Women's tennis wins tournament

From staff and wire reports

MURFREESBORO, Tenn.—The North Carolina women's tennis team edged three wins in the final round of singles to defeat South Carolina 63-62 in the Red Raider Tennis Classic Saturday.

Tar Heel Margie Brown, playing No. 1, defeated USC's Collette Bennett 6-4, 6-4 to win the title. No. 5 Kathy Hogan defeated Pat Dogman of Miami 6-3, 6-0 and Lloyd Hatcher defeated Carol Henz of South Carolina at No. 6.

DURHAM—Carolina's Jimmy Cooper won the individual title, and Maryland took team honors Saturday in a cross country tri-meet at Duke.

Cooper won the race in a time of 28:40. Maryland won with 26 points, while Carolina came in second with 31. Running against Duke, the Tar Heels took a 20-38 victory.

The North Carolina men's soccer team survived a shaky start to defeat UNC-Wilmington 3-0 Saturday for its first victory over the Seahawks in four years.

Wilmington was in control for most of the first half but failed to convert its opportunities. Sean Naber put the Tar Heels ahead 1-0 with a score 26:46 into the game.

The Tar Heel attack was rejuvenated in the second half and scored twice on a Jay Ansie penalty kick and a goal credited to Nick Donnelly that was knocked in by a Seahawk defender.

"We've always been at a disadvantage playing Wilmington," UNC coach Anson Dorrance said. "It's their big game. They get sky high for the game, but we're expected to beat them. Wilmington dominated the first half but we made some changes at the start of the second half and that half was ours."

James Madison used three corner-shot goals and a tight defense to gain a 3-1 field hockey win over Carolina, dropping the Tar Heels to 0-3 for the season.

"We didn't look like ourselves," UNC coach Dolly Hunter said "and we were not as aggressive as we usually are."

With a 2-0 halftime deficit, Carolina started playing its game and Kim Knickerbocker put the Tar Heels on the board three minutes into the half.

Madison, 5-4, added an insurance goal midway through the second half, and their defense sealed the victory.

Carolina plays an important division game at 3 p.m. Tuesday when they visit Duke, then return home Thursday at 4:00 to host Pfeiffer.

Henry Ciccarone Jr. scored four goals to lead three-time defending NCAA lacrosse champion Johns Hopkins to a 13-10 victory over North Carolina Saturday night before an overflow crowd of 2,000 at the Navy Field Astroturf.

The Tar Heels had rallied from an 8-6 deficit behind Mike Burnett's two scores to take a 10-8 lead, but the Blue Jays exploded for five consecutive goals for the win.

Monty Hill led Carolina scoring with four goals. In addition to Burnett's two goals, Steve Stenersen scored twice and David Wingate and Brian Rice added single goals.

The game will not be counted toward NCAA regular season standings and Hopkins did not bring its seniors, but UNC coach Willie Scroggs said the game was a good experience for his team.

"It was a real treat to play Hopkins," Scroggs said. "We were a little tentative and at other times we forced things. The game was great for the sport here. A tremendous crowd saw the best team in lacrosse."

Seven players scored and UNC-Wilmington was held to one shot as the North Carolina women's soccer team romped to a 7-0 win over the Seahawks Saturday.

Nancy Clary opened the scoring with an unassisted score followed by defender Elley Jordan's goal from just within the midfield line. Ann Klans and Sarah Marr added first-half goals to give the Tar Heels a 4-0 lead at intermission. Anne Ballinger, Meg Mills and Kerry Judd scored in the second half.

The win raised the Tar Heels record to 5-3. The Tar Heels forfeited three early-season games because player eligibility forms were late in being turned in.

UNC returns to action against the Duke club at 2 p.m. Sunday on Fetzer Field.

RICHMOND, KY.—The UNC Volleyball team was eliminated after the first day of competition at the Eastern Kentucky Invitational.

The tournament was made up of 20 teams divided into four five-team pools. The Tar Heels defeated Indiana, South Carolina and Tennessee but lost to Northern Kentucky.

Indiana, North Kentucky and UNC tied for first in their pool, but Indiana and Northern Kentucky advanced to the second day of the single-elimination tournament because they had won more total games than Carolina.

Tar Heels block the way for Maryland

Even before the game began Saturday, North Carolina managed to get in the way of just about everything Maryland wanted to do.

As the Terrapins left the lockerroom to run to their bench, the Tar Heels bolted in a light blue stream from dressing room, impeding Maryland's progress. The Terrapins players had to stop and let the Heels pass before they could get to the sidelines.

It was a little thing, but in a way it was very symbolic. For the rest of the afternoon a Tar Heel always to be blocking the way anywhere the Terps wanted to go.

David Poole

The members of Carolina's defense, for example, felt they knew what caused Charlie Wysocki to fumble three times.

"He likes to carry the ball wide, then cut back against the grain," Donnell Thompson said. "He's not used to getting pursuit like he got from our team. He looked back and saw our pursuit, and there was nowhere to run." Wysocki wasn't the only Terp who had trouble finding room to operate. Quarterback Mike Tice spent a lot of time trying to keep from being sacked by a hungry Tar Heel pass rush.

"Tice didn't have much time to throw the ball today," Carolina safety Steve Streater said. "When our front line is playing well, it makes it easy on the secondary."

While Carolina had a lot to do with keeping the Maryland offense from accomplishing much of anything, the Terrapins dropped a few wrenches into the works themselves.

Maryland not only gave up four fumbles but was hit six penalties which gave the Tar Heels first downs. Three of those came on kicking situations, and Terp coach Jerry Claiborne thought he knew why.

"The center was rocking the ball," Claiborne said. "When the ball moved, we moved."

Jimbo Harrell, the Tar Heel who handles the snaps on kicking situations, begged to differ. "I just snapped the ball like I always have," he said. "You can pick up the ball to snap it as long as it's one fluid motion. Our guys didn't jump, so I guess I didn't do anything different. If I did, I wasn't conscious of it."

The Tar Heels were in control of the game throughout, but Maryland—despite all the mistakes—wasn't really out of it until a drive in the fourth quarter was halted inside the Tar Heel 10-yard line. The reason hung in according to Claiborne, was the Terp defense.

"Our defense kept us in the game," he said. "When you run only 14 plays and are behind 10-0 at halftime, the defense has to be playing well."

The Terrapins didn't look like a Top-20 team in Kenan Stadium Saturday, and Carolina might have been lucky to get them on a bad day. But the Tar Heels were, for the most part, responsible for Maryland's problems.
