

LaGarde named to U.S. squad

North Carolina's Tommy LaGarde has been selected to the 12-man Intercontinental Cup basketball squad which will represent the United States in Europe this summer, Cliff B. Fagan, President of the Amateur Basketball Association of America, announced Tuesday.

The intercontinental competition, which serves as a preliminary for the 1976 Montreal Olympics, includes six games against four of the world's best national teams. The squad was selected by the ABA-USA Games Committee at the Pan-American trials in Salt Lake City, Utah, in early June.

Other players named were Wayne Rollins from Clemson; Robert Parrish, Centenary; Leon Douglas, Alabama; Mark Olberding, Minnesota; Norm Cook, Kansas; Ernie Grunfeld, Tennessee; John Davis, Dayton; Bruce Parkinson, Purdue; Rudy White, Arizona State; Ron Lee, Oregon; and Joe Hassett, Providence. UNC's Mitch Kupchak was also reportedly chosen but declined the invitation for personal reasons.

The squad returns to the United States on August 9 with games scheduled against the Greeks and Yugoslavs August 12-14 at an undetermined site. On August 16 the U.S. squad will play the Italians in the Providence Civic Center and wind up the competition August 19 against the Russians in Greensboro Coliseum.

Carolina signs six top prep wrestlers

Six of the country's top high school wrestlers, including two national champions, have signed athletic grant-in-aids with the University of North Carolina.

Tar Heel Coach Bill Lam announced the lineup and said, "It has been an unbelievable recruiting year for us."

Heading the list of signees are Chris Conkwright and Mike Newbern, national champions from Virginia Beach, Va. Conkwright received more than 60 scholarship offers and it is believed he was the most highly-recruited wrestler in the nation.

Wrestling at the 134-pound weight, Conkwright won the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) championship and was a first team All-American. He was a three-time state champion in Virginia.

Newbern is a 150-pounder who was a national prep champion at Blair Academy in New Jersey. He was a member of the United States team which wrestled in competition against Russia.

Other wrestlers who will be entering Carolina in the fall on scholarships are Dean Brior, 185-pounder from Havertown, Pa., who won his state championship and lost only one match in two years; Mike Benzel, 167-pounder from Norfolk, Va., who was a state champion at Norview High School and also competed against the Russian team; Dave Jergens, 145-pound state champion from Rochester, N.Y., who won 65 matches and lost three in his high school career; and Joe Ryan, 158-pounder from Catholic Central High in Detroit, Mich., a two-time runnerup in the state finals.
