Greek Week offers range of activities

By BETSI SIMMONS
Staff Writer

Activities ranging from leadership workshops to a blood drive to a beer chug on Ehringhaus field will bring Greeks, non-Greeks, faculty and administrators together for Greek Week, from March 24-27.

Greek Week coordinators Ginny Waller and Keith Ellenberg said among the more important things they are seeking to achieve through Greek Week 1980 is the involvement of the entire campus.

"Greek Week is relatively new to UNC," Waller said. "In the past it was primarily the games. This year we're trying to expand it to where there are a variety of activities and events offered for Greeks and non-Greeks."

An awards ceremony, to be held in the Morehead Planetarium faculty lounge, Wednesday at 8 p.m., will recognize Greek organizations for their outstanding accomplishments, Waller said.

The leadership conference, to be held in Great Hall on Monday at 5 p.m., is another key event of the week. Sorority and fraternity officers are scheduled to spend the evening in workshops addressing a number of relevant issues including leadership, black-white relations, alcohol and hazing, Waller said.

A blood drive, the service project for the week, will be held Wednesday in Great Hall 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Anyone interested in giving blood should sign up by appointment in the Panhellenic office, Suite A, Ellenberg said.

The week of events will culminate Thursday with games and free beer on Ehringhaus field 2 p.m.-5 p.m. and an all-campus party featuring the group The Seventh of May at 8 p.m. in Fraternity Court, Waller said. Everyone is invited to both events.
