

Ruggers Battle Gamecocks Today

"The best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley" once said by Robert Burns, but one group here in Chapel Hill is hoping to avoid such a fate.

The group is the UNC Rugby Club and the plan is to vanquish a visiting Rugby side from the university of South Carolina tomorrow with a potent combination of line running and forward pushing.

Carolina barely survived last fall's test with the Gamecocks, kicking true in the last second, of the game to win 8-6. USC will undoubtedly be thirsting for a bit of revenge as they take to the pitch.

The grounds below Ehringhaus being too soggy for a rugged match the test has been moved to the field behind James, playing time is 1:30 p.m.

UNC is banking again on their reliable back line, especially Ben Porter the redoubtable scrum half. Joe Patterson will return to the A side as a wing having missed the Duke game last Sunday. The scrum will also be changed to add Jimmy Bell whose fierce and agile mode of play last weekend impressed the selectors enough to add him to the side.

Optimism reigns and scoring will be the order of the day

Encouraged by impressive qualifying rounds, the Carolina golf team opens its season next Wednesday at the Palmetto Intercollegiate Tournament at Orangeburg, S.C.

The Tar Heels' first dual match is against Ohio U. at Finley on March 23.

Coaches Ed Kenney and Dave Robinson are optimistic going into the season. "I don't think Wake Forest will dominate the conference like they have in the past," contends Robinson. "South Carolina and Maryland will both be strong, and I think we have good personnel."

Top qualifier, with a four-under-par score of 284 was sophomore Jack Hooks. The long-hitting Hooks had a 67 in one tour of the course, and shapes up now as number-one man. Hooks was leader of the jayvees last spring.

Veterans Bill Boles and Marty West round out the top three. The order of the starters could change many times in the course of the season, but Hooks will be high on the list if he keeps up his phenomenal play.

"Our schedule favors us," says Robinson, "because we play everyone in the conference here except USC and Clemson."

After the Palmetto tournament, which will attract 20 schools to Orangeburg from

Wednesday through Saturday, and the Ohio U. match, the Tar Heels play: April 3-Wayne State; April 6-at Davidson; April 9-Virginia; April 13-at Clemson; April 14-at USC;

April 17-Wake Forest; April 20-State; April 23-Davidson; April 25-at Virginia Tech; April 27-Maryland; May 4-Duke; May 8-ACC Tournament at Pinehurst.

Kelly To Compete In NCAA Indoors

By MARK WHICKER

Darryl Kelly, one of the finest freshman athletes in the ACC, competes in the NCAA Indoors in Detroit's Cobo Arena Saturday. He has a good chance to place in the triple jump.

Several other Carolina trackmen, including shot-putter John Jessup, distance man Larry Widgeon, and 600-yard runner Terry Sellers, barely missed qualifying for the NCAA's.

Kelly holds Carolina's triple-jump record, at 49'9". He has had few chances to perform in his event since it is not included in the regular indoor schedule. Coach Joe Hilton has entered Kelly in the VMI Relays and the Mason-Dixon Games in Lexington, Ky., and Kelly won both events. Darryl beat out the NCAA's third and fourth best triple-jumpers when he set the Carolina record in Kentucky.

The triple-jump is one of the most demanding events in track, but Kelly has all of its nuances down pat. His amazing progress should accelerate during the outdoor season, when he'll be triple-jumping in every meet, as well as winning points in the broad jump and 60-yard-dash.

The rest of the track team continues to push for next Saturday's tri-meet with Clemson and Wake Forest at Fetzer Field.

Project Uplift, organized by the Committee for the Advancement of Minority and Disadvantaged Students (AMDS) will bring 180 disadvantaged high school students to the University campus the weekends of April 9-11 and 16-18.

According to Jim Hornstein, one of the directors of AMDS, the purpose of Project Uplift is to legitimize the state university system in the minds of students who might otherwise not have the desire to attend.
