

In preliminary hearing Zeta Tau Alpha requests zoning map change

By MICHELLE CHRISTENBURY
DTH Staff Writer

There may be a new sorority house in the neighborhood soon, if the Zeta Tau Alphas have their way.

The Chapel Hill Town Council heard the sorority's request for a zoning map amendment to allow a new Zeta house, and a request to allow Wendy's restaurant to construct a drive-in window at a public hearing Monday night.

The public hearing was called to give council members a legal basis to vote on these proposals at the Feb. 8 Town Council meeting.

Robert Page, the attorney representing the sorority, requested the change to allow construction of a new sorority house, on a vacant lot at 116 North St., that would house 31 women.

The sorority has a contract to buy the property from Chapel Hill realtor John Cates when zoning requirements are met and a special-use permit is awarded.

The Zetas now rent a house at 210 Pittsboro St., which houses 28 women.

The sorority wants the property's zoning changed from R-3 to R-6, one of two residential districts where Greek houses are allowed. The R-3 designation allows medium-density development.

"We began our search for housing in 1978, but because of zoning and other restrictions we have been unable to find a place," said Zeta Tau Alpha alumna Polly Dodd.

"We have made every effort to follow the town's requirements and have taken the proper legal steps to considerable expense to the sorority."

Chapel Hill resident Nancy Preston spoke out in favor of the proposed amendment, giving several reasons why the area should be rezoned.

Preston said there was no resident opposition to the construction of a sorority house on the lot and that several residents said putting a house there would make the neighborhood look better.

The lot will also be large enough to accommodate the house and adequate parking, while the house will bring "renewed vigor to the area," she added.

Both the town manager and the town planning board recommended the zoning change.

"The area would be suitable for high-density residential use," Chapel Hill Planning Director Mike Jennings said Tuesday. "On the basis of the zoning ordinance, the land-use plan encourages high-density use near the commercial areas in town."

Also considered was a request for a special-use permit to change a walk-up window at Wendy's restaurant off U.S. 15-501 to a drive-in window. Attorney Doug Hargrave represented the owners in their application.

The council denied requests for a drive-in window special use permit in May 1979 and October 1981.

Hargrave said earlier that the window would be designed to promote the health, safety and general welfare of the public.

But Roscoe Reeve, chairman of the Chapel Hill Planning Board, said Wendy's had a bad design for drive-in windows because automobile and pedestrian traffic aren't separated.

He cited the Central Carolina Bank near Wendy's as an example of a "good design" for drive-in windows. Reeve said automobile traffic was limited to one side of the bank and pedestrian traffic was limited to the other.

Councilwoman Bev Kawalec said Tuesday that Reeve's comments might cause some council members to vote against the permit at the Feb. 8 council meeting.

Media board sets selection methods

By CHERYL ANDERSON
DTH Staff Writer

The UNC Media Board decided how to select editor and business manager teams for several campus publications and announced the Yackety Yack's acceptance of an award for its 1980 edition in a meeting Monday.

The Yack was named by Printing Industries of America as one of the nation's top 10 yearbooks. The yearbooks were judged on design, photographic and reproductive quality and editorial content.

Mary Beth Searle, 1980 editor, said the staff was proud to receive the award. "Everybody contributed 100 percent," she said. "A good deal of the credit is due to Hunter Publishing Company, to Rod Hunter and all of the craftsmen down the line who took special care in the production of the book."

Searle said the award "brings recognition to the University as a whole and to the Yackety Yack, which is not recognized that often within the Chapel Hill community." The Yack has twice been named best yearbook in the nation.

The board also decided to accept applications for next year's editor/business manager team for The Phoenix until 2 p.m. Saturday. Candidate interviews are scheduled for 1 p.m. Sunday. Applications are due in Box 13 at the Carolina Union staff desk.

The board will also accept applications until Jan. 29 for business manager of the Cellar Door this semester. Candidate interviews are scheduled for Feb. 1.

Applications for editor/business manager teams for the Yack, The Carolina Quarterly and the Alchemist will be available Wednesday and are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 4. Interviewing is scheduled for Feb. 8-9.

News in Brief

Higher prices add to Polish woes

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Communist Poland's martial law government announced that food prices would increase — possibly quadruple — Feb. 1 and warned of a drastic shortage of meat.

The government acknowledged that the price increases would not be welcomed by Polish society.

Government daily Rzeczpospolita said purchases of animals for slaughter for January-March would be about 400,000 tons, 180,000 tons less than for the same period in 1981.

The article, based on projections, blamed the predicted shortfall on poor delivery by farmers, who it said also were withholding grain from market in hopes of higher prices.

Contraception may be restricted

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move certain to stir controversy among advocates of family planning, the Reagan administration may require that parents be notified any time a child under age 18 gets birth control material from a clinic that receives federal funds.

The proposed regulation is receiving serious study despite an opinion from the general counsel of the Department of Health and Human Services that it goes further than Congress intended.

It is expected to stir new debate over the government's role in providing family planning services and whether the well-established rule of physician-patient privacy will apply to minors.

Paper needs copy editors

The Daily Tar Heel regrets that there presently are no writing staff positions open for applicants to the newspaper. But a few spots for copy editors remain, and interested persons may drop by the DTH office.

The DTH anticipates more positions opening up in mid-February after student elections and the installation of a new editor and editorial staff.

A writing test for prospective applicants to the DTH news staff will be conducted following the election, and interested persons are encouraged to apply and to take the writing test in February.

S. African to talk about U.S. policy

Motlalepula Chabaku, international scholar and adviser in residence at Bennett College in Greensboro, will speak at 7:30 p.m. tonight on American foreign policy and South Africa.

Chabaku is a native of Johannesburg, South Africa, and will speak on "American Foreign Policy Seen through the Eyes of a South African Black Minister."

His talk, sponsored by the Chapel Hill-Durham branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, will be at the Friends Meeting House, 531 Raleigh Road. The public is invited to attend.
