News briefs

World Food Day activities today

Two Chapel Hill groups participating in World Food Day today are planning activities to draw attention to the problems of world hunger. The food day is sponsored nationwide by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, based in Washington, D.C.

The UNC Starvation Committee is encouraging students to fast and contribute money they would have spent on food to a special fund to help feed the starving.

Contributions can be turned in to the UNC YM-YWCA. The money raised by the committee will be added to over $5400 already collected by the group.

Thirty per cent of the money raised will be distributed to the hungry in North Carolina through Church Women United. The other 70 per cent will go to UNICEF for distribution in Bangladesh.

The Starvation Committee also has invited interested students to attend an organizational meeting of a Hunger Action Committee at noon on Wednesday, April 23, in the YMCA building.

Hunger and its implications on the human family will be the topic of a program sponsored by the Newman Foundation's

Committee on World Hunger scheduled for 7:30 tonight.

Newman wins RHA seat

Laura Newman, a sophomore from Charlotte, won the last undecided seat on the Residence Hall Association in an election held yesterday.

By a 108-70 margin, Newman, a Parker resident, defeated Stuart Kaleel of Avery in the Scott Residence College race.

Lee elected MBA president

Peggy Daniels Lee recently was elected president of the Master of Business Administration (MBA) Student Association, an organization for first- and second-year MBA students.

Lee is a fellow of the consortium for graduate study in business management.

Other elected officers are John William Oliver, vice-president; Nancy McIntosh Murray, administrative vice-president and Robert Everett Bosworth, financial vice-president.
