

Speaker group to be formed

Will allow student groups to sponsor speakers

by Nancy Mattox
Staff Writer

A speakers' commission, designed to allow two or more student groups to jointly sponsor speakers without Carolina Union co-sponsorship, is expected to be in full operation next Monday, commission member Brad Lamb said Sunday.

The three-member commission, composed of one Campus Governing Council representative (Lamb), one Student Government presidential appointee and one Union appointee (both to be named this week), will operate for the remainder of the year on a $1,500 Student Government appropriation.

The figure represents little more than a tenth of the $14,000 out from the CGC budget last spring that was originally intended for paying speaker fees for student organizations.

Under present procedures, organizations may bring speakers to the campus only under co-sponsorship with the Carolina Union, which requires that the speaker or performer have campus-wide appeal.

But group leaders have complained that since Student Government cut speakers' fees, student organizations have no money to sponsor speakers.

Under the new speakers' commission guidelines, at least two organizations must co-sponsor a speaker. No more than 50 per cent of the speaker's expenses or a maximum of $450 may be spent by the organizations. The speaker is to assume the remainder of the costs.

The low budget and increased emphasis on student group planning is directed toward making student-sponsored appearances more profitable for organizations, Lamb said.

To be considered for financial support, groups must present before the commission a detailed report of all expenses that might be incurred for the speaker.

Although the final interpretation of the guidelines will be up to the commission, two persons scheduled to speak on the same topic will probably be rejected by the commission, Lamb said.

Lamb added that the commission is not meant to replace the Union's co-sponsorship policy, but is merely an alternative for student organizations.

Doris Ann Hudson, Union president for 1976-77

Hudson elected Union president

Urging the implementation of informal outdoor student art presentations, Doris Ann Hudson was elected as 1976-77 Carolina Union president Wednesday by the Union Board of Directors.

Hudson, a junior American Studies major from Charlotte, will serve as an assistant to current Union president Lynn Mercer until the last day of classes spring semester.

"Basically, I'd like a continuation of the quality of programs that we've had in the past," Hudson said.

"My main new idea is to have outdoor concerts by student bands in McCorkle Place on Sunday afternoons."

She added that she would like to see sidewalk art shows by student artists.

Hudson also said she would try to visit each residence college during the year to get outside ideas on the Union and would encourage her committee chairpersons to be creative.

Although she has not worked with the Union previously, Hudson has had experience in the campus YM-YWCA and directed the Starvation program last year.

"I'm very excited," Hudson said of her new job. "I don't think there's anything I'd rather do on this campus." She was chosen over two others for the position.

Fast for a World Harvest nets $1200

by Jan Hodges
Staff Writer

Approximately $1,200 was collected last Thursday during the "Fast for a World Harvest" sponsored by the YM-YWCA Hunger Action Committee, YM-YWCA President Cathy Rosenthal said.

Some pledges from fraternities and sororities have not been collected and contributions are still being accepted, she added.

During a 24-hour period last Wednesday and Thursday, students and townspeople were asked to fast and reflect on the world hunger problem and then to donate at least the amount of money they would have spent on food during that time.

The money collected is planned to be divided equally between OXFAM-AMERICA, an international hunger relief organization, and the local Inter-Church Council, fast Co-Chairperson Howard Stone has said.

OXFAM-AMERICA will distribute the money through a worldwide development program for small farmers, Rosenthal said.

The Inter-Church Council will use its share of the fast money for an emergency loan and grant fund. Rosenthal said the fund will be available to people who have no other financial resources but need money to pay rent and buy food.

She described the day of fasting as a symbolic gesture to raise student consciousness of worldwide hunger problems. She said she is very pleased with the results of the fast.

Fast Co-chairpersons Stone, Evelyn Smith and Bill Patterson, a member of the Hunger Action Committee, attended a national hunger conference this weekend in Austin, Tex., in which between 500 and 600 students were expected to attend.

Rosenthal said she expects that the students who attended the conference will be able to offer students here further insight into the hunger problem. She said she hopes that what they learn will help accelerate the movement toward student awareness of hunger problems.

Last week's fast was an initial program in this movement, she said, adding that the Hunger Action Committee will also plan several projects aimed at informing students.

Schlesinger bemoans Ford defense policy

WASHINGTON — Former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, now free to voice his criticism of President Ford, painted a gloomy picture of American preparedness Sunday and warned that Ford's proposed defense budget could require cutting 220,000 troops from active duty.

Schlesinger, who was fired three weeks ago, said, "We as a nation are indulging in an ostrich syndrome in burying our heads in the sand and not observing what is going on" as the Soviet Union builds up its military forces during detente.

His critique of the nation's defense policies were his harshest since leaving office. In an interview on NBC-TV's Meet the Press, he warned that the Soviet Union is taking full advantage of detente by building up its forces, especially in Eastern Europe — a stand Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has attempted to discredit.

Schlesinger said as far as he knows, the main reason for his dismissal was his adamant refusal to go along with proposed cuts in the 1977 defense budget to about $97 billion. He said that amount is about $9 billion short of maintaining the present defense posture and $114 billion is needed to meet Soviet challenges.

The effect of Ford's plan "would be to submit a budget that is 5 or 6 per cent lower in real terms than a year ago," he said.

"A shrinkage of that sort is not consistent with maintaining military balance in a period of time when the Soviets have expanded in every conceivable area," Schlesinger said.

He said the United States still is superior in tactical nuclear delivery, "but that will diminish as the Soviets deploy their new generation of weapons."

including five hospitalized in Naples, Italy, in serious condition from burns and smoke inhalation. All told, about 55 men were pulled from the chilly Ionian Sea after the Saturday night collision 70 miles from Sicily.

The 1,047-foot carrier collided with the 500-foot cruiser during night flight operations, setting off fires aboard both ships.

The blaze on the Kennedy's flight deck was extinguished within 10 minutes, but fire aboard the Belknap burned for two and one-half hours.

Navy sources in Washington said the overhang of the Kennedy's angled flight deck may have hit the Belknap's superstructure.

"At the time of the collision both the Kennedy and the Belknap were maneuvering for flight operations," Adm. David Bagley, the U.S. Navy Commander in Europe, said in London. A carrier must face into the wind to launch or land its aircraft.

Belin: Eisenhower, Kennedy knew of assassination plots

WASHINGTON — The executive director of the Rockefeller Commission which investigated the CIA said Sunday he believes Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy knew about the spy agency's assassination plots against Fidel Castro.

David Belin, Des Moines lawyer who also was on the legal staff of the Warren Commission which investigated John F. Kennedy's assassination a decade earlier, said he submitted a memorandum during the Rockefeller inquiry reporting that "the evidence is in conflict" regarding presidential responsibility for the CIA actions.

But Belin said his personal judgment is that both presidents must have known of plots against the Cuban leader, even if they had to "read between the lines" to understand what was occurring.

The Rockefeller Commission's findings on CIA involvement in assassination attempts against foreign leaders were withheld from publication at White House request. Belin commented on CBS-TV's Face the Nation Sunday, following publication of a report on the same subject by the Senate intelligence committee.
