

Playmakers To Hold Auditions

Directors of six outdoor drama companies will be on hand for the annual auditions sessions of the Institute of Outdoor Drama and the Carolina Playmakers in the Forest Theatre March 23.

More than a hundred young performers from Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina are expected to attend.

The auditions for employment in the summer outdoor dramas are open to interested persons 18 years of age or older who are available for the full summer season.

Companies to be represented include Unto These Hills, - Cherokee; The Lost Colony, - Manteo; Cross and Sword, St. Augustine, Florida; The Liberty Tree, new Kermit Hunter play about the American Revolution, Columbia, S.C.; Horn in the West, Boone; and The Legend of Daniel Boone, - Harrodsburg, Kentucky. The last two companies are looking for dancer-actor combination players.

Registration for the auditions will take place on Friday afternoon and Saturday prior to 10 a.m. at the offices of the Institute of Outdoor Drama, Vets Club Building, Emerson Field.

Fund Set Up For Fuller

A group of North Carolina College students have organized a fund to defend Howard Fuller and three NCC students who were convicted last week for their part in the Durham demonstrations.

Collins E. Barber, chairman of the "Durham Four Defense Fund," described the conviction of the four as "a monumental miscarriage of justice."

The defendants were given active sentences amounting to a total of more than two years.

"All four defendants are appealing their cases in Superior Court," said Barber, "but the defense will be expensive."

Barber is asking for "both moral and financial" support for the "assurance of access to legal procedures," for the four defendants.

"Any donation no matter how small will aid in securing justice," said Barber.

All donations should be mailed to "Durham Four Defense Fund," C-O Collins E. Barber, Eagle Office, Student Union, North Carolina College, Durham, N.C. Checks should be made out to "Durham Four Defense Fund."

Mr. Barber will meet with anyone interested in discussing the issues involved in the defense or accepting donations in person. He may be reached at NCC on extension 263.

Drive-In Mortuary To Give Good View

ATLANTA (UPI)—Mortician Hirschel Thornton said Wednesday he expects to complete within the next two weeks the nation's first drive-in mortuary.

"Folks will be able just to drive by and view the last remains of their loved ones," the veteran Negro mortician said, "and then keep on going."

The deceased may be exhibited from five plate glass windows in Thornton's "mortatorium."

The six-foot long plate glass windows will be framed by draw drapes; a flowing drapery will serve as a backdrop; the casket will be tilted in such a manner as to give the driver a good view; and a delicate fluorescent light will enhance the scene.

Thornton says he does not, at the moment, envision piped-in music but there will be drop boxes so that mourners may drop in cards or sign registers.

"We are going to have everything fixed real nice," he said. "Of course we won't exhibit anyone whose relatives don't want it. They will have to sign a release."

Thornton said he was inspired to start his drive-in service by the trend of the times.

"Help is so hard to get now," Thornton said, "and there are the wages and hours laws. Folks like to come by at night—you would be surprised at the number of persons ringing the bell at midnight or 1 a.m. to view a body."

"This way, folks can drive by at any time. It will be a great help for the elderly who can't get around too well. They can sit in their car and still pay their last respects."

Met Soprano To Perform

Famed Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano Jennie Tourel will appear Wednesday-Friday March 20-22 in Hill Hall in the third of the 1967-68 Artist Seminars sponsored by the Music Department.

At 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 20, she will present a recital. At 8 p.m. Thursday, March 21, she will give a public master class, and at 2 p.m. Friday, March 22, a second master class.

All events will be held in the main auditorium of Hill Hall and are open to the public without charge.

Known especially as a skilled interpreter of contemporary music, she has performed numerous times at Lincoln Center, has had regular subscription concerts with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, and participated in the world premiere in Israel of Leonard Bernstein's Third (Kaddish) Symphony.

Computer Experts To Offer Suggestions

Frustrated computer users who feel that sometimes the computer uses them can discuss their problems with computer experts next Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. in Phillips Hall.

The Student Association for Computing Machinery is sponsoring the question-and-answer session.

On the panel of experts will be Dr. Frederick P. Brooks, Jr., Chairman of the Department of Information Science; Erwin M. Danziger, Director of Electronic Data Processing Systems and instructor in information science; and Dr. Morris S. Davis, President of Triangle Universities Computation Center (TUCC) and adjunct professor of information science and physics.

Also Dr. David N. Freeman, TUCC development manager and adjunct assistant professor of information science; James W. Hanson, Director of the UNC Computation Center and information science instructor; and Dr. James C. Morrow, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Questions will be given priority if submitted in advance to Jim Batzer, 106 Phillips Annex.

Dr. Ria Stambaugh Gets Research Grant

Dr. Ria Stambaugh, associate professor in the Germanic Languages Department, has been awarded a summer research grant by the University.

She will be working on problems in the editing of 15th and 16th Century German texts with Professor Hans-Gert Roloff, of the Early New High German Division of the Technical University of West Berlin. Also collaborating on the project will be Professor Matti Kuusi, Helsinki, Finland, and Professor Lutz Roehrich, Freiburg, Germany.

Registration High For Astronomy Class

Morehead Planetarium Director, A.F. Jenzano announced today that registration is going at a quick pace for the planetarium's course, "Introduction to Astronomy."

The class sessions meet Thursday evening from 7:15 to 9:30 p.m. beginning March 21 and continuing through May 9. The first hour of each meeting will be spent using the planetarium's giant Zeiss Projector. The second hour will be conducted in a classroom following a 15 minute break.

"Introduction to Astronomy" is open to all adults who are interested in knowing more about the universe of which they are a part and assumes no prior knowledge of astronomy. The non-mathematical survey will cover the earth, sun, moon, planets, meteors, comets, asteroids, astronomical instruments, the Milky Way and other galaxies, stars, constellations, and the structure and nature of the universe.
