Moose, Ducks, Stopshorts early IM champions; Napoleon basketball begins

"Moose," a team comprised mainly of Carolina Disc (frisbee) Club members defeated intra-club rival "Happy Hukas" 12-9 to capture the IM ultimate frisbee tournament Sunday on Carmichael Field.

According to Assoc. IM-Rec Director Marty Pomerantz who directed the tournament, Moose broke open a 5-5 halftime score with a Bobby Schopler-led splurge in the second half.

Ultimate frisbee, one of the three types of competitive frisbee, is a fast-paced game combining Carolina tag football, soccer and keep-away, Pomerantz said. Five teams played in the tournament Sunday after 12 teams officially entered, he said.

The Carolina Disc Club is UNC's sport club for frisbee players. Anyone can join the club in either recreational or competitive play. The competitive team plays in tournaments around the region. More information can be obtained by calling the UNC Sports Club Council at 962-1013.

A team calling itself "Quantum Ducks" came out of nowhere to win the annual grail mural softball tournament last week. The unseeded Ducks, made up of Physics Department graduate students and "Backstreets" employees, upset seeded Law School "King and Courts," spring top-eight softball finisher Teague B "Icemen," spring men's rec softball champion Mangum "Madmen," and perennial winner Morrison C Alumni "NFLO Alumni" to reach the finals against spring all-campus softball champion MBA "Anchorage 7 for 1."

Anchorage fell to the Ducks 13-12 in an eighth-inning final.

In the women's grail division, P.E. Undergraduates "Stop Shorts" defeated Parker "Diamond Aces" 7-5 to win that seven-team tournament.

Grail mural softball is an all-campus single-elimination tournament that has become a tradition in Carolina intramurals. Pomerantz said there is no significance to the term "grail mural" and that the tourney serves as either a pre-season event (regular season softball is in the spring semester) or a finale for summer softball players.

Asst. IM-Rec Director Janis Matson, who directed the tournament, said that this year's tournament attracted 77 men's division teams along with the seven women's teams. There is no co-rec division in grail softball.

Members of the champion Quantum Ducks, according to the entry sheet, are captain Philip Dean, Paul Magill, Jeff Beyle, John Beyle, Bruce McJuncken, John Childres, Glen Sheftner, Randy Dodd, Carmie Hull and Scott Verner.

Stopshort members, according to the entry sheet, are captain Dianna Bridges, Beth McFarland, Dixie Thompson, Teresa Parish, Dusty Boyd, Pam Burwell, Janice Hall, Nancy Radford, Meg Heffern, Ashley Gallagher, Kim Helms, Mandy Ward, Bev Leach and Jeanne Clark.

This week saw play begin in the "Napoleon" basketball tournament and in team tennis. Entries are due today for IM archery, which has returned after several year's absence, and tomorrow for team table tennis, mixed doubles bowling, "Wimbledon" volleyball tournament, faculty-staff golf and faculty-staff bowling. Play begins tomorrow in the IM open golf tournament that will last all weekend at Finley Course.

Several "special events" deserve attention this week. UNC's intramural-recreational sports program area is divided into men's and women's team activities such as grail softball and tag football, all-campus individual and dual activities such as golf and racquetball and special events such as "Wimbledon" volleyball and the "Hare and Hound" run.

Wimbledeon volleyball, a three-person team tournament is set up in a consolation format and played on the grassy Ehringhaus IM Field. Unofficial competition will be offered in competitive and recreational divisions, accordings to Pomerantz. Deadline for entering Wimbledon is tomorrow.

The Hare and Hound run is Pomerantz' latest plunge into creativity. He describes this activity as a non-competitive but tough cross country fun run covering five-to-six miles.

"Ice and munchies will be provided," Pomerantz said, "but contestants should bring their own beer and coke."

Pomerantz is serious and the run should indeed be fun. There is not deadline for the run, so contestants should show up at 6:30 p.m. on the front steps of Woollen Gym, Monday, Sept. 21.

Deadline for this year's Century Club is next Friday. The club is a year-long program of logging, on the honor of the participant, one's running, swimming and/or cycling distances. Members choose a point goal (100, 250, 500, 1,000 or 2,000 miles a year) that they will attempt to reach during the year from September through August. Special Century Club T-shirts are awarded to those members who have reached their goal by the end of second summer session.

Tag football team captains should remember to schedule their team for play next week BY TODAY. Fraternity IM managers should contact Janis Matson by tomorrow regarding the proposed changes in the frat point system.
