

Theater group to present plays

The critically acclaimed Long Wharf Theatre will perform Noel Coward's Private Lives at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and The Lion in Winter at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. Wednesday in Memorial Hall. Tickets for the performances sponsored by the Carolina Union are available at the Carolina Union Box Office.

Private Lives, Noel Coward's 1931 comedy, centers on the antics of Elyot and Amanda, who fall in love and marry, then later discover they can't stand each other. They get divorced and marry other people. But they fall incompatibly in love again when they honeymoon at the same hotel.

Generally regarded as Coward's finest comedy, Private Lives had a long run in both its London and Broadway productions. The performances of the four stars of the London production—Noel Coward, Gertrude Lawrence, Laurence Olivier and Adrienne Allen—are regarded as classics of modern theatre.

The Lion in Winter is James Goldman's historical "might have been" drama that chronicles with wit the domestic troubles of Henry II, who had his wife, Eleanor of Aquitaine, imprisoned for 15 years.

Pharmacy school to receive portrait as part of celebration

A portrait of the late Rep. Carl T. Durham, UNC alumnus and pharmacist, will be presented to the School of Pharmacy at 4 p.m. today in 111 Beard Hall.

The presentation is part of the School of Pharmacy's celebration of 100 years of pharmaceutical education at UNC.

Gilbert S. Goldhammer, consultant to the House of Representatives Intergovernmental Relations and Human Resources Subcommittee, will speak on "The Durham-Humphrey Amendment: A Perspective" at the ceremony.

Goldhammer, who was with the FDA when the amendment was passed, will discuss its various interpretations during the nearly 30 years it has been law.

Durham drafted the amendment with Hubert H. Humphrey, who was also a pharmacist. The amendment to the Food and Drug Act restricted dispensing prescription drugs. It allowed them to be dispensed or refilled only by a licensed pharmacist with the authority of a physician. It was enacted in 1952.

The portrait was painted by Durham's stepdaughter, Joyce Gossett of Charlotte, and was donated to UNC by his wife, Louise Jefferson Durham.

Say Merry Christmas to all of your friends and relatives in the personals of the DTH classifieds.

PARSONS SCHOOL OF DESIGN SOPHOMORE YEAR IN PARIS

In collaboration with the American College in Paris, Parsons School of Design offers art students from colleges and art schools throughout the United States an opportunity to live and study in Paris during their sophomore year. Programs are offered in:

- FINE ARTS AND ILLUSTRATION
- PHOTOGRAPHY
- INTERIOR DESIGN

The sophomore rather than the more traditional junior year has been chosen for this program because, for the art student, the continuity of the last two years of undergraduate study is particularly important.

Students completing their sophomore year credits in Paris have a choice regarding the remainder of their undergraduate education. They may return to their "home campus" for the completion of their degree work, or remain in Paris and complete the Parsons B.F.A. degree there.

Students participating in the Parsons/American College in Paris program live with French families; in independent rooms; or in apartments throughout the city. For a catalogue fully describing the program, please call (212) 741-8910, or send the coupon.
