Freshmen debut in Blue and White game

By LINDA ROBERTSON Assistant Sports Editor

After the loss to Clemson in Kenan Stadium, loyal UNC fans, deflated blue balloons and limp pompoms in hand, trudged over to Carmichael Auditorium to watch a game they knew UNC would win.

The Orange Horde, those insatiable Tiger fanatics, were leaving Chapel Hill; so UNC followers had Carmichael all to themselves for a sneak preview of the 1981-1982 basketball team.

Play in the first Blue-White intrasquad game of the season was enough to make even the most disheartened forget about the football game.

Things went pretty much as predicted. UNC won. For the record, it was the Blue team over the White 89-78.

"It was a fun game for me and a good chance for the freshmen to get their feet wet with the crowd," head coach Dean Smith said. "In general it was so typical of our Blue and White games in that the offense is ahead of the defense right now."

Sophomore center Sam Perkins led the Blue team with 29 points and 11 rebounds. Freshman Buzz Peterson added 14 points, and senior Jeb Barlow scored 12.

"I see the Blue and White game as just another practice," Perkins said. "The freshmen class played with poise today, and that was the object of the game. They know the plays and executed well."

The Blue's Jim Braddock and 6-11 freshman Warren Martin each added 10 points. Braddock, agreeing with Smith, said the offense has progressed faster than the defense due to the nature of the Tar Heels' 18 practice sessions.

"Offensively, we've only got four plays so far and when everybody knows them qualified for the nationals, which are set for Nov. 23 in Wichita, Kan.

"We weren't as fast on the same course as we were six weeks ago," Coach Don Lockerbie said. "Maybe we did too well too early."

Individually, Joan Nesbit was the first finisher for the Tar Heels over the 5,000-meter course, placing 20th overall in 18:25. Marla Daniel followed in 23rd place, with Nancy Radford 26th, Janice High 44th, Meg Herrern 46th, Lisa Miller 47th and Marilou Heaver 48th.

so well, it's a little difficult to execute on defense," Braddock said. "We're not even halfway through all the defenses we'll be using this year. The next two weeks of practice will be a real learning period."

Junior James Worthy, named to several preseason All-America teams, led the White squad with 26 points and seven rebounds.

"I'm very excited about the upcoming season," Worthy said. "I'm looking to score more this year, but I'm not forcing anything."

Senior Chris Brust had 17 points and 10 rebounds for the White team, while Dean Shaffer scored 14 and Jimmy Black added nine.

"This was a good opportunity to see what we need to work on," Black said. "We took a lot of forced shots today. We all need to execute better defensively and work on out of bounds situations."

Brust had praise for freshmen Lynwood Robinson, Mike Jordan, John Brownlee, Martin and Peterson.

"The freshmen are ready to come in and play right now, which is something you come to expect these days," Brust said.

Jordan, who graduated from E.A. Laney High School in Wilmington, scored eight points. Smith said Jordan saw limited action because he turned his ankle after stepping on a basketball.

"The freshmen seemed a little more in awe of the crowd, but I don't think they appeared too nervous," Smith said. "The freshmen big men are really struggling now. It's been hard on them chasing Perkins and Worthy around in practice. The next game will show more of what we'll be doing during the season."

The second Blue-White scrimmage is Nov. 21. The Tar Heels open their regular season against Kansas Nov. 28 in Greensboro.

Duke stops Wake 31-10

The Associated Press

WINSTON-SALEM — Sophomore tailback Mike Grayson rushed for 188 yards on 17 carries and fired a third-quarter touchdown pass to lead Duke to a 31-10 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over Wake Forest Saturday.

Most of Grayson's yardage came on two plays. On the final play of the third quarter, Grayson scampered 52 yards to give Duke a scoring opportunity at the Wake Forest 20-yard line.

The Blue Devils squandered that opportunity, but Grayson's 55-yard run in the fourth quarter set up a 1-yard dive by Joel Blunk with 9:25 left, giving Duke its final margin.

Grayson's touchdown pass came on a fake reverse, ending in a 13-yard completion to Ron Frederick, giving Duke a 17-3 lead.

Duke quarterback Ben Bennett completed eight of 20 passes for 68 yards and a first-quarter 3-yard touchdown pass to Cedric Jones. For Jones, it was his 20th career touchdown reception.

Bennett's replacement, Ron Sally, threw a late scoring pass of 15 yards to tight end Mike Fuqua.

Penn State 22 N.C. State 15

RALEIGH — Penn State coach Joe Paterno had been waiting for a long time to use its fake punt play. The wait ended Saturday, as the sixth-ranked Nittany Lions got a touchdown off the play and went on to whip North Carolina State, 22-15.

Ken Kelley took the snap and threw a short pass to Harry Hamilton, who ran the rest of the way with 6:30 left in the third period.

The play came after N.C. State, 4-5, had taken a 9-7 lead on three field goals by Todd Auten and stopped the Lions on their own 49.

Penn State used two blocked punts and a safety to clinch the victory. But the Lions did not win easily, with the Wolf-pack defense holding the offense to under 100 yards rushing.

"North Carolina State was awfully tough," Paterno said. "They're in the same class with Miami (which beat the Lions 17-14 last week). North Carolina State is just all over the place. They surprised us with defenses we have not seen. We had no preparation for it. We got confused, disorganized."

Tulane 14 Maryland 7

NEW ORLEANS — Turning in the first full-game performance by a Tulane quarterback this season, Mike McKay threw for 238 yards and two touchdowns to lead his team to a 14-7 victory over Maryland in a college football game Saturday night.

All the scoring came in the third quarter, and began when McKay hit tailback Marvis Lewis on a 10-yard scoring pass.

After Maryland quarterback Boomer Esiason hit split end Russell Davis on a 59-yard scoring bomb, McKay came back with a 6-yard touchdown pass to fullback Reggie Reginelli with 15 seconds left in the third period.

Esiason could not find the passing range until the second half. He hit only four of 11 attempts through the first two quarters, and was intercepted once.

Field hockey loses in weekend action

From Staff Reports

The North Carolina field hockey team fell one goal short of a regional championship and a national tournament bid in the regional tournament held over the weekend in Blacksburg, Va.

The Tar Heels were defeated 1-0 by Virginia in the regional final Saturday after defeating Eastern Kentucky 2-0 in the tournament's opening round.

"Our defense played very well," first-year Coach Karen Shelton explained, "but they could have played better. It is just disappointing to have victory within our grasp like that and let it slip away. I'm disappointed and I know the girls are."

The weekend split left the Carolina record at 8-9-1, with the at-large national bid still an outside possibility. Shelton said invitations should come out by Tuesday or Wednesday for the trip to Berkeley and the national tournament.

The women's soccer team whipped Virginia 5-1 Saturday to win the AIAW Region II tournament and set the stage for the national championship. With the regional title, UNC automatically advances to the nationals, held in Chapel Hill Nov. 19-22.

Since UNC was already assured a national bid, the regional championship game against Virginia was a bit anticlimactic.

"It was a very uninspired victory," assistant coach Bill Palladino said.

Janet Rayfield scored two goals for the Tar Heels, and Amy Machin, Pam Royal and Diane Beatty each kicked in one.

The men's soccer team kept alive its hopes for a second place finish in the ACC by defeating Wake Forest 3-0 in a key conference match, at Winston-Salem.

Goalkeeper Geoff Drayton had four saves in his sixth shutout of the season.

Senior Ricky Marvin and juniors Tony Johnson and Tim Ensley scored for the Tar Heels.

The victory raised Carolina's season record to 15-5 and its ACC record to 3-2. Clemson locked up the conference title by beating Maryland. That sets up the UNC-Duke game in Chapel Hill Nov. 15 as the battle for second place.

The women's cross country team completed its season Saturday, placing seventh in the District III regional championship at Charlottesville, Va.

Three Atlantic Coast Conference teams, Virginia, N.C. State and Clemson, qualified for the nationals, which are set for Nov. 23 in Wichita, Kan.

"We weren't as fast on the same course as we were six weeks ago," Coach Don Lockerbie said. "Maybe we did too well too early."

Individually, Joan Nesbit was the first finisher for the Tar Heels over the 5,000-meter course, placing 20th overall in 18:25. Marla Daniel followed in 23rd place, with Nancy Radford 26th, Janice High 44th, Meg Herrern 46th, Lisa Miller 47th and Marilou Heaver 48th.
