

Wearing of the blue tops homecoming events

By LYNN PEITHMAN

Carolina blue is just what Steve Theriot, Carolina Athletic Association president, wants the nation to see at Saturday's Homecoming football game against the Clemson Tigers. The game will be televised on ABC, beginning at 1:20 p.m.

Blue balloons — 6000 of them, Tar Heel decals and Carolina blue Homecoming T-shirts are being sold by different organizations this week — all to be displayed at the Homecoming game. The CAA also wants people to wear Carolina blue to the game.

The CAA and student government are selling special Tar Heel foot decals 12 to 3:30 p.m. today and Friday in the Pit, said Harold Cooley, special events coordinator for the CAA. The decals, which will be 50 cents each, "will look different from others being sold," Cooley said. They will have some sort of special mark on them.

The decals will do more than demonstrate school spirit. Draft beer at various bars will be offered for 25 cents Friday to those wearing the decals on their faces or hands, Cooley said. Troll's is offering the special draft from 2 to 3 p.m.; Harrison's from 3 to 6 p.m.; Back Streets and Crazy Zack's from 7 to 9 p.m.; Purdy's from 8 to 10 p.m.; and Mayo's at a time to be announced.

"A couple of beers, and it (the decal) is paid for," Cooley said.

Also, if you wear a Homecoming T-shirt that the Sweet Carolines have been selling this week, you can get the special deal on draft beer. Vicki Hart, a Sweet Caroline, said the T-shirts are long sleeved and Carolina blue, with navy lettering. "Homecoming '81" is on one sleeve, UNC is on the pocket, and a beat Clemson logo is on the back.

The Sweet Carolines are also selling 5000 blue balloons to blocks and individuals. The balloons, which are 5 cents each, are co-sponsored by Hardee's (they have been 25 cents each at previous home games).

The balloons for blocks can be ordered from any Sweet Caroline until Friday. They can be picked up Saturday morning before the game at Fetzer gym or the infirmary.

Balloons will also be sold individually on the field before the game.

As the team runs onto the field, the balloons are to be let go all at once.

The Sweet Carolines are also giving away 5000 blue and white free pom poms before the game.

Another group, Granville Residence College, is selling 1000 balloons. These balloons, which will be 25 cents each, will be sold in the Granville cafeteria and in each tower's lobby Saturday morning. Rick Martin, who is on a GRC service committee sponsoring this, said they are selling the balloons to raise money for the United Fund and to raise school spirit.

To order balloons for blocks from GRC, call Granville West and ask for the GRC office.
