

Ralph Nader to speak tonight

Ralph Nader

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader, who has drawn the ire of automobile manufacturers and other industrial groups for his work, will speak tonight in Carmichael Auditorium.

Tickets for the Nader speech, which begins at 8 p.m., will be on sale for $1 until 7 p.m. at the Student Union Information Desk and at the door of Carmichael tonight.

Chris Sawyer, chairman of the Carolina Forum, said more than 2,500 tickets have already been sold for the speech.

Nader, a graduate of Princeton University, first gained national prominence in 1965 with the publication of his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed." The book detailed in vivid language the inherent dangers of American automobiles due to design problems.

Nader has been engaged in a running battle concerning safety with the makers of the nation's cars since the appearance of the book, which has now been translated into seven foreign languages.

In 1969, he organized the Center for Auto Safety to continue his studies into the nation's largest industry. "What to Do With Your Bad Car: An Action Manual for Lemon Owners" is one of the results of the center's work.

Nader's establishment of the Center for Study of Responsive Law in 1967 brought into being the now famous "Nader's Raiders."

These study groups, composed of dozens of young lawyers and other concerned young people, have investigated numerous government agencies and probed many public interest issues.

Under the direction of Nader, a graduate of Harvard Law School, the Raiders have studied and published the shortcomings and advantages of the Food and Drug Administration and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"Vanishing Air," a study of the problems of controlling air pollution in America, was published in 1970 by a Nader research group. Another Nader group recently produced a book-length investigation of American water pollution.

An investigation of the problems of old age, "Old Age: The Last Segregation," has also been published under Nader's direction.

A consumer interest group is in the organizational stages in the Triangle area under the direction of a Nader associate, Brent English.

Students at N.C. State, Duke and Chapel Hill have been asked to join the regional effort to improve the lot of the consumer.

Nader's appearance on the Chapel Hill campus is sponsored by the Carolina Forum and the School of Public Health.

Students hit food quality on campus

by Jessica Hanchar
Staff Writer

Students criticized the quality of employees and the nutrition of foods used by the campus food service during an open forum Wednesday afternoon.

Managers of Servomation-Mathias food service fielded questions and comments as part of the Student Food Service Commission. The Commission will analyze the complaints and suggestions in an effort to improve the campus food service, the managers said.

Students wrote questions and complaints on cards provided by Sheila Wall, Commission Chairman, at the beginning of the forum. Managers answered questions from the cards pertaining to their field of supervision.

Those answering questions were Robert Greer, Servomation director on campus; Art Nilson, Servomation assistant director and manager of Chase Cafeteria; Tom Hoover, manager of the Pine Room Cafeteria; and Walt Sherlin, manager of the Student Union Snack Bar. "The quality of employees at Chase needs to be improved," said one student during the forum.

"Granted, we do have some personnel problems," Nilson said. "We have tried to hire the best and most experienced people, but it's a job of training and retraining them to work more efficiently," he said.

Another student attacked the nutrition level of foods prepared by Servomation. "Servomation as a company does strive for nutritious meals," said Nilson.

One student asked why frozen meats instead of freshly butchered meats were used by Servomation.

Nilson said Servomation purchases their meats from one national corporation. This method of purchasing "gives us control on the quality," he said.

Discussion of the meal plan centered on the two-meal plan. Under this plan, a student receives breakfast and dinner. Some students preferred a two-meal plan serving lunch and dinner.

Managers said the present two-meal plan provided a greater saving to students than a lunch and dinner plan. Greer also said the management thought most students preferred snacks to a full lunch. He said, however, a lunch and dinner plan "is a possibility for next semester or next year."

A request for small drinks in the Snack Bar was raised at the forum. After asking how many students at the forum would prefer small drinks, Greer said, "We will come up with this recommendation since there seems to be a sizable demand for it."

Greer said he expected the commission to take "constructive criticism" and follow them with action. "We're going to make it a good food service," he said.

Carolina to fete birthday

University Day - unlike commemorations in the past - will include a bicycle parade, a campus clean-up campaign and a "grand birthday party."

Classes will be suspended from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. October 12 so that students can participate in the activities. No tests or exams may be given and no papers are due on University Day.

The bicycle parade, following formal ceremonies at Hill Hall, will be led by the UNC Marching Band and will terminate at The Pit, during the 178th anniversary celebration.

The campus clean-up campaign, "Spontaneous Beauty Day," will be an individual effort by students to improve the campus environment. Plastic bags will be available for trash collection and trash cans will be painted.

Activities for the birthday party include the signing of a giant birthday card, which Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson will officially accept for the University.

King Nyle and the UNC Pep Band will lead the singing of "Happy Birthday," followed by the serving of free cake and Coke, provided by Servomation and Coca-Cola of Durham.

An address by former Governor Luther H. Hodges and the presentation of the Faculty Distinguished Alumnus awards will highlight the formal University Day activities.

The awards are a new feature of University Day and will be presented to five alumnae who have "distinguished themselves in a manner that has brought credit to the University."

All students interested in participating in the parade must register their bicycles October 6 - 11 in front of the Scuttlebutt, Y-Court or Undergraduate Library.

Decorations for the bicycles will be distributed at Hill Hall prior to the parade.

Free Yo-Yos, balloons, bubbles, water guns and "Fli-backs" will be provided by the Carolina Union Special Projects Committee at The Pit following the parade.

Other features of University Day include bowling and billiards at the Carolina Union at half-price and the rates at Finley Golf Course will be reduced.

The clean-up campaign is being sponsored by the Coalition for Grass, a group supported by fraternities, sororities and the Residence College Federation (RCF).

Draft counsel funds topic of SL meeting

by Woody Doster
Staff Writer

Student Legislature (SL) will consider a $225 appropriation for the UNC Draft Counseling Service at today's 7 p.m. meeting.

Rules Committee Chairman Gerry Cohen is sponsoring the bill. He said the money would fund the organization, which advises UNC students on the options available to them under the Selective Service laws, until June 1, 1972. The bill originally requested $695 for the draft counseling organization. SL's Finance Committee trimmed the figure down to its present level.

"Student Government is over-appropriated by about $2,000," said Finance Committee chairman Robert Grady. "Our projected income this year is about $270,000. Despite that fact, we have already appropriated about $272,000."

Grady said Student Government's income is expected to increase this year because of overenrollment, absorbing the overappropriation. Grady said he hopes to know exactly how much extra money Student Government can expect "by the end of the month."

He said counseling service officials had told him their organization "can survive" with the proposed $225 appropriation.

Cohen said an attempt to increase the appropriation will be made from the floor tonight.

A bill calling for a referendum on the question of establishing a student-financed bus system was withdrawn by its sponsor, Representative Clayton Woodard.

"I'm afraid there hasn't been enough preparation on the bill to ask for a referendum," Woodard said. "I would like to take a couple of months to examine university bus systems around the country."

In another action, SL will consider a bill by Grady to prohibit Student Government organizations from loaning or giving supplies or equipment to persons for other than organizational use. The bill would also prohibit the use of Student Government facilities in support of a political candidate.

"There have been a lot of problems with people using student government supplies for their own purposes," Grady said. "This is depleting everyone's money."

GPSF to ask SL for financial aid

by Sue English
Staff Writer

The Graduate and Professional Student Federation (GPSF) will introduce two bills tonight to the Student Legislature in hopes of being funded from the general surplus budget.

Presiding officer of the GPSF Senate Jim Becker said the Senate and the Educational Planning and Curriculum Convention of the GPSF will submit separate budgets asking for essentially the same items.

Items included in the money bills are secretarial help, office supplies, printing expenses, telephones and typewriters. In its budget last spring Student Government allocated $3,000 for GPSF.

The federation has not yet received any of the funds.

Becker said the new budget requests "will probably amount to more than the $3,000 assigned in last year's budget."

According to Becker, bills for other GPSF committees will be submitted at a later date.

GPSF President Daisy Junge said Wednesday the appointment of Ken Chanel of the education department to the Chancellor's Consultative Forum has been approved by the GPSF Executive Board.

Miss Junge also announced GPSF is considering the establishment of a committee on minority relations, dealing with the status of women and blacks on campus.

Lee: try for Congress 'probable'

by Reggie Lester
Staff Writer

Mayor Howard Lee said Wednesday he will "most probably" run for Congress in 1972 if he runs for any office.

Lee said he is "not as warm" to the idea of running for Commissioner of Labor, a post he has mentioned previously as a possibility.

"A definite decision cannot be made at this time," Lee said, "until the status of the redistricting suit is determined."

The suit contests the removing of Orange County from the 4th Congressional District and placing it in the 2nd District. United Press International (UPI) reported Lee Wednesday Lee said he would run for Congress. Lee made his remarks at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where he was speaking before the Midwest School of Social Work Conference.

Lee said he would run in other Congressional District if he decides to run.

He said he was "much more encouraged by public opinion" to run for Congress, instead of Commissioner of Labor.

"My mail has been running 10-15 to 2, in favor of running for Congress in 1972," Lee said. "After investigating the Commissioner of Labor's role, I have decided that I can accomplish more by running for Congress."

Lee said he is still analyzing the composition of the electorate in the 2nd District. "There is still a lot of voter registration to be done," he said.

"I think my chances of election are fair now," Lee said, "but things can be changed by election day."

Lee said in his Milwaukee speech it was time minority groups such as women and blacks unite to "seek a change in leadership in this country," according to the UPI report.

The UPI story reported Lee said the nation was losing some great minds because it still discriminates by sex and color.

Lee also said it was unlikely a black could be nominated and elected Vice President in 1972, but held out hopes for four years later.

Lee criticized a recent story that black children have lower IQ's than whites.

"There are dumb blacks and there are dumb whites," Lee said, "and there are smart blacks and there are smart whites. You and I know enough research hasn't been conducted to prove if intelligence is inherent."
