

Preparations being made for Chapel Thrill

So far, everyone is doing their homework to prepare for Student Government's annual spring Chapel Thrill concert, Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Donald A. Boulton said Tuesday.

Boulton has informally contacted Chapel Hill Town Manager Gene Shipman, UNC Athletic Director John Swoford, Carolina Union Director Howard Henry, and Chapel Hill Police Chief, Herman Stone to find out if they would help plan the spring concert.

He said a few more people would be required to put on a large concert like Chapel Thrill, and everyone would need to pull together.

Boulton said it took an amazing amount of planning to put on a concert. One little detail missed could mean chaos. "The mind has to be filled with a million and one little things."

Wes Wright, chairman of the Chapel Thrill committee, said he was working on updating his budget, itemizing every cost so that he would be ready to submit the budget to the Campus Governing Council in two weeks. Then the CGC would have a good idea of the basic costs. The fixed cost, without including the cost of bands, is an estimated $50,000. Wright said he still had a few costs to add to that figure. Wright and Student Body President

Scott Norberg are drafting a proposal to submit to the CGC Finance Committee next week. The bill requests the investment of all the general surplus, roughly $120,000, for the concert, Wright said.

In order to avoid some of the problems that arose last year, Norberg said he was requesting that CGC approve the bill and then leave the responsibility for the concert in the hands of the Student Government executive branch.

News in Brief

Hitler official dies in London

LONDON (AP) — Albert Speer, Adolf Hitler's wartime minister for industrial production, died Tuesday night at a London hospital, a hospital official said. He was 76.

Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, said Speer was taken to a hospital from a London hotel and was believed to have suffered a stroke. The hospital official would not confirm the cause of death.

It was not known why Speer was in London or how long he had been there.

lake

The Cross Winds recreational area will include the six boat lanes, a 300-car paved parking lot and rest rooms, Hagenberger said. There are 54 boat ramps in the master plan for the lake.

Thomason explained that the land surrounding the lake was federally owned and used as wildlife game lands until the Corps finished work on particular areas. At that time, the lands became recreational.

"We had predicted about two million people a year would use all the facilities (of Jordan Lake)," Hagenberger said. However, he said the date for the recreational project's completion was dependent on the funding the Corps received.

Physically, the filling of the lake is controlled by preventive maintenance workers like Samuel Covington, who stand guard in a small room under the observation deck.

Covington said there were 12 gates which controlled the water flow. Two are being used now; one was closed Tuesday and the other was opened three feet.

"We have to maintain normal river flow.
