Griffin bros. aid soccer

by Mike Egan
Staff Writer

Ever since the days of Cain and his club, brothers have displayed a marked tendency to compete with each other. Abel might testify that the rivalry isn't always beneficial to both parties, but Jeff and Peter Griffin, members of the soccer team's starting lineup, feel each has gained from their similar careers.

Their UNC experience marks the first time the two brothers have played on the same team. Both attended Deerfield Academy, but Jeff, who is two years older than Peter, had graduated by the time his younger brother had started playing varsity sports.

"Having Peter on the team makes me work harder," says junior center halfback Jeff. "We keep each other on our toes. And it's always a lot of fun when we go one-on-one during a scrimmage."

The superlatives flow when the brothers are questioned about each other's skills. Jeff is "versatile, a great player," while Peter, according to Jeff, "really puts all his ability to work. He should be tops one day."

Both brothers are known for their versatility. Last year as a freshman Peter started at halfback. This year, UNC Coach Marvin Allen has moved him to the front line—a change Peter enjoys. Jeff can play halfback, fullback or swing-man (a position between the line and the halfbacks) equally well.

Jeff and Peter said they think one of the main problems the players must overcome is the spectre of last year's team and, more specifically, its attitude.

"Last year a lot of the guys on the team were critical of each other," remarks the younger Griffin. "People were always bickering. You didn't see that team effort you need to win. I can sense that this year will be different though."

The friendly, outgoing Griffin brothers will contribute greatly to the team, not only in the spirit department, but also to improving its won-lost record. They will return for the 1976 season to continue one of the best "All in the Family" acts in UNC sports.

UNC quarterback P.J. Gay sets to throw behind tailback Terrence Burrell in Friday's 42-19 win over Instituto Politecnico Nazionale at Kenan Stadium. Gay completed 12 of 22 passes for 140 yards and three touchdowns, rallying the Tar Babies from a 19-0 first quarter deficit. Burrell rushed for 136 yards in 19 carries.

It was as if Coach Jim Donnan told the Tar Babies to "Remember the Alamo!"

After an embarrassing first half that set a record for most mistakes by an offense in the least number of plays, the UNC jayvees sharpened up their game and blew the White Eagles of the Instituto Politecnico Nacional (IPN) de Mexico clear across the border, 42-19, Friday at Kenan Stadium.

The White Eagles scored all their points in the first 20 minutes of the game to lead the Tar Babies 19-0. Then with 9:50 left in the first half, UNC began its first real drive of the afternoon on its own 30, and eight plays later quarterback P.J. Gay connected with split end Jimmy Fletcher on a 12-yard aerial and tailback Terrence Burrell scored the two-point conversion.

Carolina went on to score five more times in the afternoon, two coming in the air from Gay, who was 12 for 22 (five were dropped) for 146 yards. He ran off 10 straight completions at one point in the game. He also scored one touchdown on a two-yard sneak.

Burrell led all rushers with 136 yards on 19 carries for a 7.2 yard average. Reserve tailback Tom Catafygiotu, who was listed as a defensive back, came in during the waning stages of the game and picked up 50 yards in eight carries.

IPN was led by fullback Carlos Bustillos who gained 58 yards on 12 carries, scoring one touchdown and passing for another. He also handled the punting duties, faking once and turning it into a 22-yard gain, kicking four right-footed (including one 60-yarder) and kicking his last one left-footed to avoid a Carolina rush from the right. He ended the day with a 47-yard average.

Booters open '75 season

The UNC soccer team opens its season on the road today against always-unpredictable Belmont Abbey. The Heels return home Friday to battle Appalachian State.

Belmont always carries a few foreign players on its team, but the number varies from year to year.

"Since it's the first game of the season for both teams, there can be no scouting," says UNC Coach Marvin Allen. "We won't know the number or caliber of the foreign players they do have until the game starts."

Meeting between the two teams usually follow a similar pattern. Based on last year one might expect a close first half with the Heels breaking it open in the second half. In last year's 4-1 victory over Belmont, it was a tight 1-1 game at halftime. Dickie Drayton's two goals in his varsity debut were the highlights of that contest.

Thus far, UNC has escaped the injury bug. Though Peter Griffin and Steve Slosky were slowed by injuries in pre-season, both will be dressed out and ready for action. The starting lineup is intact for the game.

Coach Allen has three freshmen on the team this year. Roy Baroff and Steve Scott of Chapel Hill High and Martin Trimble, a goalie from Philadelphia, made the final cut. Allen never keeps frosh unless he plans to play them, so fans should look for these three young standouts.

The team has had an amazing turnover from last year. Coach Allen says this "much improved bunch" will hardly be recognized by the followers of the 1974 team. Of the four captains for the game, John Rhodes, Rob Hassold, Jeff Griffin and Tim Fenton, only Hassold was on the team last year.

Despite the optimism of the coaches and players, one must adopt a "wait-and-see" attitude towards the team. Belmont Abbey is a lightweight for Carolina on a schedule that includes national powers Clemson and Rollins. If the Heels do not come out on top today, they and their fans face a long and gloomy season.
