Henderson event proves even all-nighters can be fun

When was the last time you pulled an all-nighter... for fun? Tonight, Henderson Residence College provides the chance, with its "Do it All Night in the Union." So many activities are offered that it might well take 12 hours to try everything; in fact, that's just how long you have — from 8 tonight to 8 a.m. Saturday — to sample the many offerings.

Almost every type of fun and game imaginable will be going on in some part of the Carolina Union. Fifty cents buys admission to the casino in Great Hall and, for 25 cents a card, you can try a rousing round of bingo in the South Gallery. Bowling lanes and pool tables will also be available at reduced rates.

Perhaps the most original feature of "Do it All Night" is the Lost Key contest, beginning at 9 p.m. at the information desk. Cryptic clues will be announced every half hour until the key is found, with a prize for the victor.

Expansion plan may bowl over alley kitchen, which would also service an eating area located in the present television lounge and locker area. The two eating areas could serve up to 700 persons.

According to the plan, the central stairway leading to the basement would be eliminated to provide additional space. Another set of stairs would be placed in a lobby at the site of the present snack bar.

The billiard parlor would be moved to the present radio station and graphics area. The television lounge would be moved to the southern end of the present billiards parlor.

The new addition, to be built onto the east side of the existing structure, would house Student Government and organization offices, a meeting room and new Daily Tar Heel offices.

The present vending area would be the site of a round-stage theater to be used for noon and evening performances as Deep Jonah is now used.

Howard Henry, director of the Carolina Union, said he considered the stairway an important architectural aspect of the building and would like to see it retained.

A member of the bowling alley staff said by halving the number of lanes from 12 to six, operational hours for the lanes would be minimized by physical education classes, league bowling and parties. He said this would inhibit students who had free time and wanted to bowl for fun.

Petitions ready for candidates

Nomination petitions for candidates seeking offices in the Feb. 15 campus elections are available in Suite C of the Carolina Union, according to Mike Harkins, Elections Board chairperson.

Deadlines for returning petitions are 5 p.m. Feb. 6. Other details, such as the minimum number of signatures on the petition, may be obtained in Suite C or by contacting Saunders.

The following offices are open: student body president, senior class officers, Carolina Athletic Association president, Daily Tar Heel editor, Graduate and

Other members of the board asked whether Lenoir Hall might not be a better location than the Carolina Union basement for expanding the dining area. Hammond, the architect, replied that he had been asked to allow for expanded dining facilities in the Carolina Union.

Hammond said it would cost $2 million to renovate the main level of Lenoir Hall as an eating area.

Professional Student Federation president, all Campus Governing Council seats, and Residence Hall Association chairperson.

Candidates may announce their candidacy in the DTH by contacting University editor Laura Scim at 933-0245 to arrange an interview and photograph.

To improve its coverage of the election, the DTH is asking all presidential, editorial and CGC candidates to complete a questionnaire and return it when he announces. The questionnaires are available in the DTH office.
