

GSCC finishes constitution draft

by Keith Carter
Staff Writer

Final arrangements for consideration of the Graduate Student Coordinating Committee (GSCC) constitution appear set following the December public hearings on the proposed constitution.

GSCC Chairman Jerry Harder said Monday, "It looks like we will be ready to roll right on schedule with our plans. The hearings brought out disagreements with the rough draft on only minor details which can be easily resolved."

The GSCC schedule now calls for submission of the final draft to the committee at a meeting on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Carolina Union. It will be the last opportunity to make changes or corrections in the document. The drafting committee appointed earlier will meet this week to complete the wording of the final document.

If approved Thursday night, the final constitutional draft will be submitted to a referendum of the graduate and professional student body next week.

"We were very pleased with the hearings," Harder said. "There was fairly good acceptance of the rough draft. Now we foresee no real obstacles to approval of the final constitution, unless it is in the mechanics of getting the draft down on paper in legalistic terms or in conducting the elections," Harder said.

The GSCC chairman indicated the conducting of the elections would be left mostly to the individual graduate departments or school.

Each department will be given a bit of leeway," Harder said, "but we expect elections will be held on Monday through Thursday next week. Each graduate student should contact his own department to find out the election procedures that will be followed."

Harder was hopeful a ballot box can be set up in the Union near the information desk to enable students who for some reason aren't able to vote in their department to cast their ballot.

"We think we will have a pretty good turnout in our favor," Harder said. "We don't foresee any opposition to our principle of separation and we didn't encounter any such sentiment in our public hearings," Harder said.

The GSCC also announced Monday Steve Hart, president of the Student Bar Association, and Ron Lippencott, CRAE legislator, have been appointed to the Judicial Reform Committee headed by Student Attorney General John McDowell.

The appointments came after the GSCC presented a resolution protesting the actions of the Judicial Reform Committee in altering the graduate student court structure despite the fact that no graduate students were on the committee or had been consulted by the committee.

Sun Devils outplay Heels

times from there, the last one going one yard over linemen Paul Hoolahan and Jim Hambacher to make it 14-7.

The Sun Devils knew McCauley was coming, but it didn't help them any.

However, Spaghetti Joe put ASU back on top by two touchdowns with a speedy, spicy meatball 67 yards to Hill, who broke away at the 50 and scored.

After Lew Jolley ran the next kickoff back to the Carolina 45, Miller hit Bucky Perry with a 15-yard pass, McCauley gained four, and then Miller hit tight end Tony Blanchard with a 36-yard pass for the score.

However, Miller was knocked out of the game on the play by defensive end Junior Ah You, the Peach Bowl's outstanding defensive player. He suffered a slight concussion. Mike Mansfield replaced Miller for the rest of the game, and Kush called it the "key play. With Miller out of there, Carolina was hurting."

It wasn't noticeable right then, however.

McCauley put the Tar Heels in front

26-21 on touchdown runs of 17 and four yards after John Anderson recovered a fumble on the kickoff return and Lou Angelo, a hard hitter all night, intercepted a Spagnola pass intended for Hill.

The half ended, and perhaps Dooley and the Heels would have been wise to get out of "sunny Atlanta" when they were ahead.

Eley, who was overshadowed by Thomas in the first half, came back to gain 96 yards in the last two periods. After Spagnola hit Joe Petty with a 28-yard pass (Petty spent the rest of the night being belted by Angelo and John Swofford and protesting about pass interference), Eley went off-tackle for an eight-yard touchdown and ASU led 28-26.

On Carolina's second play from scrimmage after the touchdown, Mansfield's pitchout got away from Jolley and ASU linebacker Tim Hoban recovered.

Holden scored on a reverse two plays later from 13 yards out, getting away from Gene Brown.

Eley's five-yard run and Thomas'

two-yard smash were the other Sun Devil touchdowns.

Spaghetti Joe completed eight of 23 for 155 yards, and hit only one in the second half, since the officials were unable to keep the ball dry enough for accurate passing.

Miller completed three of five for 97 yards; Mansfield, passing in the second half under worsening conditions, connected three of his 12 attempts for 26 yards.

Even in defeat, the Tar Heels impressed the Sun Devils, the crowd and the Atlanta press. And Arizona State exposed the fallacies of the rating systems. Solid in every position and spectacular in many, the Sun Devils deserve a place in the nation's top five, not the top ten.

UN trip planned for 36 students

During semester break, 36 UNC students will have an opportunity to observe the United Nations during a five-day seminar trip to New York City.

The UNC chapter of the Council on International Relations and United Nations Affairs (CIRUNA) is sponsoring the annual trip, which is open to all interested students.

A chartered bus will leave Chapel Hill on Wednesday, Jan. 27 and will return on Sunday, Jan. 31. The cost of the trip is $45, which includes round trip transportation and lodging in New York City.

According to Sylvia Leaver and Jim King, coordinators of the trip, the speakers will concentrate on the situation in the Middle East.

The group will spend Thursday and Friday in session with personnel from UN agencies and delegates.

Evenings and Saturday will be free for independent activities.

Information and applications are available at the office in Y-Court. Miss Leaver urged those interested to apply immediately since participants are limited to 36.

Kappa Alpha Theta holding kite contest

Kites will cloud the sky over Fetzer Field at 3:30 p.m. Friday when Kappa Alpha Theta sorority holds its annual kite-flying contest.

The sorority, whose symbol is the kite, sponsors the contest for its fall pledges. This year, they have invited the fall pledge class of each fraternity to participate in the contest.

Each fraternity pledge class will make its own kite. The class with the most unusual kite will win a keg of beer.

"We hope the brothers will support their pledges at the contest and take an active part in it," said Becky Lou Sartin, Kappa Alpha Theta chairman of the event.

The annual kite-flying contest is a national project of Kappa Alpha Theta pledges.

Jam session set in Union Wednesday

An informal jam session will be held Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Carolina Union.

Peggy Baggett, chairman of the Union-sponsored session, explained, "There are a lot of people around campus who really enjoy jazz and enjoy getting together and playing, so we thought we'd open it up."

Members of the Jazz Lab Band will be on hand to get things going. A piano and microphones will be available. Musicians are asked to bring their instruments, "find someone they like to play with and start playing."

Fridges arrive today at Union

Forty more refrigerators have arrived at the Student Government for those who have rented them.

According to Student Government Executive Secretary Sheri Yates, the refrigerators will be available for pick-up today from 2 to 4 p.m. at the loading dock of the Carolina Union. After that time they will be available in the Student Government office in Suite C of the Union.

Partial refunds will be given to those picking up the refrigerators in Suite C. The refund will be slightly less than a full semester's rent on the machines.

Students no longer desiring the refrigerators and desiring full refunds should also go to Suite C.

Placement Service slates recruiting

The following organizations will recruit on campus during the week of January 11-15.

Wednesday, Jan. 13-E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company, Inc.; Virginia Community College System.

Thursday, Jan. 14-E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Company, Inc.; Virginia Community College System; Defense Intelligence Agency.
