UNC soccer team faces Clemson Booters take on Tigers

by Bill Kay Sports Writer

North Carolina's varsity soccer team, stunned by a 2-0 loss to Virginia Tuesday in its first ACC battle this year, faces its toughest test of the young season Friday when the Tar Heels play the powerful Tigers at Clemson.

Clemson, an NCAA semifinalist last year, has rolled to an impressive 6-1 record this fall. Its only loss came at the hands of perennial standout, Howard University.

The Tigers are 1-0 in the ACC with a 4-0 victory over Virginia.

"Clemson certainly presents us with our biggest challenge of the season," UNC coach Marvin Allen said. "Our defense has played well most of the year, but we will have to get our best effort yet if we hope to slow down Clemson."

Keying and stabilizing Carolina's defense this season is Zoltan Berky.

Berky, a junior transfer from Miami-Dade Community College, has been a vital cog in Carolina's fullback corps.

A starter since his arrival in Chapel Hill this fall, Berky has played center fullback with consistency and certainty.

"Berky has been a dependable player for us this year," Allen said. "He is the type of player you can count on."

Alongside Berky, goalie Mark Berson and fullbacks Mark Baldwin and Rob Hassold have been sparks on defense.

The offense, though centered around some standout talent, has yet to get untracked this season.

In their last five games, the Tar Heels have only scored five goals.

The Heels' record to date is a respectable 3-2-1, and 0-1 in the ACC.

The Tiger offense is potent. Freshman Rennie Phillips of Kingston, Jamaica has been the leading Clemson scorer. Midfielder Clyde Brown of Georgetown, Guyana is another offensive key. Brown has been the ACC's most valuable player the last two seasons.

Clemson's defense is anchored by goalie Denis Carrington of Guyana and fullback Ron Giesbers of Venezuela.

"The competition is great in the ACC and a victory over Clemson would be the ultimate," Berky said of the highly touted Tigers.

Match time is 3 p.m.

Harriers to host Duke

by Jim Thomas Sports Writer

While the UNC-N.C. State football game highlights the weekend's schedule, North Carolina's cross country team will race archrival Duke at 11 a.m. Saturday at Finley Golf Course in the Tar Heels' final home meet.

UNC freshman Ralph King won his third consecutive race in as many starts last Saturday to lead the harriers to a 22-39 away victory over Clemson. The win raised UNC's record to 3-1. The only loss came to Maryland two weeks ago in Chapel Hill.

The Blue Devils, who beat Maryland 25-31, are favored to repeat as ACC champions and rated as possible national contenders. Duke has all its top runners returning from last year's team, including ACC individual champion Scott Eden.

"Realistically, there is no way we should be running with them yet," said UNC coach Bill Lam. "In some ways that will be to our advantage — there will be no pressure on our guys to win. Everything we do will be good. We cannot do poorly."

Duke's style of running is similar to Maryland's according to Lam. With Scott Eden, the Blue Devils have someone who can get out in front. Duke is also an excellent team in terms of grouping. Grouping enables a team to move better and makes passing more difficult. This ability to run as a unit will determine the Tar Heels' effectiveness against Duke.

"Eden and Robbie Perkins usually take off in one group," said Lam, "but Duke has five or six other guys who are not that far off. They all stick together."

Concerning Tar Heel grouping, Lam added, "I am anxious to see how Ralph King does against Eden and Perkins," he said. "I hope Ralph can go with them. It will be tough. Eden and Perkins are used to running together. This will put more pressure on King but Ralph is a competitor — he knows how to take care of himself."

Lam said if "our second four guys can slip in between the first and second group it will be a real close race. David Hamilton is not completely well yet but he has not looked bad either. Kent Taylor has looked real good in practice. William Southerland is coming on, and I still feel Tommy Ward can be right in there.

"If Tommy, David, Kent, William and Kevin McLee run a good race, they could be right in there," said Lam. "If Ralph can finish above Duke's top two runners, then we could beat them — it is not inconceivable.

"If I was an oddsmaker, Duke would be the favorite. But everyone is looking forward to the meet. It will be a great race to watch. There will be some good individual and group races."
