

Jacobson appointed chairman of Elections Board

By ELAINE McCLATCHEY
DTH Staff Writer

Mark Jacobson, a junior from Victoria, Minn., has been appointed Elections

Board chairman subject to the approval of the Campus Governing Council. Student Body President Scott Norberg announced this week. Norberg also announced that he has chosen Bert Johnson, a senior from Durham, to serve as his special assistant. Johnson will concentrate on special projects such as advising on Chapel Thrill, working with The University of North Carolina Association of Student Governments and coordinating campus groups to provide a stronger student voice, Norberg said.

Jacobson's appointment must be approved by the Campus Governing Council. Norberg said he was concerned that elections ran smoothly.

"How well an election is run reflects on the credibility of the candidate," Norberg said, adding that he felt Jacobson had the best combination of talent: leadership, organization and understanding of the system. Jacobson's experience includes working on a Daily Tar Heel editorial campaign during elections last spring.

Norberg also made appointments to campus advisory boards. Advisory boards act as immediate superiors to certain campus organizations under Student Government jurisdiction. The boards appoint managers and outline policies for the organizations. Norberg made the following appointments:

- Audit Board Jeff Koeze
- Media Board Trey Monroe
- Student Legal Services Advisory Board Barbara Rosser
- Carolina Union Board of Directors Ellen Starr
- WXYC Board Lisa Gourley

Drug made from penicillin cuts cholesterol levels, scientists say

The Associated Press

BOSTON — A new drug made from penicillin reduces levels of cholesterol in the blood and may prevent hardening of the arteries, an underlying cause of the heart attacks and strokes that kill 800,000 Americans a year, researchers said this week.

A study shows that the experimental drug compactin is effective in people with an inherited defect that produces high blood cholesterol levels and leads to premature heart disease.

And doctors familiar with the research say the drug may someday have a far wider application in preventing heart disease for millions of otherwise healthy people who have too much cholesterol in their blood.

The new study was directed by Dr. Hiroshi Mabuchi at Kanazawa University School of Medicine in Japan and published in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

The Japanese doctors gave compactin to seven people with hypercholesterolemia. Such victims often have two or three times the usual levels of cholesterol in their blood. They are five times more likely than normal to have heart disease, which often appears when they are in their 40s.

The patients, including a woman and three of her children, took small doses of the drug for 24 weeks. Their blood levels of a form of cholesterol called low-density lipoprotein, or LDL, fell 29 percent. Their levels of high-density lipoprotein, which protects against heart disease, were unchanged.

Researchers also reported no adverse side effects.

LDL causes fatty deposits on the blood vessels and makes them narrow and clog. This condition, called hardening of the arteries or atherosclerosis, contributes directly to the heart attack and stroke that makes heart disease America's No. 1 killer.

In an accompanying editorial, Drs. Michael S. Brown and Joseph L. Goldstein of the University of Texas Science Center said the development of compactin "assumes great importance."

Besides helping people with the genetic defect, "compactin offers hope to the large number of patients whose plasma LDL levels are in the upper range for the population and who are predisposed to atherosclerosis yet do not have familial hypercholesterolemia," they wrote.

Cholesterol is an essential chemical that is used to make cell membranes and hormones. It is dangerous when too much of it circulates in the blood.

Some experts believe high blood cholesterol is aggravated by eating foods such as meat and cream that are high in fat and cholesterol.

But the body produces far more cholesterol naturally than is taken in by eating. The Texas doctors say it may not be necessary for people to give up cholesterol-rich food if compactin proves effective.

"Inhibition of cholesterol synthesis with compactin ... should stimulate their production of LDL receptors and reduce their LDL levels despite continued consumption of a diet rich in cholesterol," they wrote.

The doctors believe compactin works by inhibiting a body chemical called 3-hydroxy-3-methylglutaryl coenzyme A reductase. Through a complicated feedback system, this reduces the body's production of cholesterol while at the same time enhancing its use of the cholesterol that remains by increasing the number of LDL receptors. The receptors are molecules that transport cholesterol into the cells.

Compactin was discovered by Akira Endo at the Sankyo Drug Co. in Tokyo. Since then, a similar drug called mevinolin has been found that is even more powerful. This drug was independently developed by Endo and American researchers at Merck, Sharp and Dohme. Neither drug has been approved for general use.

News in Brief

South Africa admits clash

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister P.W. Botha acknowledged Wednesday that South African troops had crossed into Angola and were fighting black guerrillas who were seeking independence for South-West Africa.

Angola was reportedly ordering a general mobilization of its armed forces in response to what it has termed an invasion and an attempt by the South Africans to occupy the southern part of its country.

In New York, a spokesman for U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said Waldheim was cutting short his Austrian vacation because of the developments, which brought condemnation by Western powers on Wednesday.

The U.S. State Department in Washington said through spokesman Dean Fischer that the Reagan administration deplored the attack but that the South African viewpoint also must be considered.

Thrift urged for agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a new drive to save additional billions in 1982, the Reagan administration is ordering federal agencies to stick to leaner budgets proposed by the president last spring rather than higher spending ceilings approved by Congress in July.

Ed Dale, a spokesman for the Office of Management and Budget, said Wednesday the administration would try to make sure Congress did not fill agency coffers to the brim in cases where the spending ceiling exceeded the budget requests President Reagan made in March.

Toward that end, departments have been instructed to draft budgets based on the president's figures, Dale said.

The administration is also challenging Congress to accept the reduced spending plans by raising the prospect that Reagan may veto appropriations bills exceeding his original spending plans.

Sadat, Begin agree on talks

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin announced Wednesday they would resume the deadlocked negotiations on Palestinian autonomy Sept. 23.

Sadat said he and Begin had reached "agreement that we resume the talks for the full autonomy issue ... in the second half of September."

Begin added that foreign ministers of the two countries had set Sept. 23-24 as the starting date.

Egyptian and Israeli sources, who asked not to be identified, said the two leaders believed it would be better to discuss their differences after the talks got underway again.

Before the autonomy talks start, Begin will fly to Washington for talks next month with President Ronald Reagan. He came to Egypt seeking Sadat's agreement to resume the talks on autonomy for the Palestinians of the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, which the Egyptian president suspended last summer.

Medfly infestation spreading

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Medfly crisis spread Wednesday to Southern California, where officials warned of "economic disaster" and made immediate plans to quarantine the area and begin pesticide spraying.

Two of five Mediterranean fruit flies found Tuesday in the suburb of Baldwin Park were confirmed to be fertile. Three more flies were discovered Wednesday in the same region, 260 miles south of the 3,140-square-mile area in Northern California that has been under quarantine.

"We could very well see economic disaster here," said Earl McPhail, agriculture commissioner in Ventura County, just north of Los Angeles.

George Strathairn, deputy director of the state Food and Agriculture Department, said aerial pesticide spraying would begin Wednesday night over nine square miles, and that an 81-square-mile area in the Los Angeles suburbs of Baldwin Park, Irwindale and West Covina would be placed under quarantine.

N.C. triple murder puzzling

CAMP LEJEUNE (AP) — Six children found sleeping in a duplex apartment where a woman and two children were stabbed to death may hold the key to what happened and why, naval investigators said Wednesday.

The Naval Intelligence Service said it had several suspects in the killings Monday on the grounds of Camp Lejeune, but no arrests have been made. Investigators said a knife believed to be the murder weapon had been recovered, but they declined to elaborate.

Psychiatrists and psychologists were called in to help question the six children, aged 4 through 15, who were found asleep in the home at Camp Lejeune. One boy was found in the same room as several of the sleeping children, investigators said.
