

Student secretary is 'problem handler'

by Jessica Hanchar
Staff Writer

Mary Fontaine, a sophomore from Raleigh, was elected secretary of the student body in a write-in campaign she did not know she had entered.

"I didn't know I was running until the end of the day (March 16)," she said.

The race for secretary of the student body was run solely on write-in votes since no student filed for the position.

Votes for secretary were not tabulated until more than a week after the election due to the large number of names written in.

Miss Fontaine's task, according to Joe Stallings, president of the student body, "will be basically that of a problem handler."

"Any student who has a problem or needs information should ask for her to refer him to the appropriate office," he said.

"My main problem so far has been getting oriented to the names, faces and functions of the Student Government leaders and organizations so that I'll know where to send people with problems," said Miss Fontaine.

She said her job was "time-consuming but interesting. So far it's been hectic as everything, but fantastic."

"We are pleased to have Mary on the executive staff," commented Stallings. "She has shown she is more than willing to cooperate with any student who comes to Suite C with a problem."

The secretary can be found in Suite C of the Carolina Union from 1 to 5 p.m. every weekday except Thursday.

Most modern in Southeast

Health Library dedication today

UNC News Bureau

The newest and most modern Health Sciences Library in the entire Southeast will be dedicated here on the UNC campus today.

The all-day dedication ceremony will feature a distinguished slate of speakers from both the state and national level, a luncheon at the Morehead Planetarium and tours of the new facility.

Several hundred state and university officials, health sciences leaders, librarians and special guests are expected to attend the ceremony which will be held in the School of Public Health auditorium.

Dr. Lloyd Stevenson, director of the Welch Institute, will be the dedication speaker. The Welch Institute is the history-of-medicine arm of the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine Library.

Miss Gertrude Annan, librarian emerita of the New York Academy of Medicine, historian, author, teacher and former president of the Medical Library Association, will be opening speaker during the morning session. Dr. Gert Brieger, Duke University professor of history, author and medical school faculty member, will be the second speaker of the morning.

Concluding the symposium-type morning session will be Dr. Lester S. King, historian, pathologist, author and editor for American Medical Association publications.

Dr. C. Arden Miller, former UNC vice chancellor for Health Sciences and now professor of maternal and child health in the UNC School of Public Health, will moderate the formal afternoon session.

UNC President William C. Friday will welcome guests to the campus and speak briefly about the significance of the occasion.

A part of the dedication program will be devoted to celebration of National Library Week, April 19-25.

Located in the center of the University's health sciences complex, the new $1.8 million library will serve the schools of medicine, dentistry, nursing, public health and pharmacy.

The new library is staffed by 10 full-time professionals, 21 full-time staff members and 13 part-time students. It has a seating capacity of 560, plus reference and writing areas.

Stage one of the library building, just completed, contains 45,000 square feet on three floors with an additional 45,000 square feet planned for the late 1970's. Funds have not been appropriated for the second stage.

Geer announces aid recipients

UNC News Bureau

William Geer, director of the Student Aid Office at the University, announced this week a number of scholarships which have been granted for study at UNC.

Thomas James Heffner Jr. of Salisbury has been awarded a Sigmund Sternberger Scholarship for study at the University.

Heffner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Heffner, 721 North Ellis St., Salisbury. A senior at Boyden High School, he is a member of the Student Council, Quill and Scroll, Key Club, Latin Club and Spanish Club.

The Sigmund Sternberger Scholarships for undergraduates and medical students were established at UNC here in 1970 by the Sigmund Sternberger Foundation of Greensboro.

William Reid Dalton III of Burlington has been awarded a John Quintin Gant Memorial Scholarship for study at the University.

Dalton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Dalton, 417 Tarpley St., Burlington. A senior at Walter M. Williams High School, he is a member of the National Honor Society, the French Club and the Student Council. He is also a member of the N.C. All-State Orchestra.

William Lee Bell of Robbins has been awarded a Fletcher Industries Scholarship for study at the University of North Carolina here.

Bell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Bell. A senior at North Moore High School, he is a member of the Beta Club, Science Club and has attended the Governor's School. He served as chief marshal and played in the All-State Band.

The Fletcher Industries Scholarships were endowed by Fletcher Industries of Southern Pines, with executive offices in Cheltenham, Penn. and plants in Statesville. The company manufactures machinery and equipment for the textile industry.

Six winners of the distinguished William Asbury Whitaker Scholarships for undergraduate study at UNC were announced.

The recipients are Nancy Dale Batchelor, Beulaville; Scott Rollins Crowgay, Charlotte; Carl Robin Luckadoo, Morganton; Kathy Jane Sizemore, Arden; Mellie Gordon Smith III, High Point; and Catherine Ann Wood, Richmond, Va.

The awards, renewable each year, were established by a bequest of the late William A. Whitaker of Winston-Salem and New York.

Maurice Lynn Shearin of Norlina has been awarded the distinguished Alston-Pleasants Scholarship for four years of study at UNC.

Shearin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Shearin Jr. of Box 433, Norlina.

A senior at Norlina High School, he is a member of the Beta Club and is active in the Student Council and Glee Club. He has also served on the annual staff and as a marshal.

The Alston-Pleasants Scholarship was established in 1958 as a $100,000 trust fund to the University memorializing Willis (Congress) Alston by his granddaughter Mrs. Missouri Alston Pleasants of Louisburg.

Paul Douglas Jakes of Durham has won the distinguished Herbert Worth Jackson Scholarship for study at UNC.

Jakes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Webb Jakes, 618 Hammond St., Durham.

First in his class at Northern High School, he is a member of the National Honor Society and served as chief junior marshal. Jakes was a Boys' State Nominee and won an Outstanding Teenager of America Award. He has attended the Governor's School.

AWS will honor 8 at Sunday reception

Eight dormitory women will be honored at the annual Association of Women Students (AWS) reception on Sunday. One of the eight nominees will be named the "Most Outstanding Dormitory Women of the Year" at the reception at 4 p.m. in the Morehead Planetarium Faculty Lounge.

The award, formerly presented by the Carolina Women's Council, is being given this year by AWS for the first time this year.

The eight nominees were chosen by a selection committee from 20 candidates who were chosen by their dormitories.

The nominees are Annis L. Arthur of Granville East, Fenna J. Boon of Spencer, Sandra A. Greene of McIver, Dony K. Holtzclaw of Morrison, Sharon L. McDonald of Parker, Catherine A. Myers of Joyner, M. Joy Wilson of Whitehead and S. Holladay Worth of East Cobb.

Cathy Cauthorne, AWS chairman, will preside at the reception. Dean of Women Katherine K. Carmichael will speak at the ceremonies. The awards will be presented by Mrs. J. Carlyle Sitterson and by James O. Cansler, associate dean of student affairs.

Health Library dedication today

"For the past 18 years we have maintained library branches in each of the health sciences schools," says Miss Myrl Ebert, librarian.

"But now for the first time they are under one roof."

Outside, the new library is ultra-modern... stone, brick, glass and aluminum.

Inside, the facilities are futuristic.

Teletype equipment links Chapel Hill with other health sciences libraries. This equipment can be used to locate and obtain reproductions of articles in a matter of hours.

Xerox copiers can duplicate whole pages in a matter of seconds.

"Teaching machines," microprint readers, tape recorders, movie projectors and 500 private students carrels (many sound-proofed) aid independent study.

The History of Medicine Room is a "show place" of scholarly items for historical research, rare books and archival material.

The Health Sciences Library contains 125,000 volumes.

Miss Ebert explains that only the School of Pharmacy will maintain a separate school library.

Candidate quiz session

Chapel Hill Town and School Board candidates will meet the voters in two question and answer sessions next Tuesday and Wednesday. Both meetings will be held at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of Guy B. Phillips Junior High School.

The election is May 4.

The Tuesday meeting will feature Town candidates and issues. Transportation Commission Chairman George T. Lathrop will answer questions on the referendum to provide tax support for the bus system.

The Wednesday meeting will feature School Board candidates.

Both sessions are sponsored by the Chapel Hill League of Women Voters, with the Chapel Hill Association of Educators co-sponsoring the appearance of School Board candidates.
