

New senior class officers making plans

by Richard Helbig
Staff Writer

The newly-elected senior class officers have created what they think could become a most effective and beneficial organization.

Comprised of 10 completely new committees, it is designed to involve the entire senior class in many projects.

Lee Hood Capps, class president, explained "the purpose of these committees is to encompass all members of the class of '72, so as not to limit class identity to the four elected officers."

Capps said committee chairmen would all be seniors, but any interested student is eligible and encouraged to apply for an interview next week to serve on a committee.

One of the committees will deal with fair housing. Headed by George Butler, Capps termed it "the most vital and far-reaching project of next year's senior class officers."

The chief goal of the housing committee would be the formation of a Fair Housing Commission, which would seek legal recognition from the Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen.

Capps indicated more than 60 per cent of the student body resides in non-University housing. The figure includes 65 per cent of the senior class.

The class president was confident all students living off campus would benefit greatly from the work of Butler's group.

The Committee for the Advancement of Minority and Disadvantaged Students (AMDS) was cited by Capps as being the most-needed of the 10 committees.

He said the new senior committee would work in conjunction with existing AMDS groups, providing financial assistance as well as manpower.

Pat Wood and Jim Hornstein of Project Uplift have expressed their willingness to assist the new committee as it is incorporated into the current AMDS program.

Capps said the students who display the keenest interest will receive first priority in selecting members of the Fair Housing and AMDS Committees.

Seniors are to have primary consideration for membership on the other eight committees.

Jan Brickett, secretary of the State Student Legislature, will chair the Committee on External Affairs. The committee is intended to make students more aware of the world beyond the UNC campus.

Tentative plans for the External Affairs group include initiation of a statewide service project. Capps mentioned an extension of the Hunger Walk program as one possibility.

Another idea for the committee is to supplement the College Night admissions teams with college students. The teams travel to high schools across the state to acquaint prospective applicants with the University and its functions.

The Committee on Senior Activities will be headed by Becky Snider and Fred Williams, who will choose the marshals for this year's commencement exercises.

Next year, the Activities Committee will be working to reinstate the Senior Ball. Once the biggest social event on campus, the ball lost its funding in 1968.

A third function projected for the Activities Committee is to renew the senior corsage sale for the 1971 Homecoming.

The Committee on Scholarships, Gifts and Fund-Raising will work closely with the Senior Activities Committee in selecting the annual senior gift.

Janet Silverman and Cam West will be co-chairmen. The committee will deal with various financial projects.

The Committees on Internal Affairs and Curriculum Change will be mainly concerned with research in their respective fields.

Internal Affairs will investigate the feasibility of 24-hour library service, improved infirmary facilities and extended bus service.

Curriculum Change will seek renovations and alternatives in academic areas such as independent research, traveling for credit and other fields of study where change may be needed.

The remaining two senior committees are self-explanatory; the Committee for Student Insurance and the Draft Counseling Committee.

Interviews for all 10 committees will be conducted in the Carolina Union from Tuesday to Thursday.

Senior Committee applications will be the same as the ones used for the Chancellor's committees. They are available at the Union information desk and in Suite C.

The daily calendar in the Union should be consulted for the location of the interviews.

Six young blacks were arrested late Thursday night in connection with five recent Chapel Hill firebombings bringing to 12 the number of persons charged in the incidents.

The youths, arrested at their homes by Chapel Hill Police, are charged with arson and/or conspiracy to commit arson. Six other persons were arrested Thursday morning on similar charges.

All 12 are being held in the Hillsborough jail in lieu of $60,000 bond each.

The 12 arrested are:
—John Henry Edwards, 17, of Rt. 3, Hillsborough, a saw mill worker, charged with conspiracy to commit arson;
—Carlyle DeGraffenreid, 18, of Chapel Hill, a student at Chapel Hill High School; conspiracy to commit arson;

—Clarence Atwater, 19, of Carrboro, a student at Chapel Hill High School, conspiracy to commit arson;

—Tommy Noell, 19, of Carrboro, a student at Chapel Hill High School; arson and conspiracy to commit arson;

—Michael Foushee, 16, of Chapel Hill, at student at Chapel Hill High School; conspiracy to commit arson;

—Ivey Joe Page, 16, of Chapel Hill, a student at Chapel Hill High School; arson and conspiracy to commit arson;

—Vincent Holman, 22, of Chapel Hill, unemployed; arson and conspiracy to commit arson;

—Louis Ray Fuller, 25, of Chapel Hill, unemployed; arson and conspiracy to commit arson;

—Lonnie DeGraffenreid, 21, of Chapel Hill, a service station employe, arson and conspiracy to commit arson;

—Carnell Snipes, 17, of Rt. 2, Rougemont, an Orange County High School student, arson and conspiracy to commit arson; —Nathaniel Jones, 18, of Carrboro, a Chapel Hill High School student, two counts of arson and conspiracy to commit arson;

—David Noell, 22, of Rt. 2, Hillsborough, a construction worker, arson.

Chapel Hill Police Captain C.E. Durham said the twelve will be arraigned early next week in Orange County District Court.

He declined to comment on details leading to the arrests, but said "there will be more arrests."

Damaged in Tuesday night and Wednesday morning fires were the Harmony Natural Foods Store in Carrboro, the Johnson-Strowd Ward

Furniture Company at 462 W. Franklin St. and an art room at the Chapel Hill High School.

Fires on March 26 did $117,000 damage to the Chapel Hill-Carrboro City Schools administrative building and minor damage to the Institute of Pharmacy.

Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee praised the work of the Chapel Hill Police in handling the cases.

"I'm pleased we've been able to move as fast as we have in finding the individuals we think to be responsible," he commented.

"I'm extremely disappointed that some of the men are men I've known for some months now.

"I hope this type of action will not plague our community in the future."

Asked if he thought the bombings were related to the acquittal of three motorcycle gang members in the death of James Cates, Jr., a Chapel Hill youth, Mayor Lee said, "I think it's difficult to say. [The bombings] may be related to a number of things. I would hesitate to take any kind of guess as to the motives behind the bombings . . ."

To President Friday

Chancellor candidates proposed

by Evans Witt
Staff Writer

The recommendations of the Chancellor's Selection Committee have been given to Consolidated University President William C. Friday.

Friday will make his recommendation for the new chancellor to replace retiring Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson to the full Board of Trustees in their regular meeting on May 24.

The recommendations of the committee, headed by Ike F. Andrews of Siler City, were to consist of three names in alphabetical order from which Friday was to make his choice.

Friday's recommendation to the Trustees has a very good chance of approval. Friday has never had one of his nominations rejected by the Board.

The new chancellor will assume his post Sept. 1, 1971, when Sitterson's resignation becomes effective.

Sitterson announced his resignation last summer, intending to return to full-time teaching after relinquishing his administrative duties.

The advisory committee headed by Andrews has been working on the selection of the new chancellor since last September.

Nominations for the positions were accepted by the committee last fall which undertook the task of establishing criteria for the selection.

The advisory committee is composed of 14 people. Included are five members of the Board of Trustees, six representatives from the University faculty, the president of the Alumni Association, the student body president and a representative of the University staff and employees.

President Friday said the advisory committee has not been disbanded by him. The move may indicate further consultations between the committee and Friday before Friday makes his recommendation to the Board of Trustees in May.

It's a dog's life?

Some strange things have happened on Franklin Street. But one of the strangest occurred this week when these two men were found wheeling a dog down the street in a laundry basket. Man's best friend was not too pleased so he made an escape halfway down the street. The superiority of the human race was proved, however, as the restless creature was captured and returned to his free ride . . . maybe it is a dog's life. (Staff photo by Cliff Kolovson)
