

In Memorial Hall

'Baby Doe' slated for weekend

One of the most colorful stories in American history will be revived as the UNC Opera Theatre present "The Ballad of Baby Doe" this Friday and Saturday, February 12 and 13, at eight both nights in Memorial Hall.

Baby Doe was just twenty years old and at the height of her beauty when she left her husband, Harvey Doe, and moved to Leadville, Colorado. Baby had already won a reputation as the "miners' sweetheart" when she came to Leadville. When Silver King, Horace Tabor, met her, he decided he was just a miner himself.

When Horace Tabor met Baby Doe, he was in his fifties and the richest man in Colorado. Horace's wife, Augusta, was dour and sullen. Wealth and a lavish living didn't appeal to her as it did to Horace whom she had married 20 years before. Baby Doe was Augusta's opposite in every way. Horace moved Baby to the Clarendon Hotel across from his private offices and rumors began to fly.

Augusta flatly refused to grant Horace a divorce but he arranged the divorce politically. Horace and Baby Doe went to Washington where they spent over $300,000 in one month. Their wedding there was one of the most luxurious affairs ever held in the city. Even President Chester A. Arthur attended.

When news of the divorce from Augusta broke, Horace laughed at society and built a mansion in Denver. Baby Doe's daughter, Silver Dollar, was the baby of the year. Her christening gown cost $17,000.

When the 1893 panic struck, financial troubles for the Tabor's began. Horace supported William Jennings Bryan in his campaign for President. But Bryan's

"Free Silver" platform collapsed as did Horace's fortune.

A happy Denver society stood by and waited for Baby Doe to leave the penniless Horace. She remained loyal. When Horace died a few days later, he asked Baby Doe to hold on to the Matchless Mine. Baby Doe honored his request and in her later years walked Denver's streets dressed in cast-off miners' clothes and gunny sacks trying to find backing for the mine. She was found frozen to death in a shack next to the mine on March 7, 1935.

The cast of the Douglas Moore opera includes Margaret Brookband of High Point as Baby Doe, Julian Long of Durham as Horace Tabor and Jean Spearman of Chapel Hill as Augusta Tabor. Joel Carter of Chapel Hill plays William Jennings Bryan. Staging is by Randolph Umberger with musical direction by Robert Porco. Setting is designed by Tom Bynum.

All tickets for "The Ballad of Baby Doe" are $1.50 and are available at the Music Department in Hill Hall and at the Carolina Union.

Penal reform set as symposium topic

Penal reform will be the subject of a symposium scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the Carolina Union.

Over the three-day period there will be a panel discussion on juvenile reform, a movie entitled "Men in Cages" and a discussion with a panel of inmates from a Raleigh prison.

The symposium is being planned by the Current Affairs Committee of the Union and the Institute of Government.

Chuck Patriza, chairman for the symposium, said the Juvenile Panel (3 p.m. Monday, 202-204 Union) will include, among others, Wade Brown, chairman of the State Board of Paroles, and Russell Rose, who is a graduate of the youth corrections program in North Carolina.

Lee Bounds, state commissioner of corrections, will speak at 8 p.m. Monday in Great Hall on the subject, "Prison Reform in North Carolina."

"Men in Cages" will be shown the same evening at 8 p.m. and 9 p.m. in the Union Coffee Shop.

The following day at 3 p.m. in Great Hall the panel of inmates will discuss the situation from their viewpoint. Later on Tuesday at 8 p.m., Howard Gill, an instructor of humanistic penology in Washington will speak on "Reform in the United States." Gill will speak in Hill Hall.

Community corrections, a new style of correction, will be discussed by Jim White, commander of prison units in western North Carolina. White is experimenting with penal reform. He will speak in 202-204 of the Union at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

All meetings are free and open to the public.

India Night scheduled

"India Night," an evening of dinner and entertainment for UNC students, faculty and the public, will be held tonight.

The event, sponsored by the India Association at UNC, will be at the Presbyterian Student Center on Henderson Street at 6 p.m. The dinner and entertainment will last about two hours.

Tickets, $2 for adults and 75 cents for children, are now on sale at the Student Union. Attendance is limited to 250; any remaining tickets will be sold at the door.

"India Night" is now an annual affair at UNC. The evening includes a menu of rice, chicken curry, vegetable curry and sweets; and both folk and classical dances of India.

A special feature of this year's entertainment is the Manipuri, performed by Indu Maheswari. This is one of the six major classical schools of Indian dance. The Dhandya Ras, a popular folk dance in Gujarat, a state in western India, will be performed by Vidula Bangdiwala and a group of dancers.

N.M. Lalu is president of the India Association at UNC. Mrs. Kadambra Manboodiri, a research associate in the UNC School of Medicine, is in charge of food for India Night. The entertainment was planned by Sushil Srivastva, a graduate student in statistics.

This rare photograph shows Baby Doe as she appeared shortly after her marriage to Horace Tabor. Photograph is by permission of Bancroft Booklets, Johnson Publishing Co., Boulder, Colorado. By the way, does she look smug?

Campus calendar

The Department of Religion presents Dr. A. Leo Oppenheim this Sunday night at 8 o'clock in the lecture hall at Ackland Museum. Professor Oppenheim will speak on "War and Peace in Ancient Assyria."

Dr. Oppenheim is known as a leading Assyriologist. He has authored two major studies: Ancient Mesopotamia: A Portrait of a Dead Civilization and "Letters From Mesopotamia."

Professor Oppenheim is currently affiliated with the Oriental Institute at the University of Chicago.

Alpha Epsilon Delta will have a field trip to Duke Medical Center to observe surgery next Wednesday, Feb. 10. Transportation will be provided. Only a limited number may go. For more information, call Jay Pringle at 933-4725.

Lost: A long brown ladies' wallet. Reward offered for return of papers in it, including driver's license, social security, etc. Contact Judy Leonard, P.O. Box 1234, Chapel Hill or call collect, 489-6977.

Second semester yoga lessons begin this Tuesday, Feb. 9, in rooms 207-209 of the Union for all those who have previously signed up for the courses. There are a handful of spaces available for the 9:45 P.M. beginning class. Miss Laura Viernstein and Mr. Tommy Oates are the instructors in the activity sponsored by the Union Recreation Committee.

IUNC Basketball and Cheerleading practice: Calling all basketball players, cheerleaders, trainers, statisticians, coaches, etc. Come ready to do your stuff and meet at 11 this morning on the front steps outside Woolen Gym... "Fricasee DMCI"

Livingston Taylor will be here tomorrow for two concerts at 4 and 8 in Memorial Hall. Watch Liv as he emerges altogether in his own right.

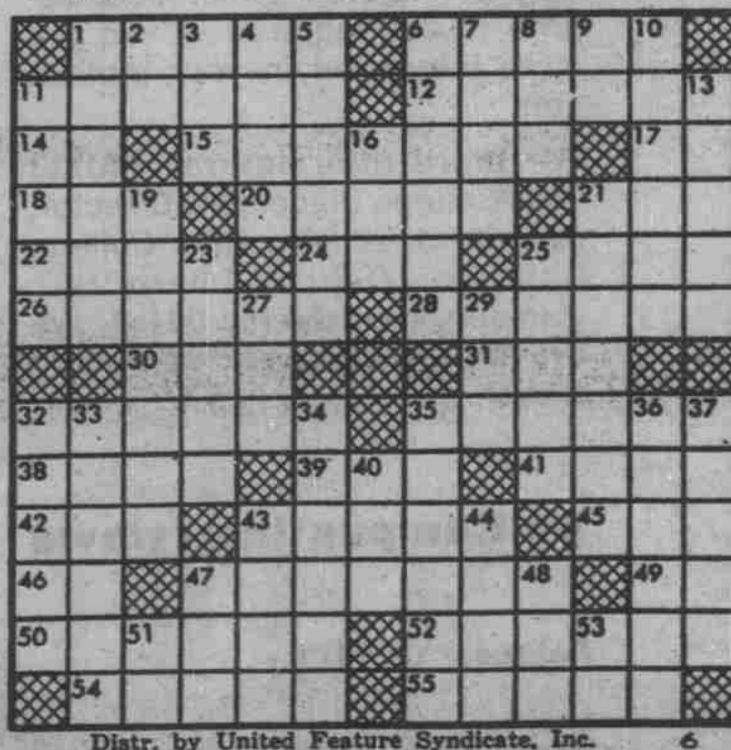

Women's Liberation—new discussion groups beginning Thursday, Feb. 11, room 205 in the Student Union. All women welcome.

Crossword Puzzle

- ACROSS
- 1 Squandered
 - 6 Out of date
 - 11 Thinner
 - 12 Beast
 - 14 Indefinite article
 - 15 Milk farms
 - 17 Conjunction
 - 18 Stroke
 - 20 Reproach
 - 21 Espire
 - 22 Greenland settlement
 - 24 Permit
 - 25 Cravats
 - 26 Citrus fruit (pl.)
 - 28 Lances
 - 30 Beverages
 - 31 Pronoun
 - 32 Unite securely
 - 35 Figure of speech
 - 38 War god
 - 39 River island
 - 41 Fur-bearing mammal
 - 42 French plural article
 - 43 Later
 - 45 Music: as written
 - 46 Symbol for silver
 - 47 Went in Latin conjunction
 - 50 Give
 - 52 Put in crate
 - 54 Sodium nitrate
 - 55 Canonized person
- DOWN
- 1 Lawmaking body
 - 2 Parent (colloq.)

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ARAL TOD HASH
CANE AWE ATLI
TREMLES POOP
SETAI STEPPES
NEO IRE
PAT PERTINENT
ERAS TAU STAK
STATUETTE ANN
RAN GUE
DESERTS ERASE
ISLE ITERATED
GNAT OAR TORE
SETS NYE DOME

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

PREGNANT? NEED HELP?

YOUR QUESTIONS ON ABORTION CAN ONLY BE FULLY ANSWERED BY PROFESSIONALS

CALL (215) 878-5800 24 hours 7 days FOR TOTALLY CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION.

Legal Abortions Without Delay

Carolina THEATRE

NOW PLAYING

BLOW YOURSELF UP into a GIANT 2 FT. x 3 FT. POSTER

2 ft. x 3 ft. $3.50
20 in. x 24 in. $2.50 (BIGGER THAN 1 1/2 ft. x 2 ft.)
1 ft. x 1 1/2 ft. $2.00
3 ft. x 4 ft. $7.50

Beautifully Reproduced! For prompt delivery, put name and address on back of photo.

The Blow Yourself Up Co. Dept. 663 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022

Please send me... posters $3.50 $2.50 $7.50 $2.00 plus 50c each for postage and handling.

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____

This isn't the only place for public service. You might be happier at Aetna.

If you have a gift for people—helping them, guiding them—Aetna would like you to consider taking an administrative position with us.

Why insurance? Because insurance was invented to help people solve problems. Why Aetna? Because we have an excellent record in doing just that. Today, 27 million people look to us for a more worry-free life. And that number is growing rapidly.

Aetna has a variety of administrative jobs open today, both in the field, and in the home office. Jobs that pay substantial salaries right from the start. They're challenging jobs in a fast-growing company.

We suggest you read the Aetna brochure "The Whole Truth" that's in the Placement Office. Cover to cover, it's an honest picture of an honest business.

There's a special section in it called "Administration and Service" which will give complete detailed descriptions of jobs for you. Some will have you dealing with firms, some with the public, some with individuals. But all put a premium on versatility, sound judgment, and the ability to originate and carry out plans and programs.

Coming with Aetna could give you an excellent chance to help thousands, even millions of people. Including yourself.

We are an Equal Opportunity Employer and a JOBS-participating company.

