Bicycle clubbers peddle for fun, fitness

There's is seemingly a new addition to the American family about once every 12 seconds: the bicycle. Chapel Hill is especially proud of its bike population and has adjusted accordingly with bike paths, bike racks, bike shops, bike lanes and bike crossings.

If you have second thoughts about how much Chapel Hill loves the bicycle, just cave yours unlocked for a minute.

Ms & Clubs

Bike Club was formed in February. But, why'd it take so long for the club to begin?

Yet, either through their efforts or by word of mouth, the 25 members of the UNC Bike Club meet periodically to do what bike clubbers do best-ride

Sunday mornings, and then go someplace bicycles.

"After a while, if we get to be a big club. we plan to break up into groups according to speed and where everybody wants to go," Kenion said. "We're a lot more of a touring club than a racing club," Wilson said, "But later on, we hope to have a racing team to back up."

The experienced biker has only two natural enemies; dogs and cars. Wilson learned to take care of the first with an air pump, which looks fairly harmless when clipped to the upper frame, but becomes a lethal weapon as Rover jumps for a drumstick. "The lucky ones," he said, By CHIP KARNES smiling, "are the ones that get away." As for the traffic problem, Kenion sa

So, there is no wonder why the UNC there isn't much the riders can do except stay in line. Helmets are optional among club members, but most would rathe play it safe. "Some guys still don't wea helmets when they ride," he said, "bu after you see somebody bite the dust considering that the contraption has been around for the better part of 200 years, "We just decided it was about time we got together a lot of people who like to you'll want to get one on."

ride," said Alex Wilson, a sophomore Besides their experience with the UM from Winston-Salem. "The SCC (Sports club, both Kenion and Wilson a Club Council) even said they'd been notable riders on their own. Kenion was waiting for a bike club for a long time." member of the Greensboro Tria Wheelers racing team during high schoo Wilson and Kenion are co-founders and still likes "to push myself faster than and organizers of the club, although before" at local races on weekends. Wilson admitted, "All we did was put up Wilson is known as a long distant tourer, having made a cross-country trek from Virginia to Oregon in 1976, and another from North Carolina to Nova Scotia the following summer.

"I like to tour because you never see the same place twice," he said. "I mean, I used to forget water bottles or hats like 15 miles behind, but you can't go back. You've got 3,000 to go the other way." The last few meetings of the club have been spent in workshops on repairs and things, although we've put a lot of time into planning out our big ride for this Sunday," Kenion said.

The big event will leave Carr Mill at 9 a.m. for a 100 kilometer tour of Orange, Alamance and Chatham counties. "This is our first big one-day trip," Wilson said, "But if there's a lot of interest, we'll put together some two or three day trips later on." For more information about the club, this Sunday's venture, or bicycling in general, interested students should call Kenion at 933-1517.

"We need all kinds of riders, whether they're doing 10 miles a day, or 100 miles a day, or anywhere in between," Wilson said. "The miles just go by faster when you're with a bunch of friends," Kenion added.

From Staff Reports

BALTIMORE-Maryland-Baltimore County's lacrosse team lessened North Carolina's chances for a post-season tournament bid Wednesday with an 18-9 defeat of the Tar Heels. Carolina fell behind 6-2 in the first period and never challenged after that. Marty Cloud and Dave Quattrini led UMBC's scoring with six goals each. Mark Stangl, Terry Martinello and Tom Federico each scored twice for the Tar Heels.

UNC coach Willie Scroggs saw his team's record dip to 5-2. "UMBC played well and we played terribly," Scroggs said. "Our defensivemen went out to the restraining line but UMBC has quick attackmen and they ran around our defensivemen and got easy goals from the crease. It wasn't by design."

UNC concludes its home season against Roanoke at 2 p.m. Saturday at Fetzer Field.
