

Talk about a rivalry

IMs are serious business for Lewis, Teague

Whether it's the Redskins vs. the Cowboys, the Tar Heels vs. the Wolfpack or the Yankees vs. the Red Sox, rivalries are one of the best things about sports.

Nearly every team has an opponent on its schedule that stands out more than the others. Why, a Carolina-State game sometimes seems as important as life itself.

Intramural athletics for Carolina's residence halls aren't any different. Lewis Dorm, which won the IM overall championship last year, and Teague A, which finished second, like each other about as much as Norman Sloan likes Carmichael Auditorium.

Neither of the dorms' intramural managers is ashamed of it.

"You either love 'em or you hate 'em," Lewis' Joe Roseman said, "and I kind of lean toward the second one."

Teague's David Nance explained the situation a little differently.

"We took it bad losing last year and that's carried over to this year," he said.

"Yes, you could say we have a rivalry," he added, grinning.

Both dorms are perennial IM powers. The cup awarded to the overall champion had gone to Teague for nine straight years until Lewis' '80 title, Nance said. Lewis is consistently among the leaders in total points.

The key, both managers agreed, is participation. Lewis won only three sports last year and Teague just one, but each fielded several teams in nearly every sport and rarely forfeited a game. Both estimated about 75 percent of the residents in their dorms participate in intramurals.

IMs & Clubs

By JOHN DRESCHER

A good example of Teague's active participation is this year's pingpong competition. Of the 50 teams entered, six are from Teague.

Both IM managers actively encourage participation. Teague's Nance said they start from the moment a freshman steps into the dorm.

"We stress intramurals from the first week," he said. "We like to fire up our freshmen and get them involved in sports. We look at the intramural program as one way of getting ahead on campus."

Once active participation is achieved, residents must be encouraged to stay in the dorm. Championships are won with juniors and seniors leading the way, Roseman said.

"On our teams that won, we had seniors and juniors dominate," he said. "Teague has a lot of people stay because they know they're going to be good in intramurals each year."

Teague Dorm is divided by floors into teams A and B. Nance admitted certain members of Teague B are encouraged to move to the first and second floors to play for Teague A. The result is a built-in recruiting system that Roseman said gives Teague a definite advantage.

But once the two teams are on the field, which has not happened yet this year, all politics are forgotten. If it is

Residents of Teague Dorm surround a banner proclaiming Lewis' IM supremacy ... After Lewis won title last year, the banner disappeared

Teague against Lewis, it is going to be a hard-fought game.

"Some of the guys get hot and it's only natural," Nance said. "But we stress for them to keep a level head and be good sports. . . Sometimes it just doesn't work out that way."

"Oh yeah," he added, "They had a big banner hanging from their dorm that read, 'Lewis IM Champs'. If they happen to be missing it, we just might be able to locate it."

Notes: The IM Track and Field meet will be held Sept. 22-23 at 6 p.m. at Fetzer Field. . . Woolen Gym is now open every night of the week until midnight. . . Officials are still needed for tag football and other fall sports. Pay is minimum wage, and hours are flexible.

Sports notes: Tar Heels await Terp game

From staff reports

After a 9-3 victory last Saturday over Texas Tech, the North Carolina football team now has nine days before its Atlantic Coast Conference opener at home against Maryland on Sept. 27.

Coach Dick Crum said he was glad to have the extra time in between games. "We've got a lot of guys banged up," he said. "There was some great hitting in the Texas Tech game, and we can use the extra week to recover."

Carolina offensive Ron Wooten sustained a sprained ankle in the game, but he probably will be ready for the Maryland game.

"It's too early to say for sure, but I would imagine everyone will be ready for Maryland," Crum said.

Former Carolina basketball star Mike O'Koren signed a four-year contract with the New Jersey Nets of the National Basketball Association Monday.

O'Koren was one of two first-round picks by the Nets. The other, Duke's Mike Gminski, signed his contract Sunday.

Former UNC players Dave Colescott and John Virgil were waived by Philadelphia and Golden State, respectively, Tuesday as NBA teams trimmed their rosters.

Anyone interested in assisting the UNC wrestling team should stop by Room 147 in Carmichael Auditorium next week. Statisticians, scorekeepers, announcers and photographers are needed.

Rainbow Soccer registration will continue this week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 500 W. Rosemary St. and from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at Muirhead Soccer Stadium. Anyone interested in coaching should contact Mit Carothers at 967-8797 or 967-9686.

The UNC baseball program is looking for enthusiastic bat girls for the 1981 varsity season. Those interested should call 967-3044 or 933-4767 between 6 and 9 weeknights.
