

Drama costumes may be Halloween garb

By MARC ROUTH
DTH Staff Writer

As you walk down Franklin Street on Halloween night, you hear the wind howling fiercely and see the moon glowing oddly. Suddenly, a figure looms up behind you in the shadows, and you turn to see a great ... big ... carrot!

This scene may actually be acted out. The carrot costume will be just one of many items on sale at the UNC department of dramatic art's fourth annual costume sale from 1 to 4 p.m. today in the courtyard on the side of Graham Memorial facing the Morehead building.

The items chosen for sale have accumulated since last year's sale and include garments and costume pieces that range in price from 50 cents to $25, with emphasis on items less than $5. The costumes include everything from 1950s formals to 1920s flapper dresses to a purple and yellow polka-dotted nightshirt.

"And of course the sale would not be complete without the annual offering of six orange life jackets for sale," said Bobbi Owen, associate professor of theater and the resident costume designer. "Every year they are included in the sale items, and every year we put them back into the costume stock unpurchased."

Not all of the costume shop's stock will be for sale today. Items that will remain in storage include costumes that have been accumulated over 60 years. Owen said World War II outfits, tuxedos and men's lace-up shoes are the most extensive collections in the storage area, which runs the entire length of Graham Memorial. The shop also houses almost a dozen sewing machines, cutting tables, ironing stations, dress forms and the many cabinets required to stock all of the necessary supplies and tools.

There is also in Graham Memorial a laundry room, where some of the costumes are laundered and their fabrics are dyed, a fitting room and storage areas for all types of costumes and accessories.

The stock of the costume shop also includes an air-conditioned storage space in Paul Green Theatre where some of the more delicate and valuable costumes are stored. The theatre also has its own laundry room, where costumes are maintained during the run of a production.

The costume shop's design and construction process is ordered, with an emphasis on realism. The designer studies the play he is working on and then does renderings, detailed sketches of each costume. A cutter then makes patterns from the drawing.

A pattern is cut from muslin, an inexpensive fabric used to check the accuracy of previous measurements and fittings. When the fabric is finally cut, muslin is often used as a lining.

"The construction process emphasizes the external creation, but it is important to consider the internal as well," Owen said.

"A good designer considers the social customs of the period, the character in the play and the particular actor to wear the costume."

The shop designs and builds costumes for a variety of UNC productions. The shop also designs for local operas, Chapel Hill High School productions and occasionally RTVMP and medical television shows.

'Yack' deadline extended

The Yackty Yack has extended the deadline for portrait-sitting by one week to Nov. 5, Yackty Yack Editor Greg Dinkins said Friday.

"We have decided to extend the deadline because the yearbook gets a commission from Varden Studios for every picture that Varden takes," he said. "Not only can students get their picture in the Yack for free, but they will also be helping The Yackty Yack financially because we depend on the commission for a portion of our budget."

The sittings are free and open to all students. Students can sign up in the Carolina Union or in the Pit every day from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Students can also arrange an appointment by calling The Yackty Yack office at 962-3912.

"It is important that as many students as possible participate because we receive approximately 10 percent of our budget through these commissions," Dinkins said.

IR counseling

Appointments for counseling for preregistration will be available to industrial relations majors this week in the College of Arts and Sciences in 3 Steele Building.

Seniors and juniors in the Industrial Relations Association will counsel students as a peer advising program.

Appointments can be made from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

Park opening

Rain forced postponement of Sunday's scheduled ribbon-cutting ceremony for the new Carboro Community Park on the N.C. 54 West Bypass, but the park will be open daily beginning today.

It will be open from 8 a.m. until dark, except for some sections that will be open later.

No makeup date for the dedication has been scheduled.

The Tar Heels got back into the game at the end of the first half when Scott Stankavage engineered a 93-yard drive, highlighted by four passes to split end Jon Richardson. Stankavage threaded a 19-yard bullet to Larry Griffin for the score.

South Carolina led 21-7 after a Beckham-

Chivers connection with 8:10 left in the third quarter.

Carolina's brightest moment came when Jeff Hayes faked a punt and galloped 70 yards for a touchdown. Exhausted after his daring run, Hayes missed the extra point.

But UNC still seemed in the mood for a comeback after stopping the Gamecocks dead in their tracks and forcing a punt. Then UNC suffered yet another bad break. Sammy Johnson fumbled the punt and USC recovered the ball, setting up Mark Fleetwood's 33-yard field goal a few plays later.

"I thought we had a chance to win until the fumbled punt," Crum said. "I don't think they gave Sammy Johnson enough room (five yards is the rule) to catch the ball." USC, now 5-3, took advantage of Stankavage's second interception, picked off by Seawright, Kendrick Stafford ended the scoring with a 5-yard run.

In spite of the loss, some Tar Heels remained optimistic. "This is just a little detour," Daniels said. "We're not worried. We still have five games to go."

News in Brief

Fight over AWACS continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ronald Reagan's proposal to sell AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia goes to a final vote in the Senate this week with an Associated Press count showing a majority of senators opposed to the sale.

The climactic vote Wednesday follows weeks of lobbying and arm-twisting by the administration as it sought to win congressional support. On Sunday, Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, leader of the administration fight, repeated his view that "the battle is still winnable."

The latest Associated Press count in the Senate shows 54 senators opposed to the sale and 37 in favor. A simple majority is needed to block the sale.

Baker, however, said Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation" that opponents of the sale had less than 50 votes.

Troops dispatched in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Accusing Solidarity of blackmail, the Communist government demanded an end Sunday to wildcat strikes by more than 250,000 workers as troops headed for some 800 Polish villages.

The government's plans to send special military units to help solve food trouble and local disputes did not appear to be a step toward martial law, Western diplomatic observers said.

Solidarity chapters met across Poland to assess the government move while planning for anticipated winter difficulties and preparing for a national warning strike Wednesday.

Reaction to the government's announcement Friday ranged from indifference to acceptance among leaders of the independent labor union. Many union officials said they would welcome the military presence if the troops helped improve the sometimes drastic food situation or provide more fuel and coal.

These comments are in reply to the recent WCHL Commentary by Bob Saunders in which he endorsed the Carboro Community Coalition.

We are sorry about Mr. Saunders' comments, but we encourage him to objectively investigate facts, and we feel that if he does he will vote for honest and responsible candidates in the town election on Nov. 3. These candidates are Hilliard Caldwell, Joyce Garrett and Roger Messer.

Mr. Saunders comments were typical of what one might expect from a closed government. A closed government exists in Carboro with members of the Coalition controlling 6 of the 7 elected seats including the mayor's. The Coalition has maintained its political power by selectively spending the town's 2.75 million dollar budget. Mr. Saunders trumpeted the cause of the Carboro Community Coalition in past referendums.

The Coalition board members soon thereafter appointed him to the Carboro town planning board. We question whether Mr. Saunders' recent endorsement of Coalition candidates will pay off with another appointment.

We would suggest that he perhaps be named manager of the new community park scheduled for dedication 9 days before the town's elections on Nov. 3. His first responsibility should be to investigate the missing facilities that the Coalition promised in the bond referendum such as the olympic-size swimming pool, the bathhouse, the Community Center, 6 tennis courts and 4 basketball courts. Also he might issue an explanation of why there are only 3 toilets and 1 urinal to service all the present 8,264 residents of Carboro, and why these meager facilities are totally without privacy. The 1.11 million dollar park is the brainchild of Doug Sharer. Mr. Sharer and the Coalition also misrepresented the location of the park. Rather than being within walking distance of the town the park is located 2 miles west of town hall, outside the city limits in the county, and is not convenient for students or anyone else.

Mr. Saunders should do more than carry signs for Alderman Sharer and come standing in to order about the effects of poor fiscal management and planning on the townspeople.

CARRBORO BOARD DENIES "POLITICAL APPOINTMENT..." The above was a recent headline in The Chapel Hill Newspaper chastising the incumbents Bob Drakeford, Nancy White, Brandon Foushee, Doug Shearer, and Steve Rose for denying "open government." This must stop. Help us unite the town. Vote ABC, Roger Messer for Mayor; Hilliard Caldwell, Joyce Garrett, and Jim White for Aldermen.

HEY 4/5! If you want hard-working, interested, dedicated, and intelligent leadership, VOTE DAVID GRIFFIN for 4/5 Class President.
