

Hill leaves UNC on winning note

Freshman year on the UNC lacrosse team was not easy for Monty Hill. The team finished with a mediocre 6-6 record and was disrupted by ill feelings between some of the players and then-lacrosse coach Paul Doty. Now a senior on the undefeated and nationally second-ranked Tar Heel team, Hill said he was glad he stuck with the lacrosse program through all its difficulties. "I was thinking about transferring in my freshman year because of all the problems, but I stayed and I've had no regrets since," said Hill, a native of Charlottesville, Va. Hill, a three-year starter at attackman, has always been high in the team's scoring statistics. He led the 1979 team with 14 goals and was also the squad's high scorer in last year's NCAA tournament. This year, he leads the Tar Heels with 16 scores. While Hill's individual performance has always been good, lacrosse coach Willie Scroggs has brought in young and talented players to help make the Heels a team success. "Being part of a program that started from hardly anything and worked up to one of the best in the nation has been inspirational," Hill said. "Working with the guys is rewarding." While Hill's four years at Carolina have included the team's first trip to the NCAA semifinals and its highest ranking ever in the national polls, the biggest moment of his lacrosse career at Carolina came this year with a 13-12 overtime win over Maryland for UNC's first victory in 17 tries against the Terps, he said. Hill credits the excellence of the athletic program at Carolina for helping the lacrosse team in its rapid ascent to the top of the sport's elite. "It's just that the Carolina tradition has made everyone on the team a winner," he said. "The attitude of the team members is great."

Although this season has already been a successful one for Hill and the lacrosse team, which has three victories over Top Ten ranked teams, it is far from over. The Heels meet N.C. State at 2 p.m. Saturday on Fetzer Field. A win over the Wolfpack would give Carolina its first outright Atlantic Coast Conference lacrosse title. UNC has already clinched a tie for the crown.

After the regular season, Carolina is almost guaranteed a spot in the NCAA tournament. "I see a big future for lacrosse at Carolina as long as Coach Scroggs is here," Hill said. "I see a national championship soon, maybe even this year."

— GEOFFREY MOCK

Monty Hill

Lacrosse title on line

By GEOFFREY MOCK
Assistant Sports Editor

As if a game between North Carolina and N.C. State needed any extra drama, the Tar Heel and Wolfpack lacrosse teams decided to up the ante for their contest at 2 p.m. Saturday at Fetzer Field.

It is not just for bragging rights. It's for the Atlantic Coast Conference and Carmichael Cup titles.

Carolina, which will enter the game with a 3-0 conference record, has clinched at last a tie for its first-ever ACC title in lacrosse. A victory over State would give the Tar Heels the championship outright, but a loss would force Carolina to settle for a tie with Virginia, which has finished its ACC schedule with a 3-1 record.

With an outright championship in lacrosse, Carolina would finish in a tie with State for the Carmichael Cup. Lacrosse is the only sport left to be counted, and State has a three-point lead over the second-place Tar Heels.

A Carolina win Saturday would give UNC eight points for the ACC crown and State five points for its fourth-place finish in the sport, leaving both teams tied for the title with 60 points. A State win would give it the cup outright. Win or lose, State has already become the first ACC school other than UNC or Maryland to take at least a share of the crown.

The game also will be instrumental in determining seeding for the NCAA tournament. UNC coach Willie Scroggs said both teams had a good chance of being extended bids to the tournament but that a win by the Tar Heels should clinch a seed high enough to provide a home-field advantage for their opening game.

"We're very pleased that we went undefeated on the road this season," Scroggs said. "That's a great accomplishment. But you never know what will happen on the road, and I feel good about playing at home and getting good fan support."

Only eight teams are invited to the tournament, and the game may make the difference for whether State, ranked ninth in the nation with a 7-3 record, receives a bid. However, Scroggs said the game was just as important to the Heels as it was to the Wolfpack.

"This game at this late time in the year always has some impact on the post-season picture because of the caliber of the teams. The last couple of regular season games are always important."

Although Carolina has won five of the eight games between the two teams, State has won the last three games, including a 20-15 triumph over the Heels last year in Raleigh. State's All-America attackman Stan Cockerton has graduated, but the Wolfpack still boasts a strong offense led by seniors Scott Nelson and Jon Swerdloff, who have combined for 62 goals in 10 games.

"State has a very sound attack unit," Scroggs said. "They're very explosive. The key is just like when we beat the University of Maryland-Baltimore County. It will be our defense against their offense. We have to control the ball and put the pressure on the State defense to stop us."

Carolina is coming off a 20-13 victory over Roanoke Tuesday in Salem, Va. Carolina jumped to an 11-3 and nearly made a rout of it in the first half, but a second-half Roanoke rally made the game close.

"We got out to that big first-half lead, and maybe we let down some," Scroggs said. "But Roanoke came out fired up in the second half and scored two quick goals. They had some emotion and zip and they scored twice more to make it 11-7. From there the game evened out."

Roanoke is ranked fourth in Division III, but Scroggs said he was not surprised by the challenge Roanoke gave the Heels. "I have never seen a team like Roanoke," he said. "They didn't stop when they were down, but they came back and fought hard."

"We lost some intensity in the third period, but that's to be expected with the lead, and we played well. It never got to a point that I thought Roanoke would take the lead."

Carolina completes its regular-season schedule against Washington & Lee at 2 p.m. May 10 at Fetzer Field. The opening round of the eight-team NCAA tournament will be held May 20.

Tennis looks for Region II title

By KIM ADAMS
Staff Writer

The newly crowned state champion women's tennis team will advance to the Region II Tournament May 6-9 in Lexington, Ky., to compete for team and individual honors.

The ninth-ranked Tar Heels won their third straight NCAIAW title last Sunday by beating both N.C. State and Duke by 9-0 scores.

Team captain Lloyd Hatcher won the individual championship and will compete — along with teammates Kathy Barton and Betsy Heidenberger, who rounded out the top three finishers — in the individual competition in the regionals.

"I'm excited about going to the tournament, but I can't say that I have a good chance to win, because it just depends on how well I play," Hatcher said. "I'm pretty confident about the rest of the team."

Two teams — Hatcher and Katherine Hogan and Heidenberger and Margie Brown — will advance in doubles competition. Hatcher and Hogan defeated Heidenberger and Brown in the finals of the state tournament 6-1, 6-7, 6-3.

"I think Lloyd and I should do well in the tournament," Hogan said. "We lost to the Kellys from Tennessee and to the Clemson team, but they were both close matches. We've been playing better together, so I don't see any reason why we couldn't win the doubles title."

UNC will be the No. 1 seed. "Barring injury, I think we should do well enough in the regionals to advance to the nationals," Coach Kitty Harrison said.

"Besides the team competition, I think we should make good showings in the individual competitions in both the singles and the doubles."

Only two singles players, one doubles pair and one team will advance to the national tournament, which will be held June 3-10 in Tempe, Ariz. There will also be nine at-large bids, so if the Tar Heels make a good showing but don't win the regional tournament, they could still advance on the basis of their 20-2 regular season record and their national ranking.

Skip Miller

DTH/Photo

Miller skips over hurdles

By LINDA ROBERTSON
Staff Writer

Skip Miller loves to hurdle. "Put a row of hurdles in front of me and I can run them all day long," the senior co-captain of the track team said. "On the other hand, when it comes to intervals or hills, I've really got to reach down for self-motivation."

Miller's specialty during his four-year varsity career at UNC has been the high hurdles. His best time in the 60-meter hurdles indoors is 7.1 and he holds a personal record of 13.9 for the 110 hurdles outdoors.

Miller has also been an outstanding performer on Carolina's relay teams. He was lead-off man when the 1,600-meter relay and the 400-meter relay set school records of 3:10.5 and 40.6, respectively. But Miller prefers the hurdles.

"Some people will say you're a hurdler because you're not fast enough to run anything else, but to be a hurdler you have to be extremely quick," Miller said.

Miller was Carolina Relays champion in the 110 hurdles and has finished third in the ACC in that event two years in a row. This year he qualified for the NCAA National Indoor meet in the hurdles and mile relay. He has been All-ACC and an ACC finalist every season and this year was chosen co-captain along with middle-distance man Kevin Lockerbie.

"Being picked co-captain, qualifying for nationals indoors, winning the Carolina Relays and placing in the ACC outdoors as a freshman are big highlights," Miller said. "In that race as a freshman, I can say I was in one of the races when Renaldo (Nehemiah) got beat. I can't say I remember it too well because when the gun went off, they were gone."

Miller started hurdling as a junior in high school in Charlotte after giving up high jumping.

"You really have to be a perfectionist," the psychology major said. "Those hurdles are 42 inches tall and you have to put in a lot of time refining your technique and doing weights."

Miller plans to continue running after graduate with his goal being the 1984 Olympic Trials.

"All-America Jeff Howser, Olympian Charles Foster, Olympic coach Leroy Walker and Coach Joe Hilton have helped me the most," Miller said. "But the memories of the guys on the team make it really special. It's all been part of a growing-up process."

"I thought Bud was better, but I've been proved wrong. I chose Schlitz."

One taste of Schlitz can change a lot of minds. Recently, hundreds of loyal Budweiser and Miller drinkers tasted their beer and Schlitz side by side.

"I thought I knew my beer — I thought I'd choose Miller. But I chose Schlitz."
Charles Walker
Sworn Miller Drinker

Before the taste tests, all the participants signed affidavits swearing they were loyal Budweiser or Miller drinkers. But following the tests, lots of those tasters were surprised. Because after tasting their favorite beer and Schlitz in unlabeled mugs, many found they preferred Schlitz.

"I've been drinkin' Budweiser for 25 years. But tonight I opted for Schlitz."
Elliot Marcus
Sworn Budweiser Drinker

One taste of Schlitz convinced them. "Schlitz has body, it has flavor," said Budweiser drinker James Seager. "It's real quenching and real clean and very drinkable," agreed Miller drinker Mike Manely. Budweiser drinker Robert Davis summed up the feelings of many when he said, "I'll have to stop by and pick up a six-pack of Schlitz!"

Guy D'Anna
Guy D'Anna
Sworn Budweiser Drinker

"I'm definitely surprised. I thought for sure I'd pick Miller. But I picked Schlitz."
Mike Miller
Sworn Miller Drinker

One person who wasn't surprised is Frank Sellinger. "Some people thought it was risky to taste test my Schlitz on national TV. But I was sure lots of people would pick Schlitz over their beers."

"Three years ago I came to Schlitz to make my best. And after 40 years as a master brewer, I know this is it. Taste one glass. You may like my Schlitz better than your beer, too."

"I'm not surprised at all!"
Frank Sellinger
Chief Executive Officer of Schlitz

Spanky's Long Sleeve T-Shirt special
$1.00 off with this coupon through exams
(we have great food too!!!)

Long Sleeve T-Shirts
SPANKY'S
an eating and drinking establishment
101 East Franklin Street
967-2678
offer good until May 13 not good with any other offer
ONE DOLLAR OFF

carolina UNID ANNOUNCES 1981-82 SEASONS!
BROADWAY ON TOUR
CHILDREN OF A LESSER GOD
ANNIE
THE BEST LITTLE WHOREHOUSE IN TEXAS
THEY'RE PLAYING OUR SONG
TRIANGLE DANCE GUILD
AMERICAN BALLET THEATRE II
GUS GIORDANO JAZZ DANCE COMPANY
JOSE LIMON DANCE COMPANY
To receive summer mailings, leave name and summer address in drop box in front on Union Box Office.