

Used cars to require mileage listing on titles

The Associated Press

RALEIGH — Claiming that North Carolina has become a haven for odometer fraud schemes by used-car dealers, state motor vehicle officials said Tuesday they planned to change state regulations to require that auto titles list the car's mileage when sold.

Albert L. Peters, Jr., commissioner of the state division of motor vehicles, said the division would require odometer listings on the titles of used cars sold in North Carolina after January 1.

The change, ordered administratively without action by the General Assembly, is needed to end schemes in which out-of-state cars are traded through North Carolina dealers to "launder" car titles after their odometers have been rolled back, Peters said.

A.A. Justice, administrative assistant in the license and title section of the motor vehicles division, said his investigation showed that many North Carolina dealers had been involved in odometer rollback schemes.

The problem became acute this year, he said, when a new South Carolina law took effect requiring the odometer readings on titles of cars sold in that state.

With the requirement there, he said, dealers used paper transactions to route the cars through North Carolina, where a title could be obtained showing no mileage reading. That way, he said, the odometer on a car could be rolled back without the eventual purchaser ever realizing it.

"We think it will eliminate ... them using our state to launder the title," said Peters.

"It's been going on for years," said Justice. "It really got out of proportion Jan. 1 of this year, when South Carolina started requiring odometer readings to be placed on titles."

An investigation by the license and title section had resulted so far in convictions of 12 wholesale car dealers, Justice said. He said charges against three more were pending, and as many as 30 other dealers were under investigation.

As many as 5,000 cars were suspected of having been sold through North Carolina dealers with altered mileage readings, he said. Most were sold outside the state, although about 150 were sold to North Carolina buyers, he said.

Justice said altering the odometers was attractive, because studies showed a dealer can raise the resale price by 3 1/2 cents for every mile reduced from the car's odometer. If the odometer was rolled back 50,000 miles, a dealer could make $1,750, he said.

The dealers convicted so far include several concentrated in the Forest City and Mount Airy areas, Justice said.

All have been prosecuted under the state's misdemeanor odometer rollback statute, which carries a maximum penalty of 60 days in jail and $100 fine per vehicle, Justice commented. Others might be prosecuted on felony charges of false pretenses or forgery.

Human survival group to rally and present movies here

The Caravan for Human Survival, a group of students and citizens concerned with nuclear war and disarmament, is scheduled to arrive about noon today in the Pit, Al Perry, chairman of the National Affairs Committee of Student Government, said Tuesday.

The caravan, which left Florida on Oct. 3, will stop at UNC in an effort to collect signatures for its Human Manifesto. The manifesto states the need to abolish war and begin an effort toward international disarmament, according to a caravan press statement.

In conjunction with the rally, two movies, War Without Winners and Survival or Suicide, are scheduled to be shown at 7 p.m. in 111 Murphey Hall, Perry said. The movies deal with nuclear war and its effects.

"The purpose of the caravan is to raise the issues of nuclear weapons, proliferation and confrontation," Student Body President Scott Norberg said.

"It's designed to make students face up to what, for our generation, is a real problem — disarmament," he said.

Perry said he felt the caravan was designed to heighten awareness of the issue among students who were not generally concerned with disarmament.

"Whereas in the Pit you would have had students protesting the war 10 years ago, last week we had people out there judging a Romeo and Juliet contest," he said.

The caravan will hold a number of rallies on other college campuses before meeting with other groups in a rally to be held at the United Nations in New York City on Oct. 24.

The signatures will be turned over to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim at that rally.

News in Brief

Reagan meets with King Carlos

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ronald Reagan hailed Spain's King Juan Carlos Tuesday as "a champion of democracy" and said the United States stood solidly behind efforts to make his country the first new member of NATO since 1955.

In private, the monarch told Reagan that Spain would be of "whatever help it could" in promoting peace in the Middle East, and he volunteered that he has a good relationship with Jordan's King Hussein and the royal Saudi family, a senior American official said.

"Any help of that kind would be welcome," said the official, who declined to be identified. He added that the king's offer would be pursued by Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr.

The United States has been seeking support for the Camp David peace process from both of the moderate Arab states.

Chancellor undergoes surgery

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt underwent heart surgery Tuesday, as doctors implanted a pacemaker to prevent disruption of his heartbeat, a government spokesman said.

The federal press office said the operation was completed satisfactorily. The 62-year-old chancellor was flown from his native Hamburg to the Central Military Hospital in Koblenz early Monday for an examination. His complaint was originally described by government sources as a "feverish infection."

Schmidt had just returned to West Germany from Cairo after attending the funeral of assassinated President Anwar Sadat Saturday.

Professor wins economic Nobel

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Yale University Professor James Tobin, the chief architect of a theory analyzing how families and businesses juggle debts and assets against risk and return, has been awarded the 1981 Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science.

The Swedish Academy of Science awarded the prize Tuesday to the 63-year-old native of Champaign, Ill., for his analysis of financial markets and their relations to expenditure decisions, employment, production and prices.

"I really didn't expect this to happen," Tobin said from New Haven, Conn. He said he was surprised, excited and pleased.

Tobin, who became the tenth American in 13 years to receive the Nobel Memorial award, had been a front-runner for several years for the prize set up and funded in 1968 by the Central Bank of Sweden.

His analysis deals with changes in financial markets and how they affect households and firms and their decisions on how they spend, consume, invest and incur debts.

Rains flood Southwest states

Floodwaters deep enough to drown an elephant poured through cowtowns and oil cities in Texas and Oklahoma on Tuesday, knocking houses off their foundations and chasing hundreds of people to higher ground.

Relentless rains of up to 18 inches overflowed streams in water-logged northern Texas and Southern Oklahoma, washing into homes and flooding deep as 15 feet across highways.

People scrambled to their rooftops and into trees awaiting rescue boats and helicopters. Some towns were virtually cut off from the outside.

There were no immediate reports of fatalities, but two people were hospitalized when their cars were swept into creeks, Texas police said.
