Final CGC budget tally

State to consider New River bill

by Dirk Wilmoth Staff Writer

A bill was introduced to the N.C. General Assembly Monday to designate the New River as a state scenic river to try to block the controversial Blue River Power project.

The bill, which was introduced by five state legislators, would designate a 30mile stretch of the river from West Jefferson in Ashe County to the Virginia-Alleghany County, N.C. line as Jack Comart, administrative assistant for the N.C. Conservation Council, said if the bill is passed by the legislature within the next six or eight weeks, Gov. James Holshouser will ask Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton to designate the section of the river in North Carolina as a Federal Scenic River under state management.

Such designation, he said, might prevent the Appalachian Power

Company from building a dam on the river which would flood approximately 30,000 acres of mountainous North Carolina and Virginia and displace more than 1,500 families.

However, Comart said passage of the bill is not assurance that the project will. be blocked.

He said the Appalachian Power Company might claim the Federal Government is breaking its contract since the Faderal Power Commissionhas approved the project.

Also, he said the implications of the scenic river designation remain to be

Comart urged local environmentalists to keep interested in the Blue Ridge Project issue.

He said he did not want students to think the issue is dead and get disillusioned. "Now this is becoming a big issue again — this is the final hour."

News briefs

Students can close files

Students wishing to have personal information withheld from the public should notify the Office of Records and Registration, according to a memo released Wednesday by Douglass Hunt, vicechancellor for administration.

The University will continue to make public certain information about a student unless he submits a signed request to the records office by May 15, asking that the information not be made available without his consent.

The data which can be withheld includes the student's name, address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in activities and sports, weight and height of athletic team members, dates of school attendance, degrees and awards received and the most recent previous school attended by the student.

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, which went into effect Nov. 19, guarantees the privacy of school records, achievement test scores, intelligence test scores, family background and course evaluations.

A further act of Congress, which amended the privacy act, made it clear that letters of recommendation received prior to Jan. 1. 1975 and all parents' financial information cannot be made public without the student's permission.

Faculty to View World Woes

A survey was sent last week to all 2,075

UNC faculty members asking their views on the major problems facing the world today.

The survey was compiled by sixteen professors representing 23 departments. curricula, institutes and centers of the Chapel Hill campus.

The survey also asked faculty members for their suggestions for steps that the University can take to solve the problems. The sponsors of the questionnaires urge faculty members to return them before the end of the year according to the instructions attached to the forms so that results can be tabulated.

Outstanding Dorms Chosen

Lewis, Parker and Second floor Granville West were named outstanding dorms Wednesday by the Residence Hall Association (RHA) Governing Board.

Lewis dorm President Brent Blaylock said Lewis won because of its bi-weekly dorm meetings with high attendance, eight social events, top intramural rating among low-rise dorms and active student population.

Parker's entry listed a dorm newsletter, a check-cashing service, intramural participation, a full social schedule, and APO Carnival booth and charity

Granville West's second floor narrowly defeated ninth floor Morrison. Granville's entry cited an extensive social schedule, UNC's outstanding resident assistant and a 35-minute film presentation.
