Audit firm okays SG records

A professional audit firm has found Student Government (SG) financial reports to be "in conformity with accepted accounting principles," SG officials said Thursday.

"They reported that nothing is wrong," said Robert Grady, chairman of Student Legislature's Finance Committee. "That's the nicest thing an auditor can say. That's the highest clearance."

Student Body Treasurer Donnie Dale said the report was good evidence that last spring's charges of mishandling student fees were unfounded. "There was no mismanagement," he said.

SG contracted Touche Ross & Co. to conduct the audit — the first of student funds here in 15 years — at the suggestion of the Student Audit Board after handling of fees was questioned last spring.

Grady and Dale said they think a professional audit of SG records may not be necessary each year since the audit reported no discrepancies.

Sex counseling begins Monday

A human sexuality information and counseling service will open Monday on campus.

The service will be available in Suite C of the Student Union from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, according to Robert Wilson, co-chairman of the Human Sexuality Committee. The committee is sponsoring the service.

Wilson said the service will provide accurate information on various aspects of sexuality, refer students who desire help to the various services in the University dealing with sexuality and provide counseling in sexuality and interpersonal relationships.

The actual counseling work will be done by a staff of 20 volunteers. The Student Health Service and the Switchboard counseling service trained the volunteers for the service.

Information and materials will also be available at the counseling office.

The counseling service phone number is 933-5055.

Student named to drug panel

Larry Larson, a freshman Morehead scholar, said Friday he is trying to represent youth and their viewpoints as Gov. Bob Scott's first youth member of the N.C. Drug Authority.

Larson said his appointment is "a chance to use the contacts of the committee to learn about the workings of the state system of government."

The committee will have an organizational meeting Wednesday.

Larson said the purpose of the committee will be to make suggestions for drug legislation and to serve as an advisory board on drug issues. The "knowledge and quality of the men on the committee will insure its success," he said.

Larson was valedictorian of his class at Sanderson High in Raleigh and he was a member of the National Honor Society. He received the Outstanding Senior Award from the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce.

Perl appointed Physiology head

Dr. Edward R. Perl has been named to succeed Dr. Augustus T. Miller as chairman of the Department of Physiology.

Formerly of the University of Utah, Perl has also held appointments in physiology at the University of Illinois, John Hopkins School of Medicine, Walter Reed Army Medical Center and the State University of New York College of Medicine at Syracuse.

He has held two visiting professorships in France and was president of the Society for Neuroscience in 1969-70.

Union sponsors learning groups

A series of encounter groups, sponsored by the Carolina Union, will be offered to students beginning next week.

The program is designed for persons who feel they are functioning well in their day-to-day lives and would like to further their personal growth.

Encounter groups are learning communities, providing each participant the opportunity to know himself and his feelings better and to understand how those feelings affect his behavior.

Other objectives of the program are for each participant to learn through honest feedback how his behavior makes other people feel toward him; to become more comfortable in expressing his own feelings; and to develop a greater ability to listen, to understand and to be empathic with people.

Supervised by a qualified group facilitator, the sessions involve a group of eight to 10 people in 10 90-minute sessions. The same group of persons meet together for the entire 10 sessions over a five-week period.

This semester, there will be three groups, which will meet at 1 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays; 6:30 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and 2 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays.

Interested students may sign up at the Student Union information desk. There will be a charge of $5.

UNC prof gets research grant

Dr. Louis S. Harris of the UNC School of Medicine was named as one of the six researchers by the Ford Foundation and New York City to search for a new and more effective non-addictive heroin substitute.

Harris was named in the $100,000 Ford Grant and $284,000 New York City Grant, which were funded as six projects, each designed to improve the effectiveness of the "antagonist" drugs cyclozincine and naloxone.

Another UNC professor, Leonard Berlow, director of Drug Abuse education of the UNC School of Pharmacy, has been named to the Advisory Committee of the Southern Regional Education Board in Atlanta.

A member of the 10-man board, Berlow will help to advise the group in the education of its 14-member southern states in the abuse of drugs.

In experimenting with the new drugs created for the purpose of alleviating dependence on heroin, Harris explained, "Unlike methadone, which blocks the craving for heroin but is an addictive drug itself, cyclozincine and naloxone are not addictive."

Cyclozincine and naloxone do not quell the desire for heroin, Harris said, but they do block out the euphoric feeling that is associated with heroin and thus could eventually discourage the use of it.

Drug users may be able to be deconditioned by the use of these drugs when they feel no effect from heroin, and after the "deconditioning" the antagonist drugs can also be discontinued.

According to the UNC scientist, a pioneer in drug research, each researcher in the project will look for ways to modify the chemical structure of the two antagonist drugs in ways that will prolong their action in the body.

Indian festival begins Monday

While Monday is just "another day" in the U.S., it marks the beginning of Deepavali in India, one of the three major Hindu festivals of the country.

Deepavali (called Diwali, for short) comes annually during the second half of October and the first half of November.

Deepavali literally means "a row of lights" and such illumination is the major feature of the festival. Earthen pots filled with oil are lighted in the evenings and set up in extended in rows both inside and outside the houses and public buildings. Firework displays also form a vital part of the five-day celebration.

Another important feature characterizing the festival is gambling with sea shells. The noise coming from gambling dens is aimed at attracting the attention of Laxmi, the goddess of wealth.

Gambling is officially banned in India, and believers of these superstitions have to indulge in such acts secretly.

Diwali marks the onset of the winter season, and farmers consider it to be a fertility festival.

Diwali is also the time for brother-sister reunions. It is believed that every male should dine in the house of his sister or a female relative. This is to commemorate the occasion when Yama-Dvitya, a Hindu mythological figure dined with his sister Yamuna and commanded everyone to do likewise.

Diwali has its origins in Hindi mythology. Historically, the festival commemorates the return of the warrior Rama and his coronation after an exile of 14 years in the jungles. Other mythological stories connected with the festival are the reconciliation of Lord Shiva and his wife Parvati and the victory of Vishnu over the demon king, Bali.

Corsage sale begins Monday

"Mum's the Word" will be the theme of this year's Homecoming mum sale, being held Monday through Wednesday, Senior Class President Lee Hood Capps announced Thursday.

The price of the corsages will be $2. Students may purchase them from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at residence colleges, Y-Court, Chase Cafeteria, the Student Union and the Undergraduate Library.

Proceeds from the sale, sponsored annually by the senior class, will go into the Molly Nicholson Memorial Scholarship fund, Capps said.

Financial Aid Director William Geer called this one of the most fluid and free scholarships available through the University, Capps said.

Students who buy a corsage will be given a ticket which they will present at one of 10 distribution centers Oct. 23. The distribution point will be stamped on the ticket and will be open from 8:45 to 11 a.m. on Homecoming Day.

Mums will be distributed from 8:45 a.m. on the day of the game at Finley Golf Course, the Scuttlebutt and the Carolina Inn and from 10:30 a.m. at the Morehead Building.

The flowers will be on sale at the four gates of Kenan Stadium from 11:30 a.m. until game time.

"In an age of declining traditions, this is one of the only ones remaining on campus," Capps said. "If we sell 5,000 mums, the senior class can net $3,700 for the scholarship fund."

Capps explained the scholarship, created by the class of '68, is awarded annually to a student whose financial situation would otherwise keep him from attending the University.

Godwin won't fight Saturday primary

RALEIGH — House Speaker Phil Godwin Friday said he won't oppose a drive to have the upcoming special legislative session switch the 1972 primary election from Tuesday back to a traditional Saturday vote.

But Godwin told newsmen he is against efforts to have the October 26 special session take up the issue of permitting absentee ballots in the primary.

"I wouldn't have any objections in just repealing the 1971 act and putting it back on Saturday," said Godwin.

"As presiding officer, I have a fear of opening the door to other bills, but if it's just a simple matter of repealing, I wouldn't have any objections," he said.

State Senator Phil Kirk (R-Rowan) said however that he favors the drive to provide for absentee ballots, and feels Republicans will make a major campaign issue of the ballot controversy unless the law is changed at this month's special session.

Kirk urged that the right to absentee ballots in next year's primary be extended to students, truck drivers, salesmen and others who will have to be away from their permanent residences.

"It is hypocritical to give young people the right to vote and then set the primary day when it will be virtually impossible for them to cast their ballots," said Kirk.

The General Assembly of 1971 switched the day of the primary from Saturday to Tuesday.

Textile duty dropped

TOKYO — The United States exempted Japanese textiles from the 10 percent surcharge on imports Friday in exchange for an agreement by Japan to limit its U.S. sales to woolen and synthetic materials. A similar agreement was signed later in the day with Hong Kong and South Korea.

Textile executives in North Carolina, where more than 50 plants have closed in the past year and a half, were generally pleased but very restrained Friday in reacting to news of the United States — Japanese agreement to limit textile shipments.

Several refused comment and many said the effect of the limitations will depend greatly on just how much protection the controls will give specific segments of the industry.

Leonard Morenz of Carolina Mills at Maiden, President of the North Carolina Textile Manufacturers Association, said "I am grateful to the President for following through on it."

But, he said that overall limits on the increase of textile imports would be "rather meaningless" unless the bargain effectively stopped the Japanese from "concentrating shipments of one given product into the country and destroying that market."

The agreement placed an overall growth limit of five percent on Japanese exports for the next three years. It established two major classes of man-made textiles, with further limits on the various categories.

Medina discharged

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. — Captain Ernest L. Medina, who resigned from the army following his acquittal on charges of presiding over a massacre at My Lai, was honorably discharged today and left saying he had "no animosity and no hard feelings."

The 35-year-old Medina, dressed in army tans and accompanied by his two military attorneys, entered the personnel building at Ft. McPherson promptly at 10:00 a.m. He emerged 10 minutes later, smiling and dressed in a brown civilian suit.

Asked how he felt, he jokingly shot back: "Like a civilian."

In addition to his discharge papers, Medina, of Montrose, Colorado, was, as a matter of routine, handed certificates of appreciation from President Nixon and Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland.

Nixon lauds Graham

CHARLOTTE — President Nixon, paying tribute to his friend, Evangelist Billy Graham, Friday called for a renewal of "the religious faith, morality and strength of character that America had when it was young."

Nixon, in a speech highlighting "Billy Graham Day" in the evangelist's home town, said the nation needs a strong religious faith to "meet the challenge of maintaining peace and freedom in the world."

The president flew to Charlotte Friday afternoon to unveil a plaque which will be placed at the site where Graham was born.

Nixon praised Graham as "the top evangelist, the top preacher in the world." Graham, who spoke before the president, began his remarks by getting off a series of one-liners which brought cheers from the crowd of 12,000 at the Charlotte Coliseum.

Graham said when he was a boy he lived in poverty, "Except, we did not know we were poor. We did not have sociologists, educators, and newscasters constantly reminding us of how poor we were."

"We also had the problem of rats. The only difference between then and now is we did not call upon the government to kill them. We killed our own," Graham said.

Reagan visits Thieu

SAIGON — U.S. Presidential en-Ronald Reagan congratulated South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu today on winning a one man election and said George Washington was also elected without opposition.

The California governor told a news conference before leaving for Seoul, South Korea, he also brought Thieu a message from President Nixon saying there would be "no change in the course or policy of our nation" toward South Vietnam.

Reagan, touring Asia as Nixon's emissary, said he gave Thieu Nixon's "congratulations" on winning the "recent referendum."

Reagan said he "couldn't understand the uproar" about Thieu's uncontested October 3 election especially since such elections are standard in Communist bloc and underdeveloped countries. He said, "I don't believe there was an opponent to our first president."
