

UNC falls prey to Seahawks

By S.L. PRICE
Assistant Sports Editor

The Carolina baseball team, back from a tough loss to Wake Forest, succumbed easily to UNC-Wilmington, with a score of 10-4 Thursday in a sloppily played contest at Boshamer.

When you're tired, nothing is going to go right. The Heels have now played 17 games in 17 days, and the level of intensity has lessened since the team pulled off their 5-4 upset of Clemson in the middle of March.

"It's very obvious that we were flat today," said UNC coach Mike Roberts. "We've played every day and in some ways it's hurt, but in some ways it's helped."

Roberts also said he felt that the team had had bad breaks because of the weather.

"Our playing time is short — two months — and we usually get three to 10 rainouts every year. We've only had one this year. That's unusual," he said.

For the first time since Spring Break, Roberts' core of young pitchers had problems on the mound. Roberts went through four different arms before the day was over.

Freshman Greg Karpuk gave up three runs in the top of the first before seven batters walked to the plate. Roberts took him out before most of the spectators had reached their seats.

Freshman Chris Mench, after retiring the side, allowed three more runs in the second inning. But the Heels scored in the bottom of the inning when center-fielder Greg Schuler led off with a single up the middle and was driven in on an error by UNC-W shortstop Paul Murr.

Shortstop Chris Pittaro made it 6-2 with a solo homer in the third — a blast over the center field fence.

But the Seahawks responded in the fourth with a pair of singles and a sacrifice, and got a little help from Tar Heel right-fielder Todd Wilkinson on a fielding error to add two more runs.

UNC-W grabbed a pair of runs in the eighth after the Heels' third reliever Bruce Ashley retired six straight batters then tired and gave up two doubles, a single and a walk. Enter fourth reliever Ronnie Huffman to retire the side.

Again, Carolina battled back at the bottom of the inning when, with two outs, third-baseman Jeff Hubbard doubled, catcher Tom Daily singled and left-fielder Barney Spooner roped them both in with the second two-bagger of the inning.

There were a few more bright spots. Spooner went two-for-four, Wilkinson two-for-three and Pittaro three-for-five, including his solo blast. Schuler hustled to catch a quickly dropping shoestring shot to short-center.

"You start off fresh and then try to get over that mid-season hump. It looks like we're still getting over the hump," Pittaro said. "I don't know, maybe we are getting tired."

Lacrosse team defends No. 1 ranking Saturday

The top-ranked North Carolina lacrosse team plays No. 4 Maryland in its second home match of the season on Fetzer Field Saturday at 2 p.m.

Last year UNC edged Maryland 13-12 in a sudden death victory on Terrapin turf. That was only the second time the Tar Heels have beaten the Terps in the schools history.

"They're (Maryland) a relatively young team," UNC assistant coach Bert Fett said. "They haven't meshed together as a unit as some veteran teams have, but they are very talented."

"They have a very good transition game. They are like UNC in that they like a fast tempo game and rely on stick work and ball handling. Their goalie is good at moving the ball out of the defensive area and down the field into scoring position."

Besides sophomore goalie Kevin O'Leary, key players to watch for on the Maryland team are team captain and midfielder Don Sadler, attackman Tim Worstell, defenseman Wingate Pritchett, and All-America Jim Wilkerson, who leads the team in scoring.

After defeating No. 6 Adelphi 14-11 in Manhasset, N.Y. March 28, the Tar Heels are 4-0 going into the weekend match. Brent Voelkel and Michael Burnett lead the team with eight goals and three assists apiece. Goalkeeper Tom Sears has 47 saves to his credit.

The next game for UNC will be Saturday, April 10 in Baltimore against No. 2 Johns Hopkins. The game will be played before a sell-out crowd of 12,000, but UNC has 200 tickets available. Tickets, $3 for adults and $2 for students, will be sold at the ticket office in Carmichael Auditorium.

Hunter shoots for UNC

DURHAM—Curtis Hunter, Southern Durham High School's multi-talented All-America, continued to make this a dream week for Dean Smith, ending months of speculation by announcing his decision to attend UNC at a press conference Thursday.

The 6-foot-4½ inch Hunter will now join fellow McDonald's and Parade's All-America teammate Brad Daugherty of Swannanoa Owen High School as a member of Carolina's incoming freshman class. Guard Steve Hale of Jenks, Okla., has also made a verbal commitment to join the UNC team.

Contrary to previous rumors, Duke was not near the top of Hunter's final list of five schools, which included Georgetown, N.C. State and DePaul.

"Georgetown was definitely number two," said Hunter, who averaged 22 points and 12 rebounds per game while leading Southern to the state 3A semifinals and a 26-2 record.

Hunter said becoming part of an established program was important. "I knew if I went to a school where I was the only star that it would be just like high school with three players going after me every game, like it was for Vince Taylor at Duke last year," he said.

Hunter said he was not pulling for either team in the NCAA Finals Monday night, and that Carolina's national chamampionship had no effect on his decision. "The biggest reason to stay in North Carolina was that my mother wanted me to. I wouldn't leave her for anything," he said.

"Carolina was the school I was most comfortable with. They treated me the same every time. I was so used to the atmosphere and got close to the players. I'm close to Michael, Jimmy, Matt, James ... practically the whole team."

Smith said he planned to make a point guard out of Hunter, who played center for Southern.

"He is a very quick athlete who will be a candidate for a position at big guard or small forward," Smith said. "He has the ability to eventually even play point guard for us. He is an outstanding young man in all respects. He is a fine student and is highly recommended by his principal."

Hunter said he was not worried about whether or not he would start at Carolina. "People were saying I wouldn't start here, but if I play a sixth-man (role) I might as well be the starter because I'll play as much."

Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski was Hunter's most dogged recruiter, attending nearly every Southern home game. Even Hunter's girlfriend, who is a Duke fan, could not sway his decision.

He plans to attend summer school and hopes to major in either computer science or a field that has "something to do with children."
