Red Clay Ramblers band to perform at Memorial

By LESLIE MEEDS
Staff Writer

When Watson strums his mandolin, and Thompson picks his banjo, and Hicks steams up his fiddle, and Herrick wakens his trumpet, and Craver's fingers strike his piano keys, the energetic music of the Red Clay Ramblers races through the air in Chapel Hill.

The Red Clay Ramblers classify their colorful music, which has been compared to the string band traditions of the '20s and '30s, as "new music from the old elements."

Blues, jazz, Irish tunes and multitudes of original material overflow from the Ramblers' repertoire. Their album releases include The Red Clay Ramblers With Fiddlin' Al McCamless, Stolen Love and Twisted Laurel.

The Ramblers will be "flexing its musical muscles" today at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. The N.C. Student Rural Health Coalition is sponsoring the concert which requires a $5 donation. Tickets are available at the Carolina Union information desk and at the door.

The concert will also feature the musical talents of Si Kahn, an artist who captures the essence of traditional music. Michael Lakin, student co-director of the N.C. Student Rural Health Coalition, described Kahn as playing "a mean fiddle."

Kahn, an author and community organizer as well as a musician, will open today's musical extravaganza. The Ramblers will perform after a brief intermission.

The Red Clay Ramblers live in Chapel Hill and have performed extensively in the Northeast and the South. The group has also performed in clubs and folk festivals during summer tours in Europe, Canada and the United Kingdom. "They're preparing to go to Africa in April for the State Department," Lakin said.

The Ramblers' talents have gone far beyond singing, for in 1975, it played as part of the original cast in the off-Broadway hit Diamond Studs, a musical based on the life of Jesse James.

Melody Maker, a British magazine, said, "The Red Clay Ramblers have immense stage presence and personality and a colorful selection of material."
