Students get awards Dental students hold meeting

By LAURA ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

The fourteenth annual Dental Students' Conference on Research was held at the Carolina Inn April 2-4. The conference, sponsored by the American Dental Association and the Proctor and Gamble Co., focused on informing dentistry students of the employment opportunities available in dental research.

The national conference was attended by student representatives from each of the 50 states and each Canadian province, as well as by students and faculty of the UNC School of Dentistry. Expenses of the visiting students were paid by Proctor and Gamble.

Among the guest speakers were Harvey W. Lyon, secretary of the ADA Council on Dental Research; Daniel Green, executive secretary of the American Association of Dental Research; and David Scott, director of the National Institute for Dental Research.

The preceding weekend, the UNC School of Dentistry held its third annual Student Table Clinic Program. Approximately sixteen table clinics involving the work of about 30 dental students were displayed in the lobby of Brauer Hall in the interest of informing visiting Dental School Alumni of the latest techniques and developments in the field.

Each table clinic (a table-top demonstration of a technique or procedure in dentistry research, diagnosis, or treatment) was viewed by a panel of judges which chose winners in nine categories.

Don Lane and Rick Alston won the American Student Dental Association Preventive Dentistry Award. Mel Kantor won the American Academy of General Dentistry Award and the Dentsply (a dental supply company) International Award. His project will be entered in the National Annual Table Clinic at the ADA convention.

Gale Hester and Angela Finch won the $100 prize in the division of Clinical Sciences. Another $100 went to Jeff Thomas, winner in the Basic Sciences division. The $100 Graduate Award was received by Robert M. Mason.

Winner of the $100 International College of Dentistry Award was Jim Goble, Janice Sykes and Patsy Coltrane won the Spurgeon Dental Auxiliary Award of $25 each. The Dental Assistant Award was given to Gina Garris and Janet Bridger.

Judges for the competition were Clarence Soekwell, H. Garland Hershey and Mary C. George, all of the UNC Dentistry School faculty; James A. Harrell Sr., president of the N.C. chapter of the Academy of General Dentistry; and Sandra Madison, a senior dental student at UNC and a winner in the competition last year.

Activities of 'Greek Week' to begin with litter pick-up

Teams of jersey-clad Greeks will be on the streets of Chapel Hill picking up trash from 3-5:30 p.m. today.

The event is the Chapel Hill Litter Pick-Up, a part of Greek Week, sponsored by the Interfraternity and Panhellenic councils. Greeks will meet in the Pit, divide into teams and go to different areas of the community.

Nancy Aycock, projects director of the Panhellenic Council, said the purpose of Greek Week is to improve Greek relations with the community, the campus and within the Greek system itself. "We're hoping to stress cooperation of the members of the Greek system rather than competition," Aycock said.

Other events in the week include:

- A pie-eating contest from 2-4 p.m. Tuesday in the Pit.
- Panhellenic plant sale from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Tuesday in front of NCNB Plaza on Franklin Street.
- The Panhellenic Scholarship Picnic at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Coker Arboretum.
- Greek Games from 2-5 p.m. Thursday on Ehringhaus Field.

DTH' staffers awarded in regional competition

GREENSBORO — Five members of the Daily Tar Heel staff won regional awards Saturday in the 1977-78 Mark of Excellence Contest sponsored by the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi.

The DTH received second place in the best all-around newspaper category, finishing behind the University of Maryland's Diamondback.

Entries from North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia were judged in the contest.

The DTH swept the editorial writing category, placing first, second and third. Ed Rankin, former associate editor, won first place for his editorial criticizing the lack of adequate locker space for women in Woollen Gym. Former Editor Greg Porter received second place for an editorial series on desegregation at UNC. Elliott Potter, former associate editor, finished third with an editorial on Southern Bell's charging its customers for city and county property taxes and pocketing the revenue.

Nancy Hartis and Amy McRary won a first-place award in the spot news category for their story on a University Day rally by the Black Student Movement protesting the University's desegregation stand and the Allen Bakke case.

Their story and Rankin's editorial will be entered in national competition. The winners will be announced in the fall.

The contest annually recognizes outstanding student writers, editors, broadcasters, cartoonists and photographers.

The awards were presented Saturday at a regional conference of SPJ, SDX. The University of North Carolina chapter served as co-host of the meeting along with the Piedmont professional chapter.
