant
- 31. Derrick or crane, for instance
- 33. Music note
- 34. Rays
- 35. River to the Mediterranean
- 37. Sun god
- 38. Title
- 41. Daughter of Tantalus
- 43. Pin
- 45. Weep
- 46. Soft winds
- 48. Newsman: abbr.
- 49. Most active DOWN
- 1. Carriage

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11									12
13									14
15									16
17									18
19									20
21									22
23									24
25									26
27									28
29									30
31									32
33									34
35									36
37									38
39									40
41									42
43									44
45									46
47									48
49									49

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER

- 1. Ecclesiastic
- 2. City in Nevada
- 3. Exude
- 4. Measure of land
- 5. Mountain side
- 6. Tellurium: sym.
- 7. Bitter vetch
- 8. Indigo
- 9. Shake
- 10. Softer
- 11. Lump
- 12. Calendar abbreviation
- 13. Wreath
- 14. Gauges
- 15. Man's name
- 16. Australian bird
- 17. Vex
- 18. Pismire
- 19. Large worm
- 20. Biting implement
- 21. Hairdo
- 22. Rogers and Rob
- 23. Sleep lightly
- 24. Malt beverages
- 25. Bird's home
- 26. Subside
- 27. Cat's cradle
- 28. Ruthenium: sym.

DKE White Spills Chi Phi Blood, 78-33 In Murals

By BOB COLEMAN of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
DKE White demolished the Chi Phi Blood Thursday in white fraternity basketball, 78-33.

Holderness, Dawson, Klutz, Curd and Covington provided the firepower, while Johnston and Jefferess were high men for the losers.

Phi Delt Black outfought APO, 43-32, with Tom Webb throwing in 13 points. L. Almond accounted for 14 in defeat. Phi Delt Red had no trouble beating the Beta Sleepers, 49-26, as Lynch hit 14.

DKE's Mose's Mules kicked the DU White I, 43-35. MacCarroll led a balanced attack with 12.

ATO Wite I upended the Chi Phi Go-Team, 55-39. Johnson tallied 19 and Denning dumped in 17. Earl Jenkins' 16 points paced Pi Kap Phi White I over Phi Kap Sig Trashmen, 44-37. R. Todd tossed in 15 in defeat.

The Chi Phi Raiders outdistanced the Beta Sliders behind 18 Warren points, 40-28. Dearsteyne (13) and Moore (12) led the losers.

ATO White II beat Phi Delt Chi Red, 50-30, with Richards ripping the nets for 18. The DU Plumbers got 15 points from MacNubb and turned off Delt Sig White I, 41-31.

Sig Chi White I used John Clark's 17 points to down the Chi Phi Rebels, 47-26, a game marked by the mysterious loss of the game ball.

AK Psi White whipped the DU Easter Seals, 33-15, as Dave Barnes made 16. Beard's 13 helped the balance PIKA White attacked overwhelm the Phi Delt Losers, 48-26. Laverne Steele's 15 was high for the losers.

10 ACADEMY AWARD NOMINATIONS

OUR FAVORITE FILM IS BACK!!! ALL ODDS ARE ON IT TO BE THE BIG ACADEMY AWARD WINNER IN APRIL!

WARREN BEATTY
FAYE DUNAWAY
BONNIE AND CLYDE

1:30 - 3:23 - 5:16
7:00 - 9:04
RIALTO, Durham

ANNIVERSARY DTH's

Due to a foul up in circulation yesterday some special edition (12 page) DTH's were not circulated. A limited number of this extra ordinary paper are available today at G.M. information desk.

All people attending the Banquet tonight will be able to obtain a copy from Hugh Stevens.

Sorry for the inconvenience.

Don Walton,
Business Manager