

Report says industry's claims exaggerated

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A House committee, in a report contrary to President Ronald Reagan's newly announced nuclear policy, says claims by the nuclear industry that it is unduly hampered by federal regulations are "grossly exaggerated."

The House Government Operations Committee, which approved the report on a bipartisan voice vote, also said the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's new emphasis on quick handling of license applications could have serious implications to nuclear safety.

"The NRC response to the alleged problem of licensing delay has been misguided," the committee concluded. "Its actions and proposals may be detrimental to safety over the long term, and they risk undermining public confidence in the commission and the licensing process."

Although the report was formally adopted by the committee last week, it is not scheduled for public release until later this week. But a final draft of the report was reviewed by The Associated Press.

The report was adopted one day before Reagan complained of a "morass of regulations" snarling new power plant construction, unnecessarily costing consumers money and turning utilities against nuclear power.

As part of his new nuclear policy, Reagan called for an accelerated nuclear licensing program.

But the committee said an investigation of individual project histories by its energy subcommittee, headed by Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., found a different story.

"The delay likely to be experienced by utilities in obtaining operating licenses for physically completed nuclear power plants has been substantially exaggerated," the full committee's report said. "Consequently, the purported cost to electric consumers of this delay also has been overstated by hundreds of millions of dollars."

The committee said any costs that might be attributed to licensing delays "will certainly not match, let alone exceed, the cost of a single major accident such as that at Three Mile Island."

At one point, the committee cited a June statement by Energy Secretary James Edwards that six to eight completed nuclear plants were ready to operate, lacking only NRC approval.

"That pervasive assumption has been and remains false," the committee said. The report said the only completed nuclear plant not licensed was California's controversial Diablo Canyon reactor, where serious questions have been raised about the reactor's susceptibility to earthquakes.

The report said that where delays had occurred, closer investigation had laid the blame to inaccurate construction schedules, poor construction and unresolved safety questions.

"These facts suggest that the nuclear industry has attempted to blame the NRC for problems that lie within the industry and the energy marketplace," the report said.

The committee said the future of the nuclear industry depends on public acceptance and confidence in its safety. But it said that NRC and industry conduct "in the matter of alleged licensing delays have not been in the best interests of either the public or the industry."

Derby Week raises $15,000

Through last week's annual Derby Week activities, the Sigma Chi fraternity and the Panhellenic sororities collected about $15,000, $12,000 of which will be donated to the American Diabetes Association and other charities, Chairman David Brill said Sunday.

The remaining money was used to cover costs of the week.

Throughout the week, sorority members held fund-raising events and competed to raise money for the Diabetes Association and a charity of their choice. The week concluded with annual games on Ehringhaus Field Friday afternoon.

Dispute center receives grant

Orange County's Dispute Settlement Center has received a $39,385 grant from the Z. Smith Reynolds and Mary Reynolds Babcock foundations, based in Winston-Salem.

The two-year grant, part of the foundations' efforts to develop new dispute settlement centers throughout North Carolina, is the first grant ever awarded to a community-based mediation center for a statewide project.

As a result, the Dispute Center has hired a second full-time staff member, Beverly West, who will assist other communities in starting dispute centers and help expand the center's services in Hillsborough.

The center provides free mediation for interpersonal disputes for people in the Chapel Hill-Carrboro-Hillsborough area.

The statewide program will include assistance to communities in areas like recruiting and training volunteers, fund raising and developing liaisons with the criminal justice system.

News in Brief

Former presidents return home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter and Gerald R. Ford said in an unprecedented joint interview en route home from the funeral of Anwar Sadat that many moderate Arab leaders have told them privately that they supported the Camp David peace process, but could not admit that to their own countrymen.

"When I would meet with Arab leaders ... the Saudis in particular, they were hoping that the peace process would succeed," Carter said. "But it's almost impossible for an Arab to step forward because of a threat of assassination or violence within their own fragile government."

Either because they are weak or their hold on power is fragile, the leaders of Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia "don't have the courage of Sadat" or the popular support he had in Egypt, Carter said.

Ford agreed that moderate Arab leaders supported the peace process. "Especially when you talk to the leaders privately, they will tell you how hopeful they are that the peace process continue," Ford said.

Thatcher visits bombing victims

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, who took flowers Sunday to the soldiers and civilians wounded by the Irish Republican Army's bomb attack on a busload of Irish Guards, condemned the bombing as a "cold, callous, brutal and subhuman thing."

"I shall never, never give them political status — never," Thatcher said of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which claimed responsibility for Saturday's bombing.

Scotland Yard said the attack, which came exactly one week after the collapse of the IRA's 7-month-long hunger strike in Northern Ireland's Maze Prison, could signal the start of a new terror campaign in the British capital.

Guerrillas using a command wire attached to a van set off the explosion as a bus carrying 23 Irish Guards back from duty at the Tower of London passed by, authorities said.

Union included on commission

WARSAW, POLAND (AP) — Bowing to a demand by Solidarity's congress, the Communist government offered Sunday to include representatives of the independent union on a commission to solve the country's food crisis.

But the government announced at the same time that more price hikes would be necessary by next month.

The conciliatory gesture came as Polish consumers threatened another round of strikes to protest food shortages, and amid reports of panic-buying of gasoline in Warsaw.
