

State-wide meet in August

Student conference set

by Norman Black
Staff Writer

A conference for student leaders from campuses across the state will be held on Aug. 13-15, possibly on the Chapel Hill campus.

The site of the conference has not yet been decided by its organizers. It will take place, however, on either the Chapel Hill or Duke campus.

The purpose of the conference is "to get together and talk about some of the political issues that will affect students throughout North Carolina," commented Charles Jeffries, one of the student organizers.

"Last spring, Al Lowenstein, the ex-congressman from New York, got together and talked with a few student leaders about what politically needed to be done in North Carolina. From that session came the idea for this conference," Jeffries said.

Lowenstein is also the founder of a national group called Registration Summer. He has established a group of 50 students who travel around the country and encourage 18 year olds to register and exercise their right to vote.

Jeffries and Butch Rooks, both recent graduates of Carolina, have spent the last month canvassing the state campuses in an effort to build support for the conference. They have now been joined by Rod Fonda, a representative of Registration Summer.

Jeffries reported that the response so far has been "overwhelmingly favorable." "We expect between 250-300 people to attend this conference."

The presidents of the different campuses, the editors of the campus newspapers, and all summer interns in state agencies have been invited to attend.

The organizers also hope to draw in a number of high-school students as well as some college-age youths who are not attending school.

There will be approximately 10 to 11 sponsors for the conference. These will include UNC, N.C. State, UNC-C, Appalachian State, ECU, Davidson, Duke and Queens.

Possible issues for discussion by the conference attendants include educational innovation, student legal rights, voter registration, the reorganization of higher education, and the financial independence of Student Government.

"My own personal goal for the conference is to see some kind of state-wide coordinating board formed that would conduct a voter registration drive," Jeffries said.

Student Body President Joe Stallings is in full support of the conference.

"After my recent work in legislature, I have found it impossible to separate campus activities from politics. Our voice in voting won't be heard unless we act in a united way."
