

No rain—finally

It may be cold, but at least it's dry. Partly cloudy today and Friday: lows in 20s, high Friday near 50. No chance of rain.

The Daily Tar Heel

Serving the students and the University community since 1893

Volume 87, Issue No. 2679

Thursday, January 24, 1980, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

News/Sports/Arts 933-0245
Business/Advertising 933-1183

Astrology

Is there any validity to charting your future by the stars or is it all a fraud? See Weekender for story.

Money matters

CGC approves student vote for extra IM fees

By LYNN CASEY
Staff Writer

The Campus Governing Council authorized a campus-wide referendum Tuesday requesting a new student fee to fund an expanded intramural and recreational sports program.

The referendum will be held Feb. 13, the day of the student body general elections. If the new fee is approved, expected to be approximately $3.75 per semester, it will not be assessed until the opening of the new Fetzer Gymnasium.

Student Body President J.B. Kelly, who presented the referendum to the CGC, said he supported the referendum because it gives students a chance to say whether they want to be taxed or not.

"Usually when fees have to be paid there is no input by students on fees," Kelly said. "I consider this a major breakthrough for students as policy-makers."

"I think whenever a new fee is proposed there ought to be a referendum. This sets a great precedent."

The new fee would provide for the creation of an intramural recreational sports program (IM-REC Sports), incorporating the present intramural program, recreational sports program and club sports program. The Sports Club Council would then be funded directly by the University rather than through the CGC.

The proposed fee also would allow the University to increase operational hours at the new Fetzer Gymnasium, Woolen Gymnasium, and Bowman Gray indoor pool.

The CGC also appropriated $137,000 for Springfest '80 Tuesday night. Kelly said the Springfest '80 committee needed the money to attract big-name bands.

A date for the Springfest celebration has not been set.

In other business, the CGC authorized an advisory student body referendum to be included in the Feb. 13 general elections. The advisory referendum will ask students whether they want the option of excluding themselves from certain University services in exchange for a refund of the appropriate student fee.

The referendum will not be binding. The CGC will use the results to determine its policy for the coming year.

Students will consider GPSF funds guarantee

By LYNN CASEY
Staff Writer

An amendment to the Student Government constitution which would guarantee the Graduate and Professional Student Federation 15 percent—approximately $18,000—of graduate student fees will be presented to the student body in a special referendum Feb. 5, Scott Simpson, elections board chairman said Wednesday.

Polls will be open 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Feb. 5.

Student Body President J.B. Kelly validated the federation referendum petitions Wednesday and requested the special election. A petitioned amendment must be passed by a two-thirds vote of the student body.

"Even though the GPSF called for this amendment to the constitution, the entire student body votes on an amendment to the constitution," Simpson said. "I would like to stress the fact that everybody votes."

The federation presently receives its funds from the Campus Governing Council on a yearly basis. Last spring the CGC reduced the federation's budget to $780 compared to $18,000 the year before in a controversy about procedural disputes. After prolonged attempts to get more funding, the CGC awarded the federation $13,049 in November.

"The GPSF cannot deal with the present budget procedures as they are due to the nature of our organization and time constraint," said Roy Rocklin, federation president.

"The CGC feels the budget process is more important than funding," Rocklin said. "They would screw us to keep the process."

Rhonda Black, CGC speaker, said the CGC budgetary process and limited funds are designed to require campus organizations to be competitive. Each organization must justify its programs to receive CGC funds, she said.

"The programming that they (GPSF) do is very narrow in scope even though they reach a large group of people," Black said. "So they have to do a lot of justifying."

Kelly had wanted to present the proposed amendment to the constitution concurrent with the student body general elections Feb. 13, but election bylaws require all special elections such as this one to occur on a Tuesday.

In State of Union address

Carter supports draft sign-up

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter, citing a "grave threat" to Middle East oil supplies, announced Wednesday night plans to reinstate peacetime draft registration and vowed to repel any Soviet attempt to control the Persian Gulf region "by use of any means necessary."

In an overtone to Islamic nations in the vital oil producing Persian Gulf region, the president said he hoped "to shape a cooperative security framework that respects differing values and political beliefs, yet enhances the independence, security and prosperity of all."

President Carter

In a nationally broadcast State of the Union address to Congress, Carter did not spell out the nature of the security alliances he hopes to shape. An administration official, who asked that he not be identified, said the president did not seek a formal alliance such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and would be flexible in his effort to promote cooperation.

He also called for collective action by the major oil consuming nations to meet the Soviet threat to the Persian Gulf area, but was not specific.

Declaring that "the state of our union depends on the state of the world," Carter said the seizure of American hostages in Iran and Soviet intervention in Afghanistan confront the United States with a broad challenge that must be met in cooperation with other nations.

Although Carter warned Iran anew that "if the American hostages were harmed, a severe price will be paid," he said he will try "to persuade the Iranian leaders that the real danger to their nation lies to the north from Soviet troops in Afghanistan, and that the unwarranted Iranian quarrel with us hampers their response to this greater danger."

Carter renewed pledges to bolster U.S. military strength by announcing his intention to send Congress legislative and budget proposals that will be aimed at reviving the moribund Selective Service System, which once ran the draft.

Although he said he is certain that the current all-volunteer armed forces can handle the nation's defense needs, he said he would send legislation and budget proposals to Congress to revitalize the Selective Service System "so that we can begin registration and then meet future mobilization needs rapidly if they arise."

All branches of the U.S. military fell short of recruitment goals during the past year for the first time since the draft ended in 1977. But Pentagon officials say the Defense Department sent no

See CARTER on page 2

CGC votes to increase board membership to 5

By LYNN CASEY
Staff Writer

The Campus Governing Council voted Tuesday to expand the Student Audit Board, citing a need to create an increased sense of professionalism and continuity among the board members.

The board, which is now composed of three students, will be expanded to include four students and one faculty member. The faculty member will be selected from the School of Business Administration.

Student Body President J.B. Kelly and CGC Speaker Rhonda Black said they believed the faculty member would give the board continuity.

"There was a feeling within the CGC that the audit board was not keeping the CGC informed as well as it should have," Kelly said. "By expanding the board things should run more smoothly and properly."

The Student Audit Board oversees and advises the Student Activities Fund Office. SAFO disperses all student activity fees earmarked for student organizations—almost $496,000 a year—and provides them with bookkeeping services.

David Neal, acting chairman of the Student Audit Board, said he did not believe a faculty member would have any impact on the board, however.

"In terms of operation, I don't see how it (the membership expansion) will have any effect on the board," Neal said. "More members will just make it harder to plan on when to meet."

Faculty advisors served on the board until the late 1960s, but in 1974 the CGC reduced its membership to three students.

"It's a clear step to clear up problems," Black said. "We have to work with the audit board from day to day and you have to have good reports."

Black said the CGC has had a lack of communication with the audit board.

Neal said his function was to

Sonya Lewis, Rhonda Black, J.B. Kelly...discuss audit board at CGC meeting Tuesday

approve SAFO procedures, and he felt he had done this effectively. Neal added that the only problems the audit board has was with work turned in by organizations such as The Daily Tar Heel.

A dispute between the DTH and SAFO over a $5,000 auditing fee is awaiting the decision of an independent arbitrator.

The conflict arose when SAFO Director Francis W. Sparrow sent the newspaper a $5,000 auditing bill in April 1979 for fiscal year 1978-79 without an itemization for services rendered.

Carolina stops Deacons, 73-61

By REID TUVIM
Sports Editor

WINSTON-SALEM—North Carolina built an 11-point halftime lead and hit 12-of-13 free throws in the final 1:24 to maintain the margin for a 73-61 Atlantic Coast Conference win over Wake Forest Wednesday night.

The Deacons pulled within five points with 9:11 left, but the Heels drew back out to a 12-point lead with 4:03 remaining. Wake got back to eight down with 2:22 left but was forced to foul.

Wake led early, 8-6, but Carolina tied the game on a John Virgil jump shot from the top of the key and went ahead for good on Rich Yonakor's tip-in.

The Tar Heels outscored Wake Forest 12-2 in the five-minute stretch to lead by eight, 18-10, with eleven minutes to play in the first half. Carolina led at halftime 37-26.

"I don't know whether Wake didn't play well or we just started out well," UNC head coach Dean Smith said.

"I thought we were probably too high emotionally," Wake head coach Carl Tacy said. "We got out to a bad start and pressed to make things go, and that worked against us."

Wake cut the deficit to eight at the 16-minute mark as three Carolina players picked up their third fouls. The Tar Heels then went to the Four Corners up 40-32 after Wake got within eight with 15:45 left.

"We went to the Four Corners because they were in a triangle-and-two, and we missed a couple of shots against it," Smith said. "We wanted to get them out of that, plus (Mike) O'Koren, (Al) Wood and (Dave) Colescott all had three fouls."

Carolina built its lead on backdoor layups and short jumpers off the spread offense.

The Tar Heel bench played a major role in the game with John Virgil and Pete Budko starting for the injured James Worthy and Jeff Wolf, and Mike Pepper and Jim Braddock filling in at guard for Jimmy Black, still away after his mother's death.

"It relaxed me a lot (to start)," said Virgil, who had nine points and three steals in his 22 minutes. "I can get more in the flow of the game. It's a chance for me to contribute to the team."

Yonakor also played more than usual and responded with a career-high 18 points while playing a major role in the Four Corners. "I know he makes our fans nervous, but we have confidence in him," Smith said.

Carolina raised its ACC record to 5-3 and 11-4 overall. Wake dropped to 1-5 in the league and 8-8 in all games.

In other ACC action Wednesday night, Virginia defeated Duke 90-84 and Maryland held off N.C. State, 66-62.

At right, Carolina and Wake Forest players scrap for a loose ball in the Heels' 73-61 win. Rich Yonakor hooks (bottom right) and John Virgil scores on a layup (bottom left).

Roberts announces for editor

By GEORGE JETER
Staff Writer

Kenneth Stewart Roberts, a senior journalism and history major from Charlotte, announced his candidacy for Daily Tar Heel editor Wednesday.

The fact that he is an outsider to the staff will add some creativity to the workings of the paper, Roberts said.

"I'd like to be an overall leader of the newspaper, working with the writers and doing some writing myself," he said.

Roberts said he also would provide a regular system of communications between campus organizations and the DTH to ensure they get proper coverage.

The type style and layout of the DTH also could be changed if a feasible way to make the paper more readable is found, Roberts said.

Roberts said his work as a writer with The Chapel Hill Newspaper, which uses a different style and has different types of pressures than the DTH, will help him bring a fresh look to the DTH pages.

"Being on the outside lets you see things differently," Roberts said.

Roberts said he wants to add more state, national and world news to the paper. "Since this is the only paper they (students) read, they should be able to get the basic state, national and world news from it," Roberts said.

Roberts said he also plans to ask staff writers for lists of good and bad things about the paper to help him see what changes should be made. "I'll definitely need some input since I've been away for a while," he said.

Ken Roberts

Roberts said his experience with the Chapel Hill paper helped prepare him to be DTH editor. "I've been able to look at the University as the town looks at the University," he said.

"I've been working on a professional newspaper and seen how they make their decisions. This experience has helped me as a writer and will help me provide leadership."

Roberts said he would look at the paper in a professional way. "I'll look at it and ask myself if The Daily Tar Heel cost a penny, who would buy it?" Roberts said.

Roberts said that although most people would consider him an "outsider to The Daily Tar Heel" he also had experience working on the paper.

His experience includes working as a sports writer for the DTH for two years and working as a sports intern, feature writer and reporter for The Chapel Hill Newspaper.

See ZETAS on page 3

Zeta Psi alumni suspend three chapter members

By KAREN BARBER
Staff Writer

Alumni of UNC's Zeta Psi fraternity have prohibited indefinitely the chapter from participating in any organized social functions as the result of allegations made by members of Duke University's Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, who said they were harassed and abused at a Dec. 2 Zeta Psi Christmas party.

Gregory McElroy, executive secretary of the national Zeta Psi fraternity headquarters in New York, said Monday that three members of the UNC Zeta Psi chapter also have been suspended from the fraternity as a result of the incident. McElroy declined to name the suspended members.

Nineteen members of the Duke sorority who attended the Zeta Psi party Dec. 2 have said the fraternity brothers exposed themselves, threw drinks at them and pulled at their clothes. They also charged that feces were thrown in one woman's lap and that another woman was pushed down some stairs.

"We (the national Zeta Psi organization) are fully in support of the action taken by the alumni," McElroy said. "If any further information appears that is damaging to individuals in the fraternity or the chapter itself, we will be prepared to take further action."

The national Zeta Psi organization is still investigating the incident, McElroy said.

Donald A. Boulton, vice chancellor for student affairs, has appointed a special six-member administrative review board to investigate the incident and make a recommendation to the Office of Student Affairs by mid-February.

"So far we've met twice, and we're going through information collected by the Office of Student Affairs," said