

Bowl games

Most invitations already have RSVPs

For UNC, the bowl picture was clear before the Virginia win on Saturday—a trip to the Bluebonnet Bowl to play Texas on New Year's Eve. For a number of other teams, however, the picture was and remains unclear.

Michigan defeated Purdue 26-0 Saturday to set up a showdown with defending Big Ten champion Ohio State next week for a Rose Bowl bid. The loser will take on Penn State in the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz., Dec. 26.

Purdue (7-3) has accepted a Liberty Bowl invitation to face Missouri (7-3) in Memphis, Tenn. Dec. 27.

Washington, (8-2) upset Southern Cal 20-10 to get the Rose Bowl berth for the Pacific 10 Conference.

Florida State did not play Saturday, but they accepted an Orange Bowl bid to play the Big Eight champion, either Nebraska or Oklahoma.

The Cornhuskers and the Sooners do battle in Lincoln, Neb. Saturday to determine the Big Eight crown. The loser plays Mississippi State (8-2) in the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Texas Dec. 27.

The major bowl positions were shuffled up a bit because of a couple of upsets but they were nevertheless quickly filled.

No. 1 Georgia (10-0) clinched a Sugar Bowl spot with a 31-21 win over Auburn. The Bulldogs will meet Notre Dame (8-0-1) in New Orleans on New Year's Day.

The Fighting Irish blanked Alabama in Birmingham 7-0 to get the berth.

The Crimson Tide (8-2) got a Cotton Bowl berth to play Southwest Conference champ Baylor in Dallas Jan. 1.

The Maryland Terrapins (7-3) won a position in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., Dec. 20, after defeating Clemson 34-7. The other spot went to Florida (7-2) which got the bid following its 17-15 victory over Kentucky.

No. 14 South Carolina (8-2) edged Wake Forest 39-38 on a two-point conversion with time running out and minutes later accepted a bid to the Gator Bowl to play No. 8 Pittsburgh, a 45-7 winner over Army, in Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 29.

The Peach Bowl, which wanted North Carolina, has settled on one team for the Jan. 2 game in Atlanta. Bill Dooley's Virginia Tech Gobblers (8-3) accepted that bid after his team beat VMI, 21-6.

Wood, Perkins spark Blue team to scrimmage win

By DAVID POOLE
Assistant Sports Editor

At times, Saturday's Blue-White Carolina basketball scrimmage looked more like a glorified game of shirts-and-skis in a schoolyard than a dress rehearsal for a major college team.

Sloppy ballhandling, poor shot selection, unnecessary fouls, bad rebound positioning and a near lack of defense all played a part in the 81-72 win by the Blues.

But there were also flashes of brilliance. Al Wood's textbook jumper was working early in the game as he sparked the Blue team to an early lead. James Worthy then got tough underneath and rallied his White team to a six-point halftime lead. Jimmy Black, Matt Doherty, Sam Perkins, Mike Pepper and Jimmy Braddock all showed they were capable of making some big plays.

In short, it was a typical pre-season scrimmage. The Tar Heels, regardless of the colors they wore, were taking another step toward getting ready for the 1980-1981 season.

"I am more pleased with our performance today than I was with the first Blue-White game last week," coach Dean Smith said afterward. "We have made some progress in practice this week."

Smith said he looked at the game as a way to check his team's concentration and execution in a game situation. "We try to check for game slippage," he said. "You'd like to play like you practice and we did that much better today."

"Our offense, I thought, looked good. But a lot of that might have been because our defense didn't do anything. I was disappointed with our defense. I expected our man-to-man to be a little better. The offense is ahead of the defense at this point."

"We're progressing slowly, but surely," Worthy said. "We still need to work on execution, defense and concentration."

Smith said the team was running behind where it should be at this point, less than two weeks before the regular season opens Nov. 28 in the Alaskan Shootout.

"We're behind where we'd like to be," Smith said. "The reason is that we've had injuries to our people in the same position—all our big men have been hurt—and that's hampered us in practice."

Pete Budko, who only began practice last Monday after missing several weeks with a stress fracture in his right leg, played 16 minutes and scored only two points for the White team. Worthy, on the other hand, played 33 minutes—nearly twice as much as he did in the first scrimmage a week ago Friday—and said that the tendonitis in his Achilles tendon was improving.

"I moved a lot better this week than I did in the first Blue-White game," the Gastonia sophomore

James Worthy goes for a score ...sophomore had 27 points in scrimmage

Wood scored 22 points to lead the Blue team in Saturday's game, with freshman Perkins adding 21. Black had 14 points and 11 assists, but committed 13 turnovers for the Blues. Pepper had 10 points.

Worthy was the game's leading scorer with 27 and also led in rebounds with 12. Braddock helped out with 14 points for the White team and Doherty, another freshman, had 11, but committed nine turnovers.

"Matt and Sam are both quick learners," Smith said. "Doherty's a great passer, but I don't think he played quite as well today as he did in the last game. We were happy with Perkins, but he didn't dominate the boards. He's going to get stronger inside."

"I'm looking forward to seeing somebody other than ourselves," he said. "The difference is that they won't know anything that we're doing like we do when we play against ourselves."

Women booters finish 4th in AIAW nationals

From staff and wire reports

Four "own" goals spelled defeat for the North Carolina women's soccer team as it took fourth place Sunday in the AIAW national championships in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Tar Heels lost to Harvard 5-3 in a consolation game on Sunday. Only two of the Harvard goals came off legitimate scores, with Carolina putting in three shots for Harvard.

Sarah Marr opened the scoring against Harvard, assisted by Chrissie Billings, but an own goal tied it up for Harvard. Carolina then took its last lead at 2-1 with Ann Klas scoring off an Janet Rayfield assist. Harvard tied it up before halftime and took a two-goal lead with a couple more own goals.

Billings then brought UNC back within one with a goal, assisted by Rayfield, but Harvard put the game away with a final score to make it 5-3.

The game was hampered by the weather conditions; two inches of snow had fallen during the night and melted on the field.

After edging Texas A&M 1-0 in the opening round, the Tar Heels lost in the semifinals to UCLA 3-2 Saturday. Ann Klas and Janet Rayfield scored for Carolina, but an own goal by UNC gave UCLA the margin of victory.

In Pinchurst Sunday, the Wake Forest women's golf team withstood a last-minute challenge by North Carolina to capture the sixth North Carolina women's intercollegiate golf title.

The 12-stroke lead the Lady Deacons built Saturday dwindled to a single-stroke edge as the defending champion Tar Heels shot the day's low round on Pinehurst Country Club's No. 1 course.

Patty Jordan, a Wake Forest junior, took individual honors with a 10-over-par 150. She defeated Duke freshman Mary Ann Widman with a par on the first hole of a playoff.
