Caught watching practice

Spies said to be ECU coaches

From staff and wire reports

RALEIGH - The dean of the UNC Law School says a man he identified as an East Carolina University football coach was caught spying on the Tar Heels' practice Wednesday.

East Carolina head football coach Ed Emory later issued a press release denying the report and hinting that the Pirates have been spied upon as well.

East Carolina is scheduled to travel to Chapel Hill Saturday to meet the Tar Heels in the final game of the series between the two.

The situation first came to light when injured Tar Heel football player Ken Saylors noticed a man in the law library watching practice and taking notes. Saylors notified Tar Heel coach Dick Crum of the situation. Crum contacted Law School Dean Kenneth Broun

"I asked him who he was and noticed he had a pad with x's and o's on it," Broun said. "He refused to identify himself and covered the pad so I could not see it. I told him he could stay in the library as long as he

Crum sent a football secretary up to Broun and Saylors with a football program from East Carolina. Broun then identified the man as assistant defensive line coach Charles Elmquist and Saylors identified the other man as secondary coach Garry Fast.

Saylors said he was at the law library studying Tuesday when he noticed a man paying a lot of attention to football practice going on at the Navy practice field. The library has large windows and stands above the practice field.

"I followed up on the guy today (Wednesday) and he was there again as was another gentleman," Saylors

"Fast acted like he was studying when Mr. Broun came," he said. Broun asked the other man to leave and after about five minutes of talking the man identified as Elmquist left.

"One of them, the bald-headed guy, then walked to the intramural field and rolled up his sleeves like he was going to be there awhile," said Saylors, who was following.

Saylors went back to Crum who had Saylors and Broun positively identify the two men in the ECU program. "Mr. Broun was certain about Elmquist, as I am," he said. "I am very, very certain about Fast. I even saw his dealer's plate on his car."

Fast left the library as Saylors walked back in, Saylors said. He followed the man to a car. The man drove off but came back. He did this a couple of times, Saylors said, before leaving for good.

"There's positive identification," Crum said. "If it's just a couple students that come down and say something, that's one thing. But when the dean of the law school makes a positive identification, it's hard to question."

Emory later issued the following statement through Sports Information Director Ken Smith:

"Our entire staff has been in house all day. We've been having individual coaches' meetings and squad meetings. Practice was held this evening which is contrary to our normal Wednesday routine. We usually practice on Wednesday afternoon, but because of the excessive number of unknown people around our practice field yesterday, and five in particular that we had to ask to leave, we elected to practice under the lights tonight."

Jordan resigns post

NEW YORK — Vernon E. Jordan Jr., the nationally respected civil rights leader who survived a sniper attack last year, announced Wednesday he would resign as president of the National Urban League.

Jordan, whose departure is effective Dec. 31, said he would become a partner in the Washington, D.C., branch of the Dallas law firm of Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld. Robert Strauss, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee and former President Carter's 1980 campaign director, is a partner in the

The 46-year-old Jordan said neither his health nor the still unsolved May 29, 1980, attack in Fort Wayne, Ind., had anything to do with his decision to leave the non-profit, non-partisan civil rights organization after a decade as its leader.

"I contemplated a 10-year job from the beginning. Ten years of hard work suggests that it's time to pass the torch," he said. "I feel absolutely terrific."

An outspoken critic of Reagan administration policies, Jordan said that while he would be "off the front line, from time to time I will speak my piece.... One can resign from the leadership, but not from the troops. I'm still black. I still care. I'm still committed."

A seven-member search committee has been appointed to assist the Urban League's board of trustees in selecting a successor. Coy G. Eklund, chairman of the board, said the organization had "no one in mind at the moment," but expected the decision to be made before Jordan leaves.

"I leave the leadership of the Urban League with pride in what we have been able to accomplish; disappointment with the halt in progress toward equality; sadness at leaving my colleagues and friends. and exhilaration at the prospect of a new career," Jordan told a crowded news conference.

During his news conference, Jordan lashed out at President Ronald Reagan's "jellybean budget," asserting that cuts in social programs would most adversely affect the black and the poor.

Jordan contended the halt in progress in the civil rights movement "lies in the vast majority of the American people who are reneging on the commitments of the 1960s?

News in Brief

O'Connor expresses views

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sandra Day O'Connor, apparently coasting toward confirmation as the first woman on the Supreme Court, said Wednesday she personally believed abortion was abhorrent, but would not let those views shade her opinions as a member of the court.

"It is a practice I would not have engaged in," O'Connor told members of the Senate Judiciary Committee considering her nomination.

Describing her own opposition to abortion, the 51-year-old Arizona appeals court judge said her feelings about the subject were a product of a "sense of family values, my sense of how I lead my own life."

Nonetheless, she insisted that personal views and philosophies would not be allowed, "as much as that is possible," to affect her judgment on the facts or constitutionality of cases before the court.

After nearly six hours of testimony by O'Connor, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the committee chairman, predicted untroubled confirmation by the panel and the full Senate. He said a vote in the committee could come as early as Tuesday, with a Senate vote Wednesday.

New York hit by blackout

NEW YORK (AP) — An explosion and fire at a generating station knocked out power in much of lower Manhattan Wednesday, trapping office workers in elevators, snarling traffic, closing financial markets and creating transit chaos for homebound commuters.

Traffic lights went out, telephones converted to emergency power, and cars jammed intersections where traffic lights were out, creating a paralyzing street gridlock. Traffic control agents were dispatched, and private citizens stepped in to direct traffic to help solve the giant tie-up.

All police in lower Manhattan precincts were held on overtime and all task force members from other boroughs were dispatched to Manhattan. Twenty hook-and-ladders were dispatched to rescue those trapped.

Mayor Edward I. Hock said at a news conference the city was bearing up well under the problems, which affected only the southeastern quarter of Man-

Air traffic levels continued

WASHINGTON (AP) - Commercial flights will likely be held to about 75 percent of their normal pace through most of 1982 as the government rebuilds the air traffic control system with new employees, Federal Aviation Administrator J. Lynn Helms said Wednesday.

Helms and Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis assured congressmen that the current system was working safely and effectively without the 11,500 controllers fired after they struck on Aug. 3.

Helms said the FAA already had told air carriers to limit their flights to about 75 percent of the pre-strike level through next April, but he said "current traffic levels will likely be maintained throughout most of next year."

It will be well until the third year until traffic levels at peak hours will reach their former levels, and the busy New York and Chicago areas will be the last to achieve their full capacity, Helms said.
