Wrestling entries pass century mark

Opponents of the IM-Rec point system had to be disappointed with the 1981 Wrestling meet, held Nov. 3-5 in Woollen.

This year's meet was made into a participation point activity with each men's competitive unit receiving participation points with a minimum number of participants, and the number of participants increased from about 40 last year to almost 120.

Leading the ten weight class champions is 118-pound winner Mike Lewis of Teague B. Lewis was the only one entered in that class, so he automatically won an IM-Rec champion T-shirt. But he opted to wrestle in the 126-pound class and finished second to Morrison C's Jay Streater.

Other wrestling winners were Kingswood's Rodney Bean over Law's David Drooz in the 134 class, Graham's Mike Friday over Will Redfern of ATO in 142, Dental's Robert Widis over NROTC's Darryl Martin in 150, Don Hankins of Chaleit J. Green Street over Public Health's Bob Pell in 158.

Bill Brame of Lewis defeated James' Rob Briley in the 167 class, Granville DW's Doug Michael beat Sig Ep's Doug Ruley in 197, MBA's Jack Koford defeated another Sig Ep, Eddie Matthews, in the 190 and PiKap's Neal Fowler, weighing in at 210, defeated DU's Henry Revelle, who weighed in at 207, in the unlimited class.

While wrestling stole the show last week, several other IM activities neared finish and several more got off the ground this week.

Sig Ep's Eric Plott defeated Jerry Riley of Wildcat Lane 15-13, 15-8 to take the all-campus men's competitive singles racquetball championship Monday.

Plott's victory ended a rather long-winded racquetball playoff schedule in four divisions that also had Phil Bassford of the Medical School defeating Craig's Tae Rho for the men's rec title.

In tennis, which is running neck and neck with inflation in duration, it will be PiKap "Blue" against Chi Psi "Purple" for the fraternity title. Everett "Rogah" sits in one-half of the final residence hall bracket waiting for a handful of teams to decide the other one.

It was all Old East in the men's rec tennis final as "Anaconda Foil #1" defeated "Anaconda Foil #2."

Play in the grail mural basketball classic began this week as did competition in co-rec innertube water polo. There are 18 recreational division water polo teams, eight teams in the competitive division, and 131 grail mural basketball teams broken down into 11 in women's, 32 in men's rec and 89 in men's competitive division.

Eric Locklear and Toni Rowe teamed up to capture the co-rec bowling championship. Dan Bryson and Susan Terry finished second with Jonathan Hanes and Dawn Welch third.

Soccer has been held up, or rather washed up, as the recent rains have delayed the playoff schedule in that activity. Playoffs are now slated to begin Thurs., Nov. 19, according to soccer coordinator Beverly Jarrell. Games rained out Oct. 26, Oct. 27 and Nov. 5 will be made up next week. That schedule based on the original time and field slots is:

Mon., Oct. 26 games to be played Mon., Nov. 16
Tues., Oct. 27 games to be played Tues., Nov. 17
Thurs., Nov. 5 games to be played Wed., Nov. 18

Two UNC IM'ers qualify for Boston

Two UNC students qualified for the 1982 Boston Marathon at the recent Washington D.C. Marine Corps Marathon, held Sun., Nov. 1.

David Smith, a graduate student in sociology from Carrboro finished 18th and David Moore, a senior chemistry major from Eden finished 196th, both within the top two per cent of the 9,853 participants.

Smith and Moore join UNC graduate and now Chapel Hill High tennis coach Lindsay Linker, who qualified and ran in THE marathon last April, in this elite running club.

Moore, won the mile-run for Delta Upsilon in this year's IM track meet with a time of 4:29.5 and finished second in the two-mile. Smith won the graduate/ind division two-mile run with an all-campus winning time of 9:10.

For Moore, who hasn't trained for the marathon like most qualifiers do, entering the D.C. marathon was a personal challenge and a rewarding experience. Qualifying for Boston was not a goal.

"My goal was to finish the race period," Moore said. "My second goal was to finish somewhere around three hours and fifty minutes. What happened really surprised me."

What happened was a finishing time of two hours, 45 minutes and 14 seconds on the 26.2-mile, 38.5 yard course around the nation's capital.

Moore talked of the help a runner receives in a marathon from the people lined up along the streets and from the other runners.

"I was lucky enough to run miles nine to 20 with the president of the D.C. Road Runner Club, and he really coached me along the way," Moore said.

Two days after the race, Moore was back on UNC's Carmichael Field playing IM soccer and tending to academic and other demands. He hasn't had much time to plan but he has a general idea of his training schedule before he runs in Boston in April.

"I will just try to maintain my present condition, work up to 60 miles a week by February, gradually increase it to 80 a week by March and then taper off some before the marathon," he said.

Moore and Smith also have to tend to some fund-raising to get to Boston. Last year Linker's Tri-Delt sorority raised the bulk of her funds. Anyone or business interested in helping the two UNC marathoners should contact the IM Rec office.
