

Additions needed

Trust aids library

By DEAN FOUST
DTH Staff Writer

A long-time local resident gave a large endowment to the Chapel Hill Public Library last week at a time when the town has been considering making additions to a presently overcrowded facility.

The endowment was given by Cornelia Spencer Love, a lifetime benefactor of local libraries, who died in December at 89.

The gift was in the form of a trust, consisting of stocks and bonds, the principal of which is valued at $400,000. The library will receive interest from the trust for use each quarter, and may retract portions of the principal at the discretion of the library's board of trustees.

Presently the library has the largest per capita circulation of any state public library, with an average of 10.3 books per resident, but has outgrown its facility on East Franklin Street.

A work session concerning the matter was scheduled Monday night between the library board of trustees, and recently-appointed Town Manager David Taylor. Mary Boone, director of the library, was also scheduled to attend to answer questions concerning the present situation. The session was held to discuss several proposed solutions to the present overcrowding.

The trustees have recommended the construction of a new 16,000-square-foot facility, converting the present facility to a branch.

Barbara Schutz, chairman of the library's board of trustees, said Monday that the board had not met since the trust endowment was announced by Love's attorney, and had not discussed possible uses of the gift.

Ron Secrist, interim manager for the past seven months, recently submitted several proposals describing the details of the town's option. Adding a new wing to the present facility, renting additional space including the old police building from the town, and establishing small branches in public schools were all among the options he listed.

Fencers split in trip north

The UNC men's and women's fencing teams were split in their results in weekend action at Ohio State in a four-way meet involving the Tar Heels, the Buckeyes, Tri State University and Illinois.

The men defeated Ohio State 21-6, but lost to Illinois 17-10. The men swept the sabre division against the Buckeyes 9-0. Jim Birch and John Friedberg were triple winners in that category and Lonnie McCullough won two bouts.

Against Illinois, though, the men lost a tough match. The difference in that match was in the foil competition, where the Heels fell 9-0.

The overall top performers for the men were Friedberg at 8-1; Birch, 7-1; McCullough, 5-3; Bob Larginan and Amiel Rossabi, at 3-2 each, and Kyle Shatterly at 2-0.

In the women's action, Tar Heels lost 10-6 to Ohio State, but won 12-4 against Tri State University. Jenny Lane and Karen Marnell each compiled 2-2 records for the Heels.

Coach Ron Miller said he felt the team gave good performances but was hampered by fatigue and illness from the long trip.
