

Senate alterations 'disasterous,' says Hunt

The Associated Press

RALEIGH — Gov. Jim Hunt heaped blame on President Reagan and the Republican Party Thursday for what he called a disastrous Senate vote to alter the federal peanut program, warning that it signaled a grave threat to tobacco price supports.

But late Thursday, the Senate turned back an effort to dismantle government tobacco price supports. The senators voted 53-42 to retain the plan, but there were dozens of amendments still to be considered, including other efforts to scale back the tobacco program.

Before the vote in Washington, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, cautioned he did not know whether efforts to protect the tobacco price support program would be successful. "It's close," he said.

Helms defended the program on the Senate floor Thursday night, charging the tobacco industry "is maligned everyday, not by people who are insincere, but by people who are sincerely wrong or misinformed."

Both Helms and Sen. John East, R-N.C., voted to keep the tobacco price support program in place.

Hunt said he was "hoping and praying" the federal tobacco program would withstand Senate amendments.

Later Gary Pearce, a spokesman for Hunt, said the governor "obviously was pleased they haven't passed any amendments that damage the program but he understands there still are a number of amendments to be voted on."

At a news conference earlier, Hunt said the defeat for federal peanut allotments was an indication that the traditional alliance of interests that had protected tobacco, peanut and other farm commodity programs had fallen apart.

"Yesterday was one of the darkest days for North Carolina farmers in my memory," Hunt said.

Peanut-state senators were forced to accept what was described as a compromise after suffering a 56-42 defeat on an amendment to protect the program. But Hunt said it was ridiculous to call the outcome a compromise.

News in Brief

Busing debate teeters in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate liberals, their three-month filibuster broken, vowed to Thursday renew delaying tactics when debate resumed on a conservative proposal to limit court-ordered busing in school desegregation cases.

After failing in four attempts before the August recess, the Senate Wednesday mustered the 60 cloture votes needed to stop the talking and the approve, 60-39, and anti-busing proposal offered by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La.

Johnston's amendment to a Justice Department appropriations bill would prohibit courts from ordering a student bused more than five miles or 15 minutes from home. It would apply to existing busing orders.

Also approved was language offered by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to prevent the Justice Department from spending any money to seek court-ordered busing.

Further action on the bill, however, was postponed, probably until next month. The leader of the liberal forces, Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said he would try to delay the measure another three months when it returned to the floor.

Union opposes government

WARSAW (AP) — Solidarity defied Poland's ruling Politburo on Thursday by declaring the independent union would fight to break the communist regime's stranglehold on factories "in the face of progressive economic ruin."

The official Interpress news agency said the Polish Council of Ministers met all day "in view of the present situation," and that a communique was expected.

Solidarity has fueled a year-long labor upheaval in Poland, and a new strike was threatened Monday by Warsaw bus and streetcar operators demanding full pay for the 50 hours they blockaded the city's center in a protest over food shortages in early August.

Stamp prices won't increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Rate Commission turned down a request by the Postal Service to raise the cost of mailing a first-class letter from 18 cents to 20 cents.

The independent commission said it found no justification for the request. The current rate, the panel said, was fair and equitable and allowed the Postal Service enough revenue to deliver the mail.

The Postal Service has contended, however, that it was losing money at the rate of half a billion dollars a year despite being allowed to raise the first-class rate from 15 cents to 18 cents in March.

For the record

In "Tobacco Supports Threatened" (Thursday, Sept. 17, 1981), The DTH incorrectly quoted Jeff Arnold as saying that without price supports, small- and medium-sized farmers would not survive and corporations would buy out North Carolina tobacco farms. Skip Smith, press aide for Rep. Charles Whitley, D-N.C., actually made the statement. The DTH regrets the error.
