

Labor Day march draws 20,000 workers

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — More than 20,000 workers marched under gloomy skies Monday in a Labor Day parade, a defiant procession that included 4,000 jobless air traffic controllers, while the man who fired them was not invited.

President Ronald Reagan, who dismissed 12,000 controllers for staging an illegal strike, was in town anyway to present an $85 million check to Mayor Edward I. Koch for a highway project.

"All presidents usually think of some Labor Day gimmick to give the appearance that they favor the working man," said AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland, who led the parade. "He's taking full advantage of it."

The New York parade — which numbered more than 20,000 people by midday — was the city's first in 13 years. And it was the biggest of many observances across the country in honor of the American labor movement, which celebrated its 100th anniversary this fall.

In New York, the contingent of members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization drew warm applause as it marched by the reviewing stand chanting, "Strike! Strike! Strike!"

Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., said as they passed, "It looks like they came from all over the country and they are trying to get the (AFL-CIO) executive council to take a more active part in the strike."

Asked if he agreed with a suggestion that amnesty be granted the fired strikers, Moynihan said, "I don't think this could've happened during Lyndon B. Johnson's time, because he would have locked them in a room and made them talk until there was a settlement."

Kirkland said, "If people have any brains or understanding or half a heart, there ought to be a resolution for the people of the United States and the country at large. It's not sensible for a system like this to be limping along at half speed."

Steve Wallaert, head of PATCO's Local 291 in Norfolk, Va., marched with chains around his neck in symbolic protest of his recent arrest.

Some PATCO marchers wore signs with Wallaert's picture that read: "Union busting or collective bargaining? Is your union next?" Others wore T-shirts reading, "Strikingly Significant" and "Leading the Nation with Striking Results."

"There's not going to be any dismantling of our union or just blowing 12,000 people away," said PATCO President Robert Poli.

In the long run, Poli said, he hoped "cooler heads" in the Reagan administration would help settle the month-long dispute. "The issue is to settle the strike, not to fire people," he said.

Koch was roundly booed as he started marching at 26th Street. There were chants of "Dump Koch," and "Barbaro for mayor," a reference to Assemblyman Frank Barbaro, the state legislator who is opposing Koch in Thursday's Democratic primary.

"This is like boos at the Yankee games.... Even though they're booing, they're smiling in a nice, friendly way," Koch said. "This is the nature of parades. I'm delighted to be here."

In Los Angeles, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. told a Labor Day breakfast meeting held by the Catholic Labor Institute of Southern California that "President Reagan did not win a mandate last November to smash unions."

Brown said, "We have entrenched in Washington a president and an administration which has already launched a major assault, not only on the union movement itself, but on the rights of 100 million workers in this country."

Meanwhile, President Reagan brought a stage-prop check for $85 million to New York as a symbolic first federal payment for a highway project and said he hoped this year's Labor Day would begin "a new age of the American worker."

The check is meant to represent the federal government's down payment on the $1.3 billion it will spend to help New York build the Westway running from midtown Manhattan to the Battery.

"The project will create park land and new areas for commerce and industry," Reagan said in a ceremony at Gracie Mansion, home of Koch. "It will save millions by easing the flow of people and goods, but most important, it will create jobs."

Reagan's trip here was in part to mollify organized labor, which is unhappy over the way his administration treated the striking air traffic controllers.

But Reagan, in brief remarks that mostly echoed the Labor Day speech he had recorded last week, did not refer to the controllers controversy.

"Some here have just come from another Labor Day celebration and some have not," the president said. "But next year we should all come back and march together, knowing that because of what was done here today tens of thousands of working people who were out of jobs will be working again."

News in Brief

Begin arrives for meetings

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin arrived in the United States armed with maps and documents to back up his case against the proposed AWACS sale to Saudi Arabia when he talks with President Ronald Reagan this week.

"This problem endangers very seriously the security of Israel," Begin said of the Reagan administration's plan to sell Airborne Warning and Control System surveillance planes and other sophisticated military equipment to Saudi Arabia.

But Begin said he looked for "a new era of relationship between our two nations," noting that "we have a newly elected administration in Washington and a newly-elected government in Israel."

The prime minister arrived at Kennedy International Airport Sunday to begin his 12th visit to the United States since he became prime minister in 1977.

Carrier accident kills one

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Two fighter jets collided on the flight deck of the USS Kitty Hawk during maneuvers in the Indian Ocean, killing a crewman on deck and knocking a $17 million F-14 overboard, the Navy said Monday.

The crash Sunday was the second fatal accident involving a U.S. aircraft carrier in less than four months.

Two other crewmen on deck were injured, but the two fliers in the lost F-14 ejected and were plucked safely out of the sea.

At the time of the collision, an A-7E Corsair was landing on the aircraft carrier and the F-14 was taxiing on deck.

The Corsair managed to pull up and was landed safely without injury to its crew, Cmdr. Mike Sheran said at Navy Air Force Pacific headquarters here. Both men aboard that plane are assigned to Attack Squadron 22 at Lemoore Naval Air Station in California.

Carter criticizes Reagan views

TOKYO (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter said Monday it was a mistake and a "simplistic view" to attribute all international conflicts to Soviet agitation.

"It is obvious that many of the conflicts around the world are caused by people struggling to achieve their basic human rights, to have freedom, to implement democracy and to enhance the independence of their country," Carter said during a news conference at the Japan National Press Club.

He said the Soviet Union had a totalitarian government that constrained human rights, "but it would be a mistake to oversimplify extremely complicated interrelations in the world and denigrate the legitimate desire of people for freedom and enhanced human rights."

Carter was obviously referring to the foreign policy of his successor, President Ronald Reagan, but said, "When a former president is overseas, it's perhaps impolite to emphasize differences" with a political foe.
