Alaskan explosion draws new protest

WASHINGTON—Protests against Saturday's scheduled nuclear explosion on Amchitka Island in Alaska mounted Thursday as Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield called it "an outrage" and more than 177,000 Canadians sent a large telegram of protest to the White House.

The Cannikin nuclear test blast will be 250 times more powerful than the World War II blast at Hiroshima.

Atomic Energy Commission Chairman James Schlesinger flew to Amchitka Island Thursday to "show there is nothing to fear." Schlesinger, on the island along with his wife and two of his eight children, said he felt Amchitka "is perfectly suitable for the test."

Senate committee okays new foreign aid bill

WASHINGTON—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday passed a $2.1 billion foreign aid bill in hopes of ending the crisis in the nation's capital caused by the Senate's refusal of the aid bill last week.

The new bill is separated into parts—military and economic—and is more than a billion dollars less than the aid bill the Nixon administration says it is willing to accept.

The House Rules Committee also moved Thursday to send a bill to the House that would extend the aid to foreign countries at the present level until Congress can resolve its differences over the bill.

Mrs. Gandhi charges Nixon to be 'even-handed'

WASHINGTON—Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi met with President Nixon here Thursday and leveled a blunt charge to the President that he be "even-handed" in his relations with both India and Pakistan. The two countries have been escalating military action recently in an attempt to resolve their differences.

Mrs. Gandhi told the President he must help "stem the flood of Pakistani refugees" which "have haunted me." She also told the President he must have a "deep understanding" of the problems between the two countries.

Liquor by the drink: Charlotte decides today

CHARLOTTE—Liquor by the drink referendums in Mecklenburg and Moore counties were expected to draw a record number of voters for a non-candidate election Friday.

William B.A. Culp, executive secretary of the Mecklenburg County Elections Board, predicted a turnout of about 70,000, or nearly half of the county's 142,000 registered voters.

In Moore County, about 10,000 of the 15,600 registered voters were expected to make it to the polls.

In addition to intense voter interest in the referendums, the U.S. Weather Bureau predicted perfect weather for outdoor activity. Clear, sunny skies and mild temperatures reaching into the 60's were forecast.

Pro-liquor and anti-liquor forces in both counties predicted victory, although by close margins.

Whether persons in either county ever will be able to legally raise a highball in town at their favorite establishment ultimately rests with the Supreme Court, however.

The Mecklenburg Plan is under challenge and two court actions in the past 10 days have put backers of liquor by the drink in an extremely defensive position.

The case is now before the Supreme Court. If the high court rules the Mecklenburg mixed drink bill unconstitutional, it most probably will be the death knell for the Moore bill, also.

A superior court in Charlotte ruled Oct. 26, in a suit filed by mixed drink opponents, that legislation which set up the vote is unconstitutional in its application to private business.

Highway Commission increases speed limit

HIGH POINT—The State Highway Commission Thursday increased the speed limit to 70 miles per hour, highest in North Carolina's history, for 210 miles of interstate highway.

The commission voted the increase from 65 miles per hour for portions of Interstate 40, Interstate 26, Interstate 77, Interstate 85 and Interstate 95.

The longest single stretch of highway affected by the hike is the 70 miles of Interstate 40 between Conover and Greensboro.

The state Attorney General's office said motorists would not be allowed to drive at the new limit until the signs are posted, probably about a month from now.

An additional portion of Interstate 40 from Old Fort to Hickory was approved for an increase, along with Interstate 77 from Cornelius to Statesville.

Interstate 26 from Asheville to East Flat Rock and from Columbus to the S.C. line. Interstate 85 from northeast of Charlotte to China Grove and Interstate 95 from north of Rocky Mount to Roanoke Rapids will also be speeding up in the near future.

Senators ask disclosure

WASHINGTON—Three senators urged prompt enactment Thursday of legislation requiring members of Congress and other federal officials to disclose publicly their financial holdings.

Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.), William B. Spong, Jr. (D-Va.) and Thomas F. Eagleton (D-Mo.) charged that Congress was refusing to apply to itself the stringent reporting requirements it imposes on nominees for the Supreme Court.

The public, Eagleton told the Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections, should have an opportunity to judge whether a legislator "has voted his conscience or his pocketbook."
