

Big scorer

Appalachian's Usiyan leads way in 3-0 victory over Carolina

By GEOFFREY MOCK
Staff Writer

Thompson Usiyan, who might be a national hero if he played soccer in his native Bendel State, Nigeria, proved to 2,000 spectators at UNC's Fetzer Field Saturday why he is Appalachian State's campus hero.

On a team filled with talented players—many from other countries—Usiyan is the most talented, and against Carolina he lived up to his reputation, scoring two goals and leading ASU to a 3-0 victory.

All-Atlantic Coast Conference defender Bucky Buckley marked Usiyan tightly throughout, but the Mountaineers sent him wide, and once he shook free and controlled the ball, they usually threatened.

"He's the best player I've ever faced," Buckley said. "I was trying to deny him the ball, but once he got it he would do amazing things with it. I played against him in the spring and he's gotten a lot better since then."

Usiyan scored his 13th and 14th goals of the season in the first half. With 27:15 left, Mark Schwartz positioned a corner kick toward the center of the goal where Usiyan broke free to head it past UNC goalie Kevin Kane.

The second goal came with 1:41 left when he punched in a Keith Layne direct kick to send the Mountaineers into halftime with a 2-0 lead.

"The first goal was my fault," Buckley said. "The guy skimmed the corner kick and I went for the skid which left Thompson open. The second goal, Thompson was just incredible."

Usiyan said he was used to being closely marked. "I'm always being denied the ball," he said. "I like being marked. Bucky was a very tough but clean defender, but when I'm one-on-one I feel very confident in my abilities."

Usiyan received a lot of support from his teammates. Layne and the other strikers kept the Tar Heel defense honest with their penetration and goalie Stephen Knowles and defender Emmanuel Igberka turned back every Carolina offensive threat.

ASU's George Duprey kicks before Tar Heel Jay Ainslie...Mountaineer offense managed three goals in victory

"Everyone played their hearts out," ASU coach Hank Steinbrecher said. "Everyone wanted this game. We were playing tactically very well. It was a total team effort. Thompson is worthy of All-American status, but we have many underrated players. Keith Lane is a workhorse and you can't beat Igberka on defense."

The victory ended years of frustration for ASU, which has come into the game with UNC in recent years as the favorite but never come away with a win. "We are the only sport at ASU to beat Carolina," Steinbrecher said. "We've been so frustrated the last four years. UNC has been our nemesis. I have difficulty keeping the player's minds off of the UNC game."

The Tar Heel offense was stalled out throughout most of the first half, but had several good opportunities late in the half. With five minutes left, Steve Turner went one-on-one against Igberka deep in ASU territory but was stopped with a slide tackle.

The Tar Heels kept the pressure up in the second half. Knowles made clutch saves on shots by Nick Donnelly and the Mountaineers put the game out of reach on a score by Dick Ellwell with four minutes left in the game.

UNC coach Anson Dorrance took an optimistic note from the loss, which dropped his team's record to 5-2. "We've played ASU well in the past, but our wins have been upsets," he said. "We controlled more of this game than in past years even though we lost."

ASU had averaged 11 goals a game coming into the contest and Dorrance said the defense had nothing to be ashamed about. "Ricky Marvin played one of his best games, and Bucky was fabulous. There aren't more than a few defenders better than him in the country."

Considering the quality of soccer seen at Fetzer Field the last two weekends with the ASU game and the Mayor's Cup tournament, it may be hard for area soccer fans to understand why only Clemson and Duke are ranked in the Top 20.

"In my opinion, the ACC is the strongest from the top to bottom in the nation," Steinbrecher, a member of the nominating committee, said. "The Midwest is strong, but there are four or five teams from here that can go with them."

Wolfpack beats Cavs in ACC season-opener

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—N.C. State sophomore quarterback Tol Avery had a nice visit to U. Va. Saturday afternoon, leading his Wolfpack to a 27-13 victory over the Cavaliers in the first Atlantic Coast Conference football game of the season.

Avery passed for 120 yards and rushed for 88 more as State raised its record to 2-0. Virginia dropped to 1-1 after an opening-week victory over Navy.

After falling behind 7-0 early, the Wolfpack rallied for a 17-7 halftime lead and its defense stopped the Virginia running game. Although Cavalier quarterback Todd Kirtley passed for 247 yards, Virginia runners got just 82 yards.

Bulldogs used a 67-yard punt return and a 98-yard interception return to set up another score to defeat the Tigers 20-16.

Georgia defensive back Scott Woerner was responsible for both returns, which made up for a listless Bulldog offense.

Wake Forest 24, The Citadel 7
WINSTON-SALEM—Wake Forest, displaying some of the passing prowess that lifted it to a winning season in 1979, overcame The Citadel 24-7 Saturday night in Groves Stadium.

Deacon quarterback Jay Venuto passed for 165 yards and running back Wayne McMillan rushed for 100 yards as the Deacons went to 1-1 for the season.

Football Roundup

Maryland 14, West Virginia 11
MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Maryland silenced West Virginia's potent offense—it had scored 93 points in two games—and scored a 14-11 victory.

Tailback Charlie Wysocki led Maryland with 149 yards and both Terp touchdowns. West Virginia was held to a field goal by the Maryland defense until the last minute of the game, when it scored on a 1-yard touchdown pass.

Florida 45, Georgia Tech 12
ATLANTA—Florida, led by sophomore quarterback Bob Hewko, who threw two touchdown passes and ran for another, handed Georgia Tech its second straight defeat, 45-12 Saturday.

Georgia 20, Clemson 16
ATHENS, Ga.—Clemson's defense held strong against Georgia, but the N.C. State men dominate in cross country

N.C. State placed six runners in the top 10 on its way to cross country victories over Virginia and North Carolina on the Finley course Saturday.

The Wolfpack scored 23 points in the meet. Virginia finished second with 50 points and UNC was third with 59 points.

"I thought we ran a good race, but State's always in good shape early in the season," Carolina coach Gary Hofstetter said. "We'll be ready when it counts (the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship)."

Winner UVA's Mike Cotton.

Senior co-captain Jimmy Cooper was the top Tar Heel finisher, placing third overall. For almost the entire first half of the race, Cooper had a good chance of winning.

"We were running pretty close up to the two-mile mark and nobody was making a move," Cooper said. "Then (Virginia's) Mike Cotton went for it. He took off and got a break off of us."

Cotton won the race.

The loss spoiled a record for Cooper, who had never run for a UNC team in a dual-meet loss before Saturday.

Cooper said, "Records are meant to be broken. I mean I'm not going out and commit suicide over this meet."

The Tar Heel co-captain said the outcome of the meet was unimportant.

"This is really like a pre-season for us. There's not a lot of pressure on us to win. We're just getting ready for the ACCs."

Freshman Jack Morgan fared well in his first collegiate race for the Tar Heels, placing 13th in the meet and third for Carolina.

"I didn't run as smart of a race as I should have," Morgan said. "I took off too fast at the beginning and by the last half of the race I was hurting a lot."

Morgan said he wasn't terribly disappointed at UNC's standing.

"From what everybody has been telling me, State is usually ready very early in the season," he said. "I don't like to make excuses, but we're using these meets to get ready for the conference meet. We should be ready by then."

—NORMAN CANNADA

Pack women run to win over Heels

By NORMAN CANNADA
Staff Writer

There was no surprise when N.C. State's defending national champion women's cross country team defeated North Carolina 19-30 Saturday on the Finley course.

The Wolfpack was supposed to win, but the Tar Heel women proved that they would be a contender as the season goes along.

"I thought we looked super out there," Carolina coach Hubert West said. "Everybody's coming along faster than I thought they would."

The Tar Heels were without co-captain Nancy Radford, who sprained her ankle in a Friday morning physical education class. Radford is expected to return to action by Tuesday.

In Radford's absence, junior Marla Daniel paced the Carolina performance with a second-place overall finish against a talent-laden N.C. State squad. Daniel's time of 17:18 broke Radford's old school record.

"We knew that when we lost Nancy, we had lost some very valuable points," Daniel said. "But, we've got a lot of good people here and everybody pulled together."

Daniel said she was not very surprised at her high finish.

"I figured I could at least finish in the top 10 anyway, since that's where I finished against State last year. But I've been running better, and I thought that I might be able to do better than just finish in the top 10."

Sports

Women's golf in Blue Ridge Invitational Boons.

Another bright spot for the Tar Heels Saturday was the performance of several freshmen, especially Joan Nesbitt, who finished seventh overall and second for the Tar Heels in the race.

"I wasn't very nervous before the race," Nesbitt said. "I was just a baby freshman coming in and there really wasn't any pressure on me to do well. But I guess there'll be a little more pressure for me to keep doing well."

Although the Heels ran well, the closeness of the score was aided by two problems encountered by the Wolfpack. Defending national individual champion Julie Shea sat out Saturday's meet. In addition, two other All-America candidates—Betty Springs and Mary Shea—got lost on the course and finished third and fourth respectively. State's Suzanne Givard was the meet's overall winner.

The Tar Heels now have the week off from competition before traveling to Winston-Salem to take part in the Wake Forest Invitational meet.

Women golfers win; men second

The tournament was played at Penn State, but it ended up more like a North Carolina intrasquad match as the Tar Heel women's golf team took the top four places and won the Penn State Invitational by 66 strokes.

Sophomore Cathy Reynolds took first with a one-over-par 220 total for the three-day event, edging teammate Jill Nesbitt by one shot. Linda Mescan was third with a 229 total, and Carla Daniel was fourth with 236.

The Tar Heels opened with a team score of 300 on Thursday and followed that with a 302 on Friday and a 298 on Sunday. Penn State's blue team was second at 360.

Duke's men's golf team shot 892 to take a six-stroke victory over runner-up North Carolina in the Yale Invitation Tournament.

The Tar Heels were led by Mike West and Frank Fuhrer, who shot scores of 222 in the 54-hole event. West and Fuhrer tied Maryland's Noel Caruso for second in the individual standings, two strokes behind Kelvin Klier of Temple.

Virginia was third in the team standings with a 908 score and Maryland was the fourth ACC school in the top-five, taking fifth place with a 913 total.

FOSDICK'S SEAFOOD

Whether it's a quick lunch, a family dinner, or a catered party, Fosdick's has the answer. Featuring quality seafood, an oyster bar, and steamed shrimp, crab, and oysters.

2808 S. Williams St., Raleigh, NC 933-8922

1500 Airport Road, Chapel Hill, NC 942-8806

Classified ads may be placed at the DTH Offices or mailed to the DTH Carolina Union 065A, Chapel Hill, NC 27514. All ads must be prepaid. Deadline: Ad must be received by 12 (noon) one business day before ad is run.

classified ads

rates

25 words or less
Students—$1.75
Non-Students—$2.75

Announcements

Healthy, Happy Ones, help bring holistic health to campus...

Take Care of Yourself...

Vote Registration...

Are You Ready for Spring?

Young Americans for Reagan...

lost & found

LOST SENTIMENTAL GOLD CHAIN on campus...

LOST SIAMANESE SEAL point cat...

FOUND LEATHER KEY CHAIN and key...

FOUND: GOLD BRACELET in front of Chapel of the Cross Church...

FOUND CALCULATOR on U bus route...

FOUND—SUSANNE SMITH I have found your bus pass...

HELP I'VE LOST MY BEST FRIEND!

FOUND: HANDBAG WITH WALLET...

FOUND CUTE MALE black & brown puppy...

HELP I LOST AN 18" men's gold neck chain...

help wanted

WANTED: NON-SMOKING MALES as subjects in paid EPA breathing experiments...

LIBRARY RESEARCH HELP WANTED...

roommates

WANTED: FEMALE ROOMMATE to share 2 bedroom Kingswood Apt...

ROOMMATES WANTED TO SHARE two bedrooms Tar Heel Manor Apt...

NEED ONE ROOMMATE to share two bedrooms Kingswood apartment...

for sale

SURGICAL SCRUBS Shirts or pants in blue or green...

UNFINISHED FURNITURE—We have more of it than anyone in Chapel Hill...

TICKETS TO BUSCH GARDENS, Williamsburg, Virginia for sale...

USED FURNITURE—We have more of it than anyone in North Carolina...

for rent

Available for immediate occupancy. One bedroom apartment...

ROOM AVAILABLE for Oct., Nov., Dec. in close-in Town House Apts...

PRIVATE TWO BEDROOM ROYAL PARK APT. for rent...

personals

DEAR RICK, I know you're up in Banner Elk...

JAMES H.—HAPPY BIRTHDAY to the future star...

RESEARCHING STORY: Enrolled at UNC 6 yrs? Would like to talk to you...

YOU'RE AN OLD MAN at 21, Keith. Next summer I will stop by Concord...

DEAR CAT Thanks for the best year of my life...

DEAR THOMAS'S Mom, Thomas says you're coming to visit "soon"...

services

THINKING OF A? THINK AARON AARON LITERARY SERVICES. Professionally typed manuscripts for the student who knows what it takes to get an A...

miscellaneous

HEY, WANT TO GET PUBLISHED? Try The Albemarle, UNC's only science magazine...