Group to challenge liquor license denials

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A group of private club owners who failed in their attempt to get mixed-drink licenses plan to go to Mecklenburg Superior Court to challenge the state's new liquor-by-the-drink law.

Arthur Goodman, a lawyer representing eight members of the Mecklenburg Club Owners Association, said he would file a petition by noon today seeking an injunction against the liquor law.

Pope to support African human rights

ROME (AP)—Pope John Paul II has met secretly with four black African nationalist leaders and pledged to use his moral authority to point out human rights violations in white-ruled Africa, two black nationalists said Thursday.

The new pope's bold political move was reported by two of the black leaders, Oliver Tambo, exiled president of the South African National Congress, and George Silundika, a member of the Zimbabwe National Patriotic Front, which opposes Prime Minister Ian Smith's government in Rhodesia.

Moslem leader calls indefinite strike

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Exiled Moslem leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini spearheading the move to topple the Shah of Iran has called on his supporters to begin an indefinite general strike Saturday, dissident sources reported Thursday.

The sources said the appeal also asked oil industry workers to stage a walkout, again disrupting Iran's oil flow, its major source of income.

Jerry Ray says he is not 'Raoul'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jerry Ray, the brother of James Earl Ray, denied Thursday that he is the mysterious "Raoul," named as an alleged accomplice in the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr.

The House assassinations committee had said it appears likely that Raoul was either Jerry Ray or John Ray, another brother of James Earl Ray.

Youths criticized party's decision

TOKYO (AP)—Two thousand youths rallying in Peking criticized the Communists Party's decision not to shake up China's top leadership, including party chief Hua Kuo-feng, it was reported Thursday.

The protesters gathered Wednesday night after Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping disclosed that the party Central Committee, meeting in Peking, would not order a political reshuffling despite a flurry of wall posters demanding it.

Indoor sports arena considered for N.C.

RALEIGH (AP)—A legislative commission recommended Thursday that the state pay for a professional feasibility study of building a major indoor sports stadium somewhere in the Piedmont.

The study would cost $50,000 or more, and would be confined to consideration of a stadium built largely with money from local governments—perhaps with assistance from the state.

The commission, which has been considering the need for a stadium and various suggestions for building one, voted unanimously to recommend that the General Assembly finance the study.

In its recommendation, the commission said the stadium should seat at least 25,000 persons, and be located in either Charlotte; the Winston-Salem, High Point, Greensboro triad area, or the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill triangle area.

"North Carolina is sports-minded enough to certainly think real hard about doing this," Rep. Allen Barbee, D-Nash, co-chairperson of the panel, said. "I think North Carolina is behind in this, quite frankly."

Barbee said the panel has heard support for the idea expressed by chambers of commerce in Charlotte, Raleigh and Durham.

If constructed, the stadium would likely cost $25 million or more. The cost could range anywhere from $600 to $1,500 per seat, panel members said.

The cost would have to be paid from revenue bonds voted by a city, county, or group of governments, Barbee said.

"That wouldn't preclude the state from giving an appropriation to help. But the general financing would be done by a city or group of cities," he said.

The primary purpose of the arena would be as a site for basketball games. Greensboro Coliseum is currently the largest in the state, seating 16,000 for basketball, and tickets for big events such as the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament are available only to large financial contributors to the conference schools.

A new stadium should also be a multi-purpose facility, however, with space for concerts, rodeos, trade shows and other sports such as soccer, Barbee said.

The commission also voted to recommend its own life be extended by the General Assembly while the professional study is conducted. Most members said they expected it would cost $50,000.

Nixon draws protesters during visit to Oxford

OXFORD, England (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, showered with jeers and applause, protesters' eggs and British courtesy, told a student group in this historic university town Thursday that he has "not retired from life" and will continue to speak out on public affairs.

"I feel as long as I have any breath in me I will speak up for what I believe," the former president told an audience of 800 in the hall of the prestigious Oxford Union debating society.

Nixon disclosed in his remarks that as president he had authorized wiretaps and break-ins to root out a group of Palestinian terrorists in the United States.

Richard Nixon

The ex-president arrived and departed from the 19th century building through a battery of 500 noisy, egg-tossing protesters, both British and American students. During his 20-minute address on foreign affairs and the 90-minute question-and-answer period that followed, he frequently had to speak over angry chants of "We Want Nixon Dead!" and "No More Nixon!" from the demonstrators outside.

Watergate, the scandal that forced him to resign in disgrace four years ago.

At the end he received a one-minute standing ovation.

As he left, protesters waving placards—"Why Shame Us Here?" "Nixon, Crawl Back Into Your Hole"—grappled with 80 police officers who linked arm-in-arm in a vain effort to keep them from pounding on Nixon's black limousine.

Climaxing a week-long trip to Europe marking his active return to international affairs, the pink-cheeked Nixon told the packed audience of Oxford University students and faculty:

"I have retired from politics but I have not retired from life."

One U.S. Secret Service man swung his fists wildly at the protesters as he lunged from one side of the road to the other, and onto the roof of Nixon's car to guide it through the crowd.

Police said there were 10 arrests, but a police spokesperson added, "On the whole, the demonstration was conducted in a good-humored way."

He began by looking back over the 20 years since he last spoke to the Oxford Union, on Nov. 28, 1958, when he was vice president.

"How has the world changed—particularly whether you may grow up in peace and freedom?" he asked.

The ex-president, apparently unscathed by the egg barrage, seemed calm and cracked an occasional joke during his appearance inside the high-ceilinged hall. He fielded generally polite questions about, among other things, Vietnam, East-West detente and "Twenty years ago the United States and what we call the Free World had an enormous military advantage over the communist world, particularly in nuclear weapons.... Today in every area of the world the communist powers are extending their domination," he said.
